Junior Farmers of County
Will Compete On March 6
— Winners Go To Orono

The Hastings County Seed Judging Competition for 1945 is being held in Stirling, on Tuesday, March 6th. This has become a very popular event with the Junior Farmers in the County and is open to all farmers and farmers' sons, resident on farms in Hastings County, under 23 years of age, on March 1st, 1945. The boys are asked to judge 10 classes of cereal grains and clover seeds, and also identify 15 weeds. This is a very fine training for the Junior Farmers and the boys who take part in the competition receive a great deal of useful instruction which can be applied to good advantage in selecting grain and seeds for use on the farm. Boys who take part in this competition from year to year have a greater appreciation of the value of good seed.

Mr. J. W. Haggerty, County Treasurer, has donated a trophy for the high contestant in the competition. There are also two sterling silver medals, one donated by Mr. H. R. Tompkins, editor of the Stirling News-Argus, and one by Mr. H. L. Fair, Agricultural Representative, Stirling. A number of good prizes in cash are also offered.

Register Revolvers

Owners of revolvers and pistols are warned by the police that these weapons must be re-registered for another five-year period before July 1 of this year.

The order applies only to revolvers and pistols and not to rifles, shotguns and other similar firearms.

Several inquiries have been made whether it is necessary to register revolvers that were brought to Canada from overseas as war souvenirs. The answer to that question is in the affirmative. Whether these revolvers and pistols were obtained during the first great war or during the present conflict they must be registered.

Belleville Oust 'Combines'

Take Series in Two Straight Games — Winners Meet Kingston Victorias Tonight

Belleville juniors won the junior B group here Monday night when they outscored the Stirling-Marmora Combines 4 to 2 in the second game of the final playoff series.

The game was marred by the unsportsmanlike actions of a number of fans who swarmed over the boards and battled with the visiting players in the third period.

The Belleville sextette took both ends of a two-game series and now meet the Kingston Victorias in the first round of the junior "B" play-downs in O.H.A. with the first game slated to be played in Belleville Thursday.

Belleville were a shade too good all the way. They outscored the Combines 2 to 1 in the first period, got the only goal in the second and split two markers with the losers in the final 20 minutes.

The winners, showing fine passing, kept Combines on the defensive in the first period and only sensational stops by McInroy kept the score down. Barrett put the invaders ahead on a play with Meagher at 2 minutes and Combines tied it up eight minutes after with Trumble doing the scoring. In the second period with the ice becoming very sticky, the hockey degenerated into a hit-and-run brand with heavy body checking and frayed tempers that caused frequent penalties. B. Meagher got the only goal for Belleville.

In the final session play was even, with a goal each, Goodchild and Holway being the scorers.

The Meagher brothers and Holway starred for Belleville while Utman, on defence and Courtney, Bastedo, Trumble and Cousins were best for the Combines. McInroy also played a star game in the nets.

The teams and summary:
Belleville: Goal, Fitzpatrick; defence, Holway, Green; centre, Barrett; wings, L. Meagher, B. Meagher; alternates, Moher, Day, Greatrix, Reeves, Lyall.

Combines: Goal, McInroy; defence, Utman, Wright; centre, Cousins; wings, Goodchild, Trumble; alternates, Bastedo, Stapley, Courtney, Lavender, Nelson, Whitehead.

Referee, Puffer; linesman, Burchill.

(B. Meagher) 16:43

Penalty—Holway.

Second Period

4—Belleville, B. Meagher

(Holway) 2:20

Penalties—Cousins, 2; Lavender, 2; Utman, Green, 2, Holway.

Zion-W. Hunt. Win Over Madoc

Thrilling Game Witnessed By Large Crowd — Second Game In Madoc Monday

In a game featured by sparkling combination and good goal tending, Zion-West Huntingdon "Combines" defeated Madoc last night at Madoc by a score of 4-2. The game was the first of a 2 of 3 championship series between the "Combines", winners of the Centre Hastings Rural League, and the winners of the Madoc League, and was witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiastic fans. The entire series will be played at Madoc, the second game to be played on Monday night, March 6th.

The "Combines" forced the pace from the opening whistle and were rewarded at the five minute mark when R. Sills took a pass from Thompson to beat Carswell and take a lead they never relinquished. Fischer evened the count two minutes later, assisted by Foot, but R. Sills again gave the Combines the lead when he tallied late in the period on a pass from "Chuck" Wright.

The middle stanza saw the play go from end-to-end with thrilling rushes by both teams and some exceptionally fine work by the rival goalies gave the fans plenty of thrills, "Chuck" Wright got the only counter of the period to give the "Combines" a 3-1 lead.

In the final period, Ray counted for the "Combines" and Caverley, assisted by White, tallied for the losers. The final score was 4-2.

For the losers, Fischer, a former senior O. H. A. player, headed the attack, while Carswell in the nets turned aside a shower of rubber during the game. Every member of the "Combines" squad played good hockey and it would be unfair to pick a star, but Gifford in goal, and R. Sills and "Chuck" Wright are deserving of special mention for their efforts.

The line-ups—
"Combines"—Goal, Gifford; defence, Thompson and Brough; centre, A. Tummon; wings, G. Tummon and Ray; alternates, R. Sills, L. Sills, C. Wright, K. Kingston and D. Wright.

Madoc—Goal, Carswell; defence, Caverley and Lewis; centre, Fischer; wings, Reynolds and White; alternates, Johnston, Foot, R. McCoy and L. McCoy.

Summary:

First Period

(Thompson)
Madoc—Fischer (Foot) 7.00
Combines—R. Sills
(C. Wright) 18.00

AVOID SPLASHING

● The season for the "splashers" is here again and many pedestrians have been unfortunate in having their clothing spattered with slush by those motorists who get a kick out of driving through puddles at speed enough to throw the water over the sidewalk. With the streets full of ruts and puddles motorists shouldn't forget that the pedestrian has certain rights and use extra precaution. It is worthy of note that courts have ruled that this kind of thing constitutes reckless driving, so should pedestrians who are splashed lay information against the responsible parties, it is liable to result in penalties being imposed.

HOCKEY SEASON CLOSSES

● Monday night's hockey game in the local Arena between Belleville Juniors and the Combines brought the season to a close with the former winning the group Junior "B" O.H.A. Championship in two straight games. The better team won the series and local and district fans will be pulling for them to topple the Kingston "Vics" in their next series.

The "Combines" have played hard, aggressive hockey throughout the season and have given the sport fans of the district plenty of entertainment. Some promising young players have also been developed. Thanks are due the executives of the Marmora and Stirling Clubs and the players for their efforts in making an enjoyable season possible.

DONATIONS TO RED CROSS ARE WORTHWHILE

● Everyone who contributes to the current National Campaign for funds of the Canadian Red Cross can rest assured that it is more than worthwhile. The stories being told by repatriated men of the Forces returning from the "twilight existence" in enemy held territory testify to that.

The rations doled out by the detaining power are meagre, and without the weekly inflow of supplies through the Red Cross, men behind barbed wire would soon weaken and sicken and become unbelievably miserable.

Sports equipment and books, forwarded by the Red Cross, have made the difference between monotony and a livable existence for prisoners of war. British and Allied prisoners who also come under the benefit of Canadian Red Cross parcels have warm praise for their worth.

The "proof of the pudding" is found in this unvarying mass of praise, voiced by all repatriates. The activities of the Canadian Red Cross Society . . . the generous contributions of loyal Canadians throughout the Dominion, and the energy and care that has gone into the packing and sending of shipments of supplies, has proven its worth.

Many lives have been saved. Many more lives will be saved. From the beginning of wartime campaigns for funds, Canadians have made plain the fact that they feel that the Canadian Red Cross does take good care of our men overseas—our men in prison camps—our "Brothers" who have been bombed and made destitute through enemy action.

This year . . . with the war reaching its decisive phase . . . Canadians are being asked to give a little more. The need is greater. Canadian Red Cross is depending on YOU! . . .

SAVING PAPER

● The Management Service division of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which has numerous contacts with retail merchants throughout the Dominion, has evolved a retail paper-saving program which dovetails with the Board's campaign to reduce its own consumption of paper, now in short supply. It carries the following suggestions for the retail trade:

Don't use bags or paper to wrap merchandise already packaged in a box, bottle, jar or can.

Utilize bags already furnished customer for additional purchases.

Ask customers to put small items unwrapped in their handbags or shopping bags.

Eliminate wrapping on truck deliveries where added protection is unnecessary.

Eliminate inner wrapping not necessary for protection, such as tissue, stuffers, bag-within-bag, other double containers.

Use one big bag instead of several small ones.

Don't use heavy wrapping on light packages.

Use bags instead of boxes or wrapping paper.

Don't over-tape or over-seal packages.

Don't use a large size bag or large size wrapping paper for a small package.

Urge customers to bring their own shopping bags and re-use those previously furnished.

Save and use all boxes and wrapping materials received from suppliers.

Don't burn paper.

Send all unusable salvage to salvage collectors or local waste dealers.

Re-use customer's containers in making exchange and adjustments.

Take proper care of existing supplies to avoid damage and waste.

Ask salespeople to urge customers to save wrapping.

READ YOUR INSURANCE POLICIES

● A majority judgment of the Ontario Court of Appeal should interest every person in Ontario who pays for fire insurance. The court held that the ordinary fire insurance policy does not cover a dwelling or its contents if the dwelling is vacant or unoccupied for more than 30 consecutive days.

Every fire insurance policy contains in fine print what are called its statutory provisions, meaning certain basic regulations imposed by the authority of the province. They should be read closely by the policy-holder so that he will not in ignorance do anything which might invalidate a claim. For example, an insurance company is not liable for damage caused by a fire which is the result of a defective chimney if the insured knows it is defective; or for a fire originating in a wooden box filled with hot ashes if the insured knows such a receptacle is being used for such a purpose.

The person insuring a building or its contents or both against fire needs to keep two things in mind: to deal with an agent or agency in whom (or which) he has full confidence, and to read closely every section of the policy. There are statutory clauses, for instance, on the storage of inflammable liquid in insured premises. Technically the insurance on a Summer cottage is invalidated if the place is unoccupied during the Summer without a special coverage permit being secured. All these and many other points in the small type the insured should study. He should not leave everything to the agent. An insurance policy is a contract, and both parties, no matter how much they trust one another, should give it the closest attention.

Another thought is that perhaps these statutory provisions need checking by the provincial insurance authorities. Perhaps that is done periodically—we do not know. It should be, so that changes may be made shown necessary in the light of experience and court rulings.—From The Ottawa Journal.

● Owners of sugar bushes in this section are already laying plans for the syrup making season. Opinions as to whether it will be a good season seem to differ but it is our hope that those who engage in this work will not be disappointed in either the quantity or the remuneration received for their labors. Farmers planning to tap their sugar bushes should get their equipment cleaned and ready for the opening of the season as very often the early runs of sap are the best.

THE POT CALLS THE KETTLE BLACK

The more we read about McNaughton taking Bracken to task for assertions regarding army equipment being thrown overboard and the more we read about MacDonald taking McNaughton to task for saying the North Atlantic was alive with wretched submarines, the more we feel that it is a case of the pot calling the kettle black, and the sooner the parties concerned forget it the better. . . . The election is over now anyway and the little boys should play better together.—Kemptville Advance.

RALPH F. TURNER

Sniper's Bullet Pierces Former Resident

R.S.M. Frank E. Turner, 30, of Kingston, a soldiers soldier who was born in barracks compound of Cape Town, South Africa, is the drill instructor at Camp Borden. His life almost came to an abrupt ending near Mount Etna, Sicily, in July 1943. "At the time I was company sergeant-major of D Company, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment," he explains. "The action was pretty heavy and I found myself cut off with 15 men. A Jerry sniper got me with a bullet through the chest. It came out my back. Later I learned that I was in a ditch for about 12 hours with others, some wounded, some dead. Eventually I was evacuated to North Africa and spent four months in hospital."

Back in England the sergeant-major qualified as a top-ranking instructor in drill and general training. Four days before he left for Canada he married an English girl. She is now living in Kingston.

Turner's father, R.S.M. W.O. 1 F. J. Turner, B.E.M., is stationed at No. 3 vocational training school, Kingston. Both Turners, members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, volunteered for active service at the outbreak of war.

The Turner family resided in Stirling for a time previous to the war and the father and son were employed by Munro Bros.

FARMERS look to the FUTURE

THE FARM COMMUNITY OF TOMORROW

By Kenneth Betzner, President, Ontario Federation of Agriculture

The farm community of tomorrow must be made more attractive if Canadian agriculture is to hold on the farm the aggressive type of boys and girls which will maintain our agricultural economy on a par with other industries.

Canadian agricultural income of $1,397 million in 1943 in comparison with $384 million in 1932 has put the farmer in a better financial position to make the farm community of tomorrow more attractive and so to hold more of our intelligent farm boys and girls. I am not saying, however, that the farm income of 1943 is extraordinarily high, in view of the 40 per cent increase in production achieved since the war began.

Nevertheless, farmers should endeavour to lay away some of this increased revenue in such sound investments as Victory Bonds. Individual savings will make possible the purchase, in post-war years, of new farm equipment now being developed by technological research. For example, lighter farm machinery will be made of durable alloys developed during wartime research. Savings will make possible the repair and improvement of farm buildings for which labour and materials have been impossible to procure during wartime.

Savings will make possible the electrification of rural communities, the erection of new buildings which will make working conditions on the farm more efficient, soil conservation (which must be practised by all farmers if Canadian agriculture is to maintain its present level of production), the improvement of farm fences and general farm beautification. Another use for money now put into Victory Bonds will be the improvement of livestock and the use of properly graded seed.

A post-war need which I would emphasize is the better education of our children.

Last, but not least, of the post-war uses of cash reserves I put travel and pleasure for the farm family. Many farmers, while their sons and daughters have been in the services, have been carrying on during wartime with little or no help and with inadequate equipment. Mother and Dad have carried on the farm production and, yes, in many instances have increased production. Surely these true patriots are entitled to a fair share of travel and leisure in the post-war era.

Now let me repeat that the farm community of tomorrow must rest on price stability—fair prices for what the products and fair prices for what the farmer must buy. I think it can be argued that the farmer by saving now is making a double contribution to post-war stability (aside entirely from helping the war effort with the purchase of Bonds).

First, farm buying power after the war will contribute to industrial prosperity and stimulate the domestic market for farm produce. Unless farm purchasing power is buoyant and strong all industry will lose one of its greatest potential unsupplied markets and unemployment must result. There can be no isolationism in our post-war planning since our national success is dependent upon the economic partnership of all groups and classes in solving our economic problems.

Second, by saving now farmers are helping to avoid inflation—and eventual deflation. Farmers probably would lose more than any other group in the event of a strong inflationary movement of prices, because farm prices tend to lag behind other prices when the movement is upward, and it would take another four or five years of struggling to get agricultural prices up to the same parity with other prices that they now have. And before that was achieved inflation might have turned into a crash which would, as usual, take farm prices to the bottom of the trough—if price floors could not withstand the impact. Farm prices lag behind when the price trend is upward, but they lead the van when the movement is deflationary.

Through price stability and proper marketing agencies at home and abroad the farm community of tomorrow can become the Utopia that our boys over seas are fighting for today.

NO ISSUE PERMITS FOR HAY EXPORTS

Because of domestic needs, no permits will be granted for the export of hay from the 1944 crop, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced. "Farmers and dealers with surplus hay who hesitate about selling on the domestic market are denying themselves the only market that will be available this season," states the Chairman of the Board. "Farmers who have supplies of hay and pressers are earnestly requested to do all they can to get their hay into the domestic market, so that those engaged in industries essential to the war effort are not handicapped."

According to Board officials, the shortage of hay is particularly affecting dairy farmers and lumbermen. In some areas, hay shipments are required for immediate needs.

DON'T DELAY ORDER YOUR SEED POTATOES

Demand from the United States and from other countries for Canadian certified seed potatoes is particularly active, the Agriculture Department said today.

In view of this Canadian potato growers are urged by the Department to place their orders for seed potatoes without delay. If they fail to do so they may find when planting time comes that seed potato dealers will be unable to fill orders. At present there are enough seed potatoes available to fill all orders that are placed; but if the orders from export markets continue to roll in as they are now doing, the supply may soon be exhausted.

Potato growers are reminded of the advantage of certified seed to get increased yield and a better crop.

Insects when in the adult stage normally have six legs, never more. In certain species, this number is reduced to four, or even less. Spiders have eight legs.

TREAT CORNS NOW

Growers of gladioli who have not already fumigated their corns should do so without further delay. Naphthalene flakes, cyanide gas, or methyl bromide may be used for this purpose. If naphthalene flakes are chosen, sufficient time should be allowed for a six weeks' fumigation period, and a month in which to air the treated corns before planting.

SMOTHERS SOW THISTLE

Alfalfa seeded on irrigated land infested with perennial sow thistle has smothered this weed in three years when the soil phosphate deficiency had been corrected, according to experiments carried out by the Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge. When no phosphate was applied, the thistles persisted.

STICKY FEET

On the lower surface of the "feet" of house flies and other insects are pad-like structures known as pulvilli. The skin pores through which exudes an adhesive fluid which enables the insects to walk on the lower surface of objects, for instance, on the ceilings of rooms.

RECONDITION SPRAY

Winter is the time to recondition all sprays and dusting garden equipment. Movable parts should be cleaned and oiled, leaky hose renovated, hose connections checked and tightened, and every effort made to put sprayers and dusters into first-class working order before the spring rush commences.

CANADA A BIG EXPORTER

Hon. James A. McKinnon, school-teacher, newspaper reporter, hardware merchant, credit manager, and now Minister of Trade and Commerce, recently stated that Canada is today the second largest exporting nation in the world—second only to the United States.

What's more, Canadian exports are on the increase. For instance, France which imported nothing whatever from us in 1943, was able to buy from us to the tune of nearly $16 million in 1944. Exports to the United States, Britain, Brazil, Chili, Colombia, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela, India and Russia all were greater than before.

"Of peculiar significance," said Mr. Mackinnon, "is the fact that the exports of the agricultural and animal products of our Canadian farms and fisheries were some $340 million greater in 1944 than in 1943. Such exports are likely to continue at a high level during the period immediately following the war."

ately following the war."

The total? During 1944 we exported goods at the rate of $12 million per working day—of which three-quarters were war materials. This huge war export figure is due to the fact that Canadian forces at home and abroad use only 30 per cent of our war production. The rest goes to our Allies, much of it under Mutual Aid, the plan whereby we send war material to those allies most in need of it, either in return for other goods or services, or as outright gifts.

LESS WHEAT, PLEASE!

With the year's wheat statistics in. Members of the Dominion-Provincial Agricultural Conference met recently in Ottawa, and recommended that Canada reduce its wheat acreage by 800,000 acres in 1945, and increase its coarse grain acreage to provide feed reserves for livestock.

The reason? Canada's wheat stockpile stands at 550 million bushels, and in spite of the fact that the Argentine 1944 crop is only two-thirds of its average 1932-1941 crops, and that of Australia less than a third. Agricultural leaders feel that there is plenty of wheat on hand to meet any demands made on it.

The Sunday school lesson was from II Kings xxii, and read: "Josiah was eighty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty and one years in Jerusalem."

On describing the lesson to his mother, John, aged five, said: "The lesson was about a good rain, and there was a little boy named, Josiah, and it began to rain when he was eight, and when he was thirty-one it was still drizzling."

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

Mrs. R. H. Williams was hostess to St. Andrew's W. M. S. meeting in February. The meeting opened by singing, "Take My Life, and Let it Be", followed by prayer in unison from Glad Tidings. Mrs. M. Tompkins read the Scripture from 34th Psalm. Roll Call was responded to by the word, "Love." Correspondence was read and the business discussed. Mrs. W. H. V. Walker and Mrs. L. Munro were appointed as a visiting committee for March. Mrs. W. L. Anderson gave a talk on the Peace Thanksgiving Fund. The offering was received and dedicated. Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Williams had charge of the programme. The hymn, "Love That Will Not Let Me Go", was sung, followed by Glad Tidings prayer by Mrs. L. Munro. Mrs. L. Rodgers gave a talk from Glad Tidings.

Mrs. Hoard read a poem, "Kindly Greetings," followed by a duet, "When I think of His love for me," by Mrs. V. Walker and Mrs. J. M. Black, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Tummon.

Mrs. R. A. Hermiston reviewed the opening chapters of the new study book, "The Church in the changing World", written by Basil Matthews.

The difficulty of the task facing the church in India was outlined. India—a country where thirty times the population of Canada live—presents such a problem because not only are there so many different religions but because these religions are also social orders. The Hindu order led by Ghandi, a lawyer educated in London, England, really has the majority in the Congress party and since Ghandi is a Pacifist and determined that India shall break away from any British domination and not ally herself with United Nations, the Moslems made it clear that if the offer of freedom given by the British through Sir Stafford Cripps were accepted they would rise in Civil War. The Moslems desire in separate state. If this demand is granted the Sikhs declare they will rise in rebellion and so the political and social strife continues.

The Church is extending its work each year by sending native Christians to the villages, which in India are really separate units. These leaders are teachers, preachers, medical attendants and agriculturists. Great work is being accomplished in overcoming the enemies of a free India. (1) Poverty and filth and lack of sanitation. (2) Illiteracy (Only 23 million of the 353 millions can read). (3) The caste system, so long a curse to any improvement in the way of living.

Britain has withdrawn her control and holdings until non-educated Indians are in control of all the industries and developments. The church faces hard, slow work in India, but progress is being made and it is hoped in the not too distant future some agreement may be reached between the social orders, and India will become an united India, with a Christian leader to help in the work of lifting the vast population to a higher standard of civilization.

At this time Life Membership Certificates were presented to Mrs. W. L. Munro and Mrs. B. Hoard. Both thanked the society. Hymn, "More Love to Thee, O Christ", and the Benediction closed this interesting meeting.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Hammond served a dainty lunch and the thanks of the society were expressed by Mrs. Walker for their kind hospitality.

D. McCullough, Halifax, N.S., became the bride of Donald Whitley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Whitley, of Trenton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. K. Blachford.

The bride was charming in a floor length gown of white satin and net made with full skirt, long tight sleeves, sweetheart neckline and a halo of matching satin and net with a finger-tip veil. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses and bouvardia.

Miss Neva Whitley, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, wore blue chiffon made on similar lines to that of the bride's with shoulder length veil caught to her head with matching flowers. She also carried a bouquet of roses.

BLIND SOLDIER PLANNING ACTIVE FUTURE

Sgt. Rynard Redcliffe, who was blinded in both eyes while fighting in France in July, 1944, returned to his home here Monday. To his mother who met him at the train, he said, "Cheer up, mother, remember I'm a soldier." To a number of other friends who greeted him he assured them he was "right in the pink" and with his 5 feet 8 inches and 195 pounds he certainly looked it. He stated he was "sitting on top of the world."

He returned to Canada from England, where he was a patient in St. Dunstan's, an institution for men and women of the Allied forces who are blinded on war service. Sgt. Redcliffe was there for three months and is loud in his praises of the place. It is really a wonderful training centre for the blind, teaching the men and women to do everything possible for themselves—to be really on their own, he declared. They develop a feeling of independence, and the feeling of helplessness disappears.

They are taught typing, Braille, telephony, massage, music, operation of Capson lathes, woodwork, basket-making and rug making. Semi-sighted men are taught shoe repairing. Sgt. Redcliffe exhibited a leather purse and a wallet made by himself. Pulling a watch from his pocket he announced the time to the minute. It was a Braille watch.

Further Training

Asked regarding his plans for the future, he explained that he intends to attend Baker Hall, Toronto, and complete his education. It is his desire to become a useful member of society, and if courage and cheerfulness mean anything he will certainly win out.

"Red" as he was called by his pals is proud that he is a Canadian. Although modest as regards himself he stated that the Canadians at St. Dunstan's were outstanding for their cheerfulness and optimism, and the nurses there remarked concerning this many times, even the nurse whom "Red" and another had picked up and sat in a snow bank one day just to show her how it is done in Canada. Injured By Shell

Asked regarding his accident, he was not so talkative. He recalled it was about three o'clock in the afternoon and he and his men were in a tough spot. A shell, which he thinks was a German 88mm, burst close and the lights went out. There were no wounds on his face and no pain. His left leg was broken below the knee, however, and four of his men also were wounded. They were given first aid, placed on stretchers, loaded on a jeep and in less than 1-2 hours were in hospital.

Sgt. Redcliffe thinks our casualties at the front are getting the very best medical attention that medical science can produce and spoke very highly of the courage and efficiency of these doctors and stretcher bearers.

Cause for Indecisions

With election "talk" in the air, it is said backstage along Parliament Hill that behind the indication or reluctance of many good political prospects to run in the next general election is the simple explanation, it is claimed here, that these prospective candidates could barely afford it since present financial conditions are most difficult for some of them. This is due to the explanation that the cost of maintaining a residence in overcrowded capital as well as in their own constituency and loss of time from their regular professional work, industry, business or other tasks render it almost impossible for many of them under present conditions where the seasonal indemnity is only $4000. In fact, expressions of discontentment have been heard along Parliament Hill on all sides. It can be heard now that the average ordinary member and Minister, even the Prime Minister, may be considered to be underpaid, especially when observers note carefully some of the salaries of high officials in Ottawa at the present time, though these officials do not have to maintain two residences, nor be elected. It can be pointed out, for example, that a comparatively young Montreal accountant and business executive, M. W. Mackenzie was appointed lately in Ottawa as a new Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce at an annual salary of $12,000 and another Montreal accountant, C. F. Eiderkin, was named as Inspector-General of Banks, at $15,000 a year. Likewise, another relatively young man, Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, is said to receive $30,000 a year as salary. Others, who are receiving comparatively high salaries in relation to the amounts paid to the elected representatives or leaders of the people, include Dr. W. Clifford Clark, Deputy Minister of Finance, $12,000 a year; Watson Seller, Auditor-General, $15,000, Donald Gordon, Deputy Governor of the Bank of Canada and head of Wartime Prices and Trade Board, $20,000, Dr. Augustin Frigon, General Manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, $13,000, J. A. Cross, Chairman of the Board of Transport Commissioners, $12,500, Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, President of the National Research Council, $15,000, and so forth.

Ability and Disability

The head of the newly created casualty section of the Department of Veterans' Affairs in Ottawa, Major Edward Dunlop, has stated in the capital that the Department believes that it is possible to re-establish almost all disabled veterans of this war. Indeed, in his remarkable statement he has revealed in Ottawa that it is the object of this Department to restore all these disabled veterans to their earning power and to give them the ability to have economic security since sympathy alone is tiresome to these men and charity is no security. "In general, the prospects for the disabled are good," he declared in part. "There are more jobs available for the disabled personnel than there are disabled service and civilian men in the Dominion. We hope to see them all placed in useful and profitable occupations." He also pointed out that industry under war pressure has shown the possibility of selective placement which is concerned with disabled veterans more so to their ability that remains rather than their ability that is lost. It may be added that Major Edward Dunlop himself is a blind veteran of this war, having lost the sight of both eyes overseas when he seized a live grenade dropped by another soldier and it exploded, though his brave deed saved several lives.

Without Lengthy Formalities

Since it has been reported that absentees and deserters from Canada have been allegedly picked up in the United States, it must be indicated here that these men can be returned to this country without some of the long legal formalities of extradition measures because, though the Canadian Provost Corps cannot act in the same manner in the United States as in Canada, yet, when these men are returned to the international border by American military and civilian authorities, they can be held by the Canadian Provost Corps. Meanwhile, it appears in Ottawa now from the latest report that about 1669 of them have been apprehended out of the 63000 draftees absent without leave in the last official disclosure.

 As a result of whispers heard along Parliament Hill of stories circulating in Washington it seems that the new

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
 Hydro Home Economist

By ANNE ALLAN

Hello Homemakers! The number one housekeeping problem during Lent is the provision of attractive meat alternatives. We highly recommend such substitutes as creamed vegetables, cheese casseroles, bean dishes, platters of fish and fowl, and egg dishes. A few of these have been selected for this week and we hope you enjoy their flavour and colour.

BAKED HALIBUT

2 pounds halibut, fat salt pork, 1 small onion, thinly sliced; bit of bay leaf (pick out whole spices), 3 tbsps. baking fat, 3 tbsps. flour, 1-2 cup butered crumbs.

Arrange 6 thin slices salt pork in casseroles. Cover with onion, add bay leaf. Place halibut over pork and onion. Spread top with fat and flour creamed together. Cover with crumbs and arrange narrow strips of salt pork over crumbs. Cover with greased paper and bake 50 minutes in moderate electric oven (350 deg.) removing paper during last 15 minutes to brown crumbs. Serve with White Sauce, using fat in pan in place of butter. Sprinkle with paprika. Serves 6.

MOCK SCALLOPS

Cut halibut in pieces about the size and shape of scallops. Dip in crumbs, egg, and dry in deep fat (375 deg.) or hot enough to brown a cube of bread in 50 seconds.

STEAMED FISH

(Cod, Pike, Trout, Perch)

Dry-meated fish are best for boiling or steaming as flesh will remain firm. Unless fish is to be garnished whole, it is better to cut into pieces for serving before boiling and steaming.

Sprinkle fish liberally with salt and steam over boiling water or soup stock with a bit of garlic in it. Steam is preferable to boiling as little flavour is lost. Save any juice that comes from the fish to use in sauce in place of water. Serve with a tasty sauce.

TURNIPS WITH CHEESE

2 yellow turnips, 2 tbsps fat, 2 tbsps. flour, 1-2 cups milk, 1 tsp. flour, 1-2 cups milk, 1 tsp. salt, 1-8 tsp. pepper, 1-2 cup grated cheese.

Peel the turnips, cut in shreds and cook in salted boiling water for 20 minutes. Make a white sauce with fat, flour, milk, salt and pepper. Pour this over drained turnips and sprinkle with grated cheese. Place over hot phase of the war against Japanese creases rapidly, with emphasis on the building of the great strategic Alaska staging route through the Canadian Northwest Territories and giant airport at Edmonton. Indeed, interesting developments are expected in the role which Canada will play in the coming Far Eastern drama.

Prisoners and Civilians

Nazi Prison Camp Studies Are Described By Student

Captain J. E. Thompson was wounded and captured at Dieppe in August of 1942 and was repatriated to Canada last September. He has written three articles dealing with educational facilities available to Canadian prisoners by the Canadian Legion Educational Services.

For the first time in our lives we tasted the fruits of leisure. We had time to think, to reflect, to read, to play—12 hours a day, seven days a week. But the fruits were not sweet. They were soured by the sombre shadow of barbed wire a few yards from our windows—The barbed wire that fenced 400 of us in an enclosure scarcely big enough to serve as a softball diamond.

Stifling boredom, deadening monotony and a despairing sense of frustration and desolation—these were the real fruits of our "leisure" as prisoners-of-war in Germany. They sowed the seeds of a lethargy that could be shaken off only by an extreme effort of the will, or by the sympathetic interest of the world from which we were temporary outcasts.

In the first hours and days of captivity, we had known the shock and horror of being wounded in action, or the frustration of being captured unhurt; the tension and excitement of evacuation from front-line areas to hospitals or prison camps in the heart of enemy country.

Then followed weeks—and sometimes months—of readjustment to "Kriegsgefangenschaft" in prison hospitals or camps: The first thrill of being welcomed by veterans "Kriegs" who had been "guests" since 1940; the genuine surprise and delight after 10 days of near-starvation, to find that each "Kriegs" received a Red Cross food parcel once a week, including 50 British cigarettes; the business of settling into the routine of prison life, where the element of time assumes a new and not-easily defined relation. The goading taskmaster of rectitude days at home becomes a spectral shadow whose "yesterdays" and "tomorrows" are merely "a little while ago" or "soon." The Germans had a word for it—"Morgen früh", which translates literally as "tomorrow morning", but which we came to understand as "a week from some Tuesday!"

We were in a special category, of course. Officer-prisoners may not be compelled to work, according to the Geneva Convention, and, according to our own code, may not volunteer for such work. Non-commissioned officers are in the same category. Other ranks must work for the enemy, so long as that work is not directly connected with the war effort.

For officers and N.C.O.'s, and for men in hospitals or in Stalags awaiting posting to jobs, time thus became an oppressive vacuum to be filled with sports or card-games or reading, as soon as the novelty of this new life had worn off. Conservation soon became a trial after we had lived in the same room or hut with the same dozen or score of men for months on end. It was into this fetid atmosphere of boredom and monotony that news of the Canadian Legion Educational Services for prisoners-of-war came like a breath of fresh air. There had been educational classes operating in Orlags and Stalags when we arrived in Germany, but they were British and were chiefly confined to languages or special courses, such as law, medicine, secretarial, sales and commercial courses, etc.

The Legion services were a real tonic from home. They were Canadian; they offered specific high school and university courses which would be granted official credit when we arrived home; and even for those who did not want to take specific courses they offered books by and for Canadians.

We had had reason before to be proud of our Canadian citizenship—

When we received our first Canadian Red Cross food parcels; when we heard prisoners of every Allied nationality declare the Canadian Red Cross parcels the best of all food parcels, and we received our Christmas gifts from the Canadian government, the Canadian Red Cross and the Canadian Prisoners-of-War Relatives' Association.

But now we had the special satisfaction of knowing the folks at home were not only interested in our health and comfort as prisoners, but that their sympathetic understanding of the problem of prison life had led to recognize how much we would appreciate the chance to make good use of years we had feared would be completely wasted.

Now we had a chance to improve ourselves, to prepare ourselves for post-war rehabilitation through our own efforts, to come out of prison better citizens than we had entered, better equipped to earn our own living.

How we, more than 2,000 of us captured during four years of Canadian air activity over enemy territory—how we welcomed that opportunity and how we made use of it I hope to describe in the second and third articles of this series.

CANADIAN AIR HEROES

Nearly 1,400 awards have been conferred on Canadian airmen for their daring, endurance and devotion to duty. From the start of the war to last November 1st, Canadian airmen won 52 D.S.O.'s, 916 D.F.C.'s, and 423 D.F.M.'s.

RUST RESISTANCE PAYS

Every year the Canadian taxpayer draws a 1,300 per cent dividend on his investment in wheat rust research, according to Dominion Botanist J. H. Craigie. He states that between 1939 and 1943, farmers in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan increased their farm income by more than $27 million by growing rust resistant wheats. This, says he, is 13 times what Canada spent in developing and introducing this improved grain.

FIGHTING ROT IN THE PACIFIC

The National Research Council here in Ottawa has been at war for months against the weather! The steaming jungles of the Pacific with their torrential rainfall and high humidity and heat are no place to store tents, tarps, or uniforms. Rot sets in, and in a few weeks the material just falls to pieces.

The Council came up with three protective coatings for cloth. Aluminum salts or a stiff wax containing a filler was used for waterproofing. Salts of copper turned out to be a first-rate rot-proofer. And for fire-proofing tents and tarps, antimony salts mixed with chlorinated wax does the trick.

Treating cloth with the three protective coatings makes it about 40 per cent heavier, but it is well worth it in the tropics.

DRIFT FROM THE FARM

I don't need to tell farmers that men have been moving from farming to industry, but the Dominion Bureau of statistics can prove it. In 1921, says D.B.S., 38 of every 100 Canadian working men were farmers; by 1941 the proportion had fallen to 32. This is the first time in the history of Canada that farmers have formed less than a third of the working population.

THE GOOD WIFE

There are various desirable virtues in wives, and those cherished in one country do not always find favour in another. In America a girl who wanted to marry an Army officer would not think of learning to make shoes as a preparation for wedded bliss, while in China she would be well advised to do so.

Leather shoes are scarce in China and priced beyond the incomes of all but the highest army officers. A colonel or a one-star general, however, can afford cloth shoes, especially if they are made by his wife. A good pair of cloth shoes will last a week or two, which gives the wife plenty of time to make a replacement.

Because of their meager incomes, it is difficult for Chinese Army officers to marry, which makes the shoe problem more troublesome. No matter how dashing an officer is the fathers of eligible girls are not likely to encourage him. One father in Yunnan, in fact, proclaimed publicly that no one could marry his daughter who could not show a check for a half million dollars, equivalent in purchasing power to approximately $1,000 United States.

As a result, the girl became known at the headquarters of the Chinese Expeditionary Force as "Miss Five Hundred Thousand." There are not many Chinese officers who could produce that sum, even to marry the loveliest girl—and the best shoemaker—in the world.—New York Herald Tribune.

Notable Canadian—Ross Munro

There's a new organization in existence—the Canadian Press War Correspondents' Association. Its first president is a fellow named Ross Munro.

You may or may not have heard him on the radio, but you have certainly read what he has written. For Ross Munro, 30-year-old ace correspondent for the Canadian Press, has been in every European campaign where Canadians have gone. Without arms, with only honorary rank, and with the status of a civilian, Munro has kept well up with the boys in front where the action is.

His first despatches from Sicily beat all the other 53 war correspondents by 7 1/2 hours. He followed this up by reporting without aid the whole of the 38-day Sicilian campaign, sometimes typing out his despatches at night by the light of a jeep. When the invasion of Italy came, Munro was in ahead again—by seven hours.

D-Day found him on the beaches with the Canadians, following them, wherever they went through France, Belgium and Holland. It was not his first experience on beaches, because he had won international renown for his first-hand reports of the Dieppe reconnaissance, and way back in 1914 he had covered the British-Canadian landings on the strategic island of Spitzbergen in the Arctic Circle.

Simple, quiet, friendly, Munro has been nicknamed by his friends "The Cleric" for his soft-spoken, earnest manner. Yet he is the hero of a real story-book romance. When the Cafe de Paris in London was bombed early in 1941, Munro interviewed a Canadian nursing sister, who showed remarkable coolness and resourcefulness in rendering first-aid, even to using champagne as an emergency disinfectant. She turned out to be Lt. Helen-Marie Stevens of Dunnville, Ontario—and now she is Mrs. Ross Munro.

LAWS OF LOVE

Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man.—Colossians 4: 6.

No one would ever love his neighbour as himself if he listened to all the "buts" that could be said.—Bulwer-Lytton.

To refuse to see in others that which one does not wish to express in one's self is to reduce the Golden Rule to hourly and daily practice.—Alma Shierbaum.

You only get rid of your enemies by making them your friends; and you can only do that by loving your enemies; that is one of the great "laws of life".—Sir Wilfred Grenfell.

His work is done, and we have only to avail ourselves of God's rule in order to receive His blessing, which enables us to work out our own salvation.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The Bible is the only source of all Christian truth;—the only rule for the Christian life; the only book that unfolds to us the realities of eternity.—Sir Matthew Hale.

JUNGLE FIGHTING STUDIED

It's certainly not a Cook's tour being enjoyed by a party of Canadian officers, but they are covering just as much ground! For four months they have been in India and Burma, serving with East African and Indian divisions against the Japs, and making a first-hand study for jungle fighting conditions in the Far East. Just how first-hand it was may be judged from the fact that one was wounded and is still in hospital, and another was captured and only escaped by quick thinking and decisive action. They are completing their tour by visiting navy, army and air force installations, and will return to Britain this month.

During a camping week-end an officer in the Home Guard saw one of his men trying to cook his breakfast over a very badly-built fire. So he showed him the proper way to do it, and explained:

"When I was in the Himalayas I often had to hunt for my breakfast. I used to walk about two miles into the jungle, shoot my food, skin or pluck it, and then cook and eat it and be back in the camp under half an hour. I suppose you've heard of the Himalayas?" he added unwisely.

"I have sir," said the Home Guard solemnly. And also of Ananias and George Washington."

DUSTS NORWOOD JUNIORS

The Hastings-Norwood Combines were eliminated from the Junior B group playoffs when they were defeated 6 to 1 by Belleville who took the semi-final series in two straight games.

TIMELY TIPS

On The Line

Tip for winter wash days! Fasten hankies and other small items with clothes pins to a towel before braving the icy blasts outside. Pin the towel only to the line . . . fewer frozen pins to undo and less danger of tearing. The pins that hold the hankies to the towel will thaw out in a few minutes when they are brought back into the house.

Fire!

Don't let your carelessness result in the tragedy and heartbreak that a fire brings. Most fires, you know, can be traced to carelessness on someone's part. If you are burning soft coal in the furnace, see that soot is not allowed to accumulate. It forms more rapidly than when hard coal is used and sooty chimneys are a serious fire hazard.

WHO IS SERVING WHO?

A New York lady went to a domestic servants agency and landed what looked to her like an ideal maid. She described the household duties to her, adding: "In our house, it has always been a custom to have breakfast in bed."

"Is that so?" was the chilled reply. "Yours—or mine?"

"Sah," said Rastus, the coloured servant, "dey's a man outside who wants to see you 'bout collectin' a bill. He wouldn't give his name."

"What does he look like?" asked the employer.

"He looks lak you better pay it," came the reply.

Considerable Comment

The only Canadian general officer on active service in World War II who won a Victoria Cross in World War I at Passchendaele and who wears five wound stripes, 56-years-old Major General George R. Pearkes has resigned as general officer commanding the Pacific Coast Command and ever since this resignation has been talked about considerably along Parliament Hill because it is held that the last has not been heard about this affair for two reasons. One reason is that his resignation was followed by a furious attack by the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. James Gardiner upon the alleged political sympathies of Major General Pearkes. Another reason is that Major General Pearkes was supposed to have declared at one time that "no man should wear the khaki uniform unless he is willing to wear it anywhere" and he was quite outspoken about this attitude on the draft issue. Incidentally, Major General Pearkes has been in the Army for over 35 years so that whether he retired voluntarily or compulsorily he is entitled to the same pension, with this being stated to offset any rumours or stories to the contrary on account of the fact that he had "resigned" or that he had "requested" to be relieved of his command, though he was four years under the usual retirement age for home establishment commanders.

Purely Personal

Huet Massue, M.E.I.C., well-known statistical engineer, has declared in Ottawa that the notion circulating that homes may be heated by electricity shortly in this country is neither practical, nor economical, with this widespread idea being almost impossible to be put into practice on account of the high cost and technical difficulties. Dr. Hugh L. Keanley-side, Canada's Ambassador to Mexico, has kept a watchful eye on the important meeting of Foreign Ministers of the Western Hemisphere so that, though he was not a delegate to this meeting in an official sense, yet he may be able to give valuable information about this conference to the Canadian Government.

Business Men To Meet

A meeting of representatives of the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce or Business Men's Associations in Napanee, Deseronto, Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Stirling, Campbellford, Brighton, Calborne and Tweed has been called for Friday, March 9th, at 5 p.m., at the Chamber of Commerce, Belleville. A large attendance is hoped for as matters affecting the business life of the Province will be discussed.

Appointed To School Board

At the regular meeting of the village Council on Monday, Mr. C. E. Macklin was appointed to the Board of Education to fill the vacancy occasioned by Dr. C. F. Walts' resignation.

Spring Just Around The Corner

Evidence that spring is just "around the corner" was presented the writer on Tuesday when Ivan Caldwell displayed a number of pansies in full bloom that he had picked from his garden. According to Mr. Caldwell they grew in an open space and were in close proximity to a snow bank.

St. Paul's W.A.

The March meeting of St. Paul's Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Elliott, on Tuesday afternoon, March 8th, with forty five ladies present. The devotional and business portion of the meeting was directed by the President, Mrs. R. B. Duffin. The meeting opened with the singing of the theme song, prayer by the president, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, along with all other communications received during the past month, also reported eight cards and two letters had been sent during February. Miss Della Caldwell reported twenty-one calls made during the month. All members of the W.A. will act as the visiting committee for March. Mrs. J. L. Good gave the report for the overseas boxes sent in February, and the boxes of chocolates sent to the boys and girls in service, in Canada. During the business portion of the meeting extensive plans were made for the annual St. Patrick's Supper to be given on Wednesday, March 14th, in the Church Parlours. Seven ladies joined at this meeting. A quota of $1,200 has been set for Stirling and district and canvassers will make a house to house canvass.

In making the appeal for a generous contribution in order that the Red Cross would be able to meet its commitments for 1945, the message of James Baxter, the publicity chairman seems most appropriate, as follows: "You think it has been a hard winter. Think how much more severe it has been in the battle grounds of Europe and in the prison camps. Then think how fortunate we are that we at home, putting up with minor discomforts, can put forth that extra effort in the name of the Red Cross to help our fighting men and the destitute millions in Europe."

Win T. F. Blue Memorial Trophy

Zion-W. Huntingdon Combines Defeat Madoc 6 To 2
—Take Series In 2 Straight

Flashing an abundance of speed and scoring punch Zion-West Huntingdon "Combines" defeated Madoc 6-2 Monday night to win the T. F. Blue Memorial Trophy in two straight games. The game, which was played in the Madoc Arena, drew a large crowd of fans.

The line of "Chuck" Wright and the Sils brothers again spearheaded the Combines attack, accounting for five goals, while Harold Thompson, defenceman, notched the other. Russell and Lindsay Sils got two goals each and "Chuck" Wright one. Thompson and Brough, along with K. Kingston and Don Wright formed a hard-hitting defence, while Gifford starred in the nets. The line of the Tummon brothers and Ray worked hard, but were outlucked when in scoring position. For Madoc, Fischer notched both goals and led their attack throughout.

The period scores were 2-0, 4-1 and 6-2, and the game was well handled by R. Utman, of Stirling, and White, of Madoc.

Defeat Frankford

A hockey team representing Stirling High School defeated Frankford on the latter's home ice on Monday night by a score of 6 to 5 after ten minutes overtime. Wright and Fanning; centre, Bastedo; wings, Tanner and Nelson; subs, Desjardins, J. Bush and J. Hermiston. The return game was played in the Stirling arena last night, with the locals again winning by a score of 17 to 7.

Red Cross Drive Under Way

The local annual Red Cross canvas for funds got under way this week under the chairmanship of Mr. J. B. Belshaw. A quota of $1,200 has been set for Stirling and district and canvassers will make a house to house canvass.

In making the appeal for a generous contribution in order that the Red Cross would be able to meet its commitments for 1945, the message of James Baxter, the publicity chairman seems most appropriate, as follows: "You think it has been a hard winter. Think how much more severe it has been in the battle grounds of Europe and in the prison camps. Then think how fortunate we are that we at home, putting up with minor discomforts, can put forth that extra effort in the name of the Red Cross to help our fighting men and the destitute millions in Europe."

Following are the canvassers.—H. Francis, H. Rollins; J. Lagrow; Roy Eggleton, Ed. Gorman; J. Good, C. Macklin; R. Patterson, Harold Wells; G. Bailey, R. Hermiston; Cecil Baker; Albert Wells; J. Cemetery Accts. Are Discussed

Regular Meeting of Village Council Held Monday —
To Meet Again Tomorrow

Accounts owing the local cemetery were discussed at some length by the village council at the regular monthly meeting held on Monday afternoon, with Reeve Wm. C. West presiding and all the members present.

Councillor Bailey, chairman of the Cemetery Committee, stated members of the committee and the village treasurer had gone over these accounts and found well over three thousand dollars outstanding. In some instances payment had not even been made for opening the graves while in others the total accounts was an accumulation of caretaking fees. Of this sum the committee had estimated only $571 as collectable as in many instances all members of the family concerned were deceased. Ways and means of collection were discussed and the committee was empowered to make an agreement with Treasurer Rollins re collecting the accounts.

The resignation of Dr. C. F. Walt, as a council appointee to the Board of Education was tabled and accepted and Clerk Luery was instructed to write him voicing council's appreciation of his many years of service.

The village water rates were also discussed and a bylaw will be introduced at a later date covering certain changes.

Councillor Elliott submitted prices received for the redecoration of the theatre but action was deferred until later.

The following accounts were presented for payment.

Stirling Hydro, $215.53; Stirling waterworks, $2.52; J. O. Forestell, $3.60; R. Rupert, cemetery, $5.60; R. B. Bell, to pay men for snow shovelling, $50.15; Dom. Store, relief, $10.01; Municipal World, $10.68; Sam Bowen, $13.95; Thos. Solmes, Insurance, $11.60.

RED CROSS WORK MUST GO ON

Canadian Red Cross is built on the outward expression of the generosity of the Canadian people. If it has a proud record of war service, it is because you, and your neighbour, the mother of a lad in prison camp, the wife of a sergeant in the front lines, your corner grocer—because all of you, pulling together, have written that proud record.

It is campaign time again. This March Canadian Red Cross is asking for Ten Million Dollars to carry on its tireless mission of mercy, and the need is greater now than ever before. Why?

Because the responsibilities of Red Cross have increased. Millions of people in the liberated countries are destitute. The highways of Europe are choked with hungry, homeless people. They turn to Red Cross as to a never-failing friend. It is our privilege now to live up to that faith—to help them in their urgent need.

At the suggestion of the Canadian Government, the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund is collaborating with Canadian Red Cross to bring help to these suffering people. By this effort additional aid will be sent to Allied Red Cross Societies for distribution to the stricken civilians of the United Nations. Already some 4,345 tons of relief clothing and food has been sent.

And that is only part of it. Food parcels must go forward to keep our prisoners of war alive, and in good health until they are repatriated and homeward bound again. We have news of the arrival of a shipment of one million food parcels for distribution in the prison camps in Germany. This lifeline must be strengthened now. This is the important "follow through" period that means life or death to many.

Our casualties in hospitals both overseas and in Canada must receive the consistent thoughtful care which it has been our privilege to provide since the beginning of this cruel war. The output of supplies and comforts must be continued. Blood serum must be in readiness on all battlefronts and in all hospitals.

And on the home front we are pledged to build Lodges in connection with the military hospitals in Canada where patients may meet with their kin in a homelike atmosphere, where their relatives may be accommodated if need be. Helpful services to the homecoming men and women of the fighting forces; to the wives of our servicemen and their children who will be our new Canadians—must go on.

Outposts hospitals for frontier settlements, nutrition service, home nursing and first aid and the work of the Juniors for crippled children all constitute a peacetime programme that must be maintained.

It would be folly to suppose that when the last shot is fired Canadian Red Cross could just fold its hands and sit back. Never in all history have so many countries been in need of immediate and extensive help.

When Canadian Red Cross asks for your donation—give from the heart. Give to Canadian Red Cross as you would to your own!

The death of four people from carbon monoxide poisoning in a car near Peterboro last week calls attention once again to this dangerous and insidious attendant of the automobile engine. Warnings have been given countless times against the danger, but there are still people who do not seem to know what this gas is, or how it acts. It is always present when motor fuel is being burned, but when a car is in motion, or when air is allowed to circulate freely in the tonneau, there is no danger from it. In closed parked cars, or cars in garages, there is always danger of carbon monoxide when the engine is running.

Nazi Prison Camp Studies Are Described By Student

"What a wonderful chance you must have had to study! Did you learn any German? What did you do with your time?"

These are typical questions fired at repatriated prisoners-of-war, and they illustrate an understandable, but nonetheless erroneous, concept of what life is like in the barbed-wired compounds of German prison camps.

Boredom is the chief complaint of prisoners-of-war which leads naturally to the conclusion that prisoners have little else to do with their time but to study or play.

But this does not apply at all to prisoners below the rank of commissioned or non-commissioned officers; the group classified in the army as "other ranks", who constitute the main body of the army and, by the same token, the largest group of army prisoners in Germany.

Under the terms of the Geneva Convention, other ranks are required to do whatever work is assigned to them by their captors, provided only that it is not directly part of the war effort. Definition of this exception is difficult and can be obtained only by appeal to the protecting power. Hence Canadian prisoners-of-war in Germany who are not wounded or ill—and not officers or N.C.O.'s—work on farms and road-building, in factories and salt mines.

Their hours of work are long and the work usually very strenuous, so you would scarcely expect them to spend their few hours of relaxation in serious study. Yet the amazing fact is that these boys do hunger for the chance to spend these few hours studying, and that they welcomed the Canadian Legion Educational Services almost as much as any other group of prisoners.

These boys live in wooden huts when they are out on "commandos"—the prison word for "work parties"—and hunger, cold and overcrowding are their normal companions. Their efforts to study under these conditions are a supreme testimony to their courage and strength of character.

But it is in the Oflags where Officers are confined, and in the Stalags where N. C. O.'s and men not on "commandos" are kept, that the Legion educational services are most welcome.

Even here, hunger, cold and overcrowding create constant difficulties. Quite a considerable amount of the prisoner's time is consumed in other essential tasks—laundry, mending, housekeeping, cooking, etc., to say nothing, of course, of the "security" tasks which cannot be described.

In spite of these handicaps, in Stalag 383—a typical camp—2,373 prisoners out of a total population of 4,686 were attending school on October 1, 1943. Classes were being conducted in 84 different subjects, ranging from accountancy and aerial survey to transport finance and welding, from chemistry and horticulture to motor engineering and applied mathematics.

One large building—unheated—had been partitioned (with Red Cross box-wood!) into seven rooms—still fireless, but permitting classes to be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

More than 50 out of 200 Canadians in one Lager (prison compound) at Stalag Luft III in December, 1943, were attending agricultural classes on swine breeding, dairy farming, sheep husbandry, bee-keeping, poultry and fruit farming, farm management and economics. And these were young airmen shot down over enemy territory often within a few months after leaving high school in Canada.

In crowded Oflags I have seen officers studying under most difficult—and yet amusing—circumstances. In a dining-room about 35 feet wide and 60 feet deep, without partitions of any sort, 12 and 14 classes were conducted at one time. Singly, or in groups of two, three or four, other officers were studying or attending classes on stairways in window alcoves, on a plot of ground 20 by 60 feet which formed part of the "outfield" of the softball diamond, in wash-room cubbyholes—or flat on their backs in double and triple-decker wooden beds!

Yes, these prisoners appreciate the Canadian Legion Educational Services more, I think, than any other single effort on their behalf, with the exception always, of course of Red Cross food parcels. Man must eat even before he learns. They appreciated the educational services for what they offered in opportunities to improve themselves and prepare for their eventual rehabilitation, but, most of all, perhaps, because they were concrete evidence that the folks at home understood one of the most critical problems of prison life and provided a most practical solution.

SLOW PROCESS

Some of the army deserters are being rounded up, but at the rate of capture it is a slow process. There are many people in Quebec province who seem determined to put every difficulty in the way of the military police in the discharge of the unpleasant task of rounding up these slackers. And yet Canadians of other provinces are being blamed for disunity. —Carleton Place Canadian.

SIDNEY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION MEETING

On Monday evening, February 19th, the Sidney teachers met at Wallbridge school with Miss Ella Phillips as hostess. Miss Verna Benas called the meeting to order. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Miss M. Pound gave the treasurer's report showing that we had bought $102.56 worth of books for the travelling library in Sidney. The fee of $1.00 per member was collected from the teachers present. Mrs. Jones, the sick benefit convener gave her report. After this Col. Vanderwater was called on and arranged the people in order for the farm forum broadcast on "Should Producers Control Marketing." Each group discussed the questions asked. Mr. Macklem thanked Col. Vanderwater, Mr. Fred Wilson and the other trustees present for coming and helping to make the evening a success. Mr. Warren invited the teachers to Frankford for their next meeting in March. Mrs. M. Campbell and Mrs. La Fontaine led in a sing song. Games were played after which Miss Phillips served lunch.

TRENTON POPULATION SHOWS INCREASE

A steady increase in population in the Town of Trenton between the years of 1901 and 1941 is shown in volume two of the last census of Canada taken in 1941, and just recently released by the government. In the 40-year period, the population jumped from 4,217 to 8,323. It is not far from 10,000 today.

MUST PAY FIRE DEPT.

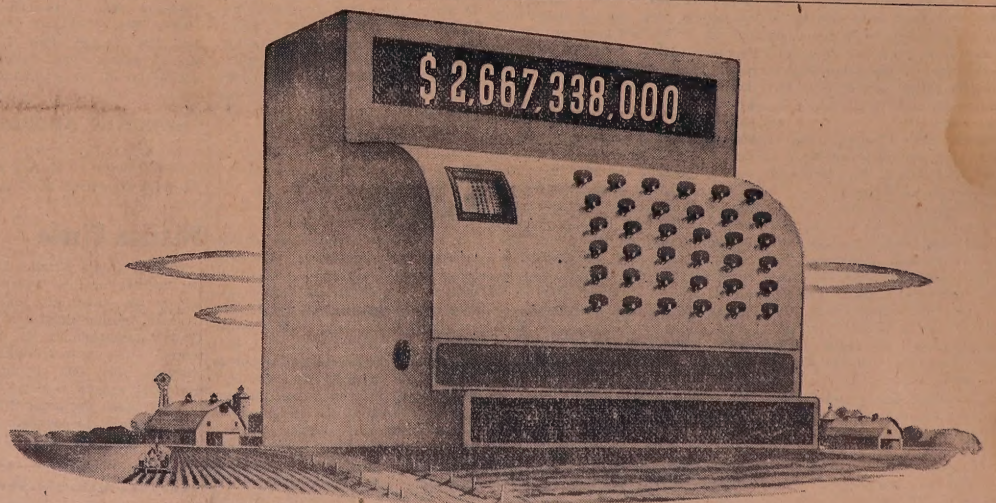

Upon recommendation of Belleville council it was decided that fire protection for township property immediately adjoining the city limits would cost rural municipalities $100 for the first hour and $50 for each additional hour that firemen should be required. The decision was made by the fire committee and the clerks of Sidney and Thurlow Townships are to be informed.

No official rate has been set to date to cover the costs of firement and fire fighting equipment attending fires in rural areas.

HOW MUCH OF THIS MONEY WENT INTO YOUR POCKET?

THAT'S A LOT OF MONEY! It represents the gross agricultural production in Canada for 1944 as estimated by one of the country's leading farm magazines. It represents the earnings of Canada's biggest primary industry.

Is the share of this huge sum of money which came off your farm as much as it might be? In other words, is your farm producing to the full extent of its possibilities? Could it be made to produce more?

You can answer these questions for yourself best if you are in a position to know exactly how much you spend and how much you receive in each of your farm operations.

You can know these facts only if you have some reliable way of keeping track of your receipts and expenses. We don't mean anything complicated... just the opposite—something quite simple, such as our Farm Account Book.

A few minutes at this book every day or so and you will know just which operations of your farm are doing well, which only fair, which are falling behind. Then you can take the necessary steps to correct matters.

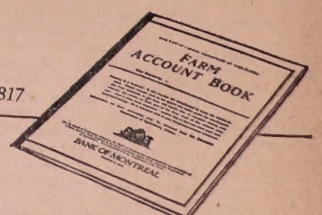

A copy of this book is yours for the asking. Call at our local office for a copy. While you are in, have a word with our manager. He will be glad to see you and to discuss any problems you may have in the operation of your farm.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

MAPLE SYRUP, SUGAR IS STILL RATIONED

Maple butter has been removed from the ration and will be coupon-free the same as maple wax and maple cream, but no changes either in prices or method of rationing maple syrup and maple sugar are planned for the coming season, states the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Prices set in 1944 on producers' sales to wholesale distributors, retailers, and quota users are unchanged, and prices to consumers are the same as last year.

The ceiling price for "farmer's run" bulk maple sugar is unchanged at 22 cents per pound, and the ceiling price for sales to consumers of maple sugar in one-half to consumers of maple sugar in one-half, one, two or four pound blocks is 35 cents per pound, regarding of who is making the sale. Consumers buying in person from producers must surrender the required number of valid preserve coupons. Those who buy by mail must obtain purchase vouchers at any local ration board, as it is illegal to send loose coupons through the mail. Producers who sell maple syrup or maple sugar must register with a local ration board, and the coupons and other ration documents they acquire must be turned over to their local ration board every month in envelopes provided by the ration administration.

POLLEN FOR BEES

In the past, the food supplied to wintering bees has been calculated largely in terms of honey, but it is known that pollen is also necessary for the rearing of new bees during the winter and early spring before new sources of pollen are available.

PREPARE VEGETABLES FRUIT FOR FREEZING

Whether fruit and vegetables are frozen commercially, or in storage lockers, or in the home, a general procedure is followed, said M. B. Davis, Dominion Horticulturist, in a recent address in which incidentally he gave a general outline of present freezing practices. Vegetables, he said, are first sorted, cleaned, shelled or cut much the same as one would do for canning or household consumption. Following this, the vegetables are blanched. That process consists of heating for a few minutes either by steam or hot water, in order to arrest what is known as enzymatic activity. The vegetables are then immediately cooled with cold water to room temperature or lower. After the preliminary cooling, the vegetables may be immediately frozen with or without being placed in containers (dry pack), or they may be packed in a 2-percent brine solution and frozen in the package. They are then held at zero (0 degree Fahrenheit), or slightly lower until ready to be consumed.

The freezing of fruit is much the same except that the blanching process is not considered necessary. After cleaning and sorting, the fruit is packed in dry sugar or syrup and is frozen. Like the vegetables, fruits are held at zero temperatures.

The system of packing eggs large end up is considered so important in Northern Ireland and South Africa that it is a specific requirement in the egg regulations in those countries.

MORE ATTENTION GIVEN TO MASTITIS

Dairy farmers are paying more attention to the control of a disease which affects many herds; mastitis. Dr. Mark Berker, Veterinary Director-General for Canada says that this increasing awareness of the menace of mastitis is probably due to Canada's need for every quart of milk that can be produced. Dairy farmers are now getting a much better price for their milk than in the lean years before the war, and the economic incentive encourages greater care of the herd.

Dr. Barker says that the increased interest in mastitis does not indicate that the disease is more prevalent than in the past. The greater concern of dairymen in controlling this disease results from their more widespread knowledge of its danger to their herd, and to their pocketbook. He believes that much credit is controlling mastitis is due to active work by public health authorities.

The Veterinary Director-General points out that although several new methods of treating mastitis have been developed in recent years, and that although some of these treatments are of considerable value both in curing and controlling the disease, there has yet to be developed any sure-fire cure for mastitis. The control of this disease, so expensive to dairymen, still depends largely on the precaution of sanitation and proper herd management. He says: "There should be less mastitis from now on as farmers become more conscious of the loss caused by this disease."

Any dairy farmer suspecting mastitis in his herd should immediately isolate the suspected animals. Then he should call on a veterinary for professional assistance. The farmer who makes the best progress in controlling mastitis is he who places his herd under the professional supervision of a qualified veterinarian. This is the practice carried out in Britain, where farmers frequently retain a veterinary just as some business firms retain a solicitor.

Farmers interested in getting the latest information on mastitis control will find it in a pamphlet published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. A copy of this pamphlet on mastitis may be obtained free by writing to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Momentous Meeting

The man-in-the-street across Canada can be told now that animated discussions behind the scenes in this nation's capital intimate the lively state of affairs in this country's preparation of plans for participation in the United Nations Conference at San Francisco on April 25 to create an international security organization for the preservation of peace in this world after this war. More than it has been made openly known has been the interest in official circles in this most important meeting and it has put into motion more heated discussions along Parliament Hill than any other international gathering of the past.

This lively state of affairs in this capital began even before the "Crimea Charter" came into existence following the momentous meeting of the "Big Three" representatives of Great Britain, United States and Soviet Russia since throughout this war Canada has been a sort of leading power amongst the other middle or smaller nations of the world. Various stories of Canada's view of leadership in international affairs have been circulating in the midst of the noise of many confused voices. Therefore, speculations have been abundant in Ottawa lately about Canada's likely role in the dramatic deliberations of the coming United Nations Conference on world security. These discussions have involved the interjection of proposals for Canada's representation at this history-making meeting and it has been most surprising how some of these suggestions had been publicized heavily in the press across Canada long before official views or reports were given to the nation by the Government, including suggestions of all parties being represented in the delegation, of a woman being named in the delegation, etc. In short, though official announcements have stressed the great importance attached by the Government to this meeting in San Francisco, yet these have not matched the preparations or discussions behind the scenes in the capital where some lively talks along Parliament Hill have accompanied the delicate decisions on account of the domestic political plans or situation in this country, these coming out in the open gradually and piecemeal from time to time at a later period. Political Potpourri

In sharp contrast to the rather dormant atmosphere prevailing in the headquarters of the bigger political parties in Ottawa only a short time ago, the Liberal as well as C. C. F. headquarters on the main street of this capital and the Progressive-Conservative headquarters, located only a minute's walk from the others, are humming with intense activities in a rapidly quickening pace and their workers are suddenly rushing about excitedly like bees in flight in getting ready for the coming general election, including plenty of propaganda or publicity in the making. Indeed, the propaganda or publicity machines of the bigger political parties seem to be well oiled and the paper shortage problem, which has been adding many grey hairs to the publishers as well as editors of this country, is not being helped any by these furious publicity campaigns in the making, if the plentiful and great supply of paper consumed for such purposes in the last Grey North by-election can be accepted as a criterion for judgment of the "things to come" in the general election. Moreover, the coming general election is the cause for a virtual flood of exciting activities in other directions before its actual occurrence since the party in power is in a position now to give some of its followers the choice fruit of the political tree, appointment to the Senate. There are no less than 18 vacancies accumulated in the Senate at the moment and since the last general election on March 26, 1940 no less than 32 Senate vacancies have occurred on account of deaths. If some of the surprising stories heard in Ottawa are true, it may not be a too strenuous job "to coax" some Ministers of the present Cabinet to go into the Upper House, especially those from Quebec where leadership is very weak, indeed.

Bank Profits

Net profit of the Bank of Canada for the past year has been reported in Ottawa to have been $20,312,659 after providing for contingencies and reserves. This profit compared with $15,685,478 for the previous twelve months period or only $1,638,762 in the first year of World War 11. Unprecedented Payroll

Behind the report in Ottawa of the amazing growth of the number of people on the Federal Government's payroll, directly or indirectly, is an indication of the changes which have taken place in the scope and extent of services rendered by the authorities in this nation's capital. Indeed, when it is remembered that another great "social security" or "rehabilitation" measures may get into operation in the very near future, this additional number of personnel on the Government's payroll may be most startling shortly. At the start of the last World War, 1914, there were 25,107 employees receiving salaries of $1,350,238 and at the beginning of this World War this total was 45,437 employees, getting salaries of $5,725,081. To-day, the latest information in Ottawa reveals that 140,000 pay cheques are sent out each month by the Federal Government and it amounts to $15,000,000, with no less than $51,000,000 being the amount of "accounts payable" sent out by the treasury offices in this nation's capital each month. In other words, it is said that directly or indirectly, when all other sources, such as the C.N.R., C.B.C., and other organizations of the Government are considered, the Federal Government's payroll must be compressed now of more than 800,000 personnel.

Important Decision Awaited

In view of the report circulating in Ottawa now that there is a desire in some quarters in Washington that the famous Canol Oil project should be written off as a practical loss unless the combined chiefs of staffs overrule such a decision, it must be emphasized here that this was not a "useless" project as the impression is being given on account of the allegation it should be closed, serving no good strategic purpose now. As a matter of fact, this $134,000,000 project was a scheme to pipe crude oil from Norman Wells across 600 miles of wilderness to Whitehorse where a refinery was to supply gasoline for war purposes in the Canadian Northwest and there was a supplementary pipeline from Whitehorse to Watson Lake as well as to Skagway, with these being on the Northwest Staging Route. In other words, the whole scheme was of tremendous strategic value in 1942 and, perhaps, even to-day, in carrying the war to the Japanese. Under an agreement, Canada will have the first option to buy the Canol Oil project in the Northwest Territories whenever the United States Government is finished with using same in this war. The Imperial Oil Company operates the oil wells and supplies the crude oil under a contract with the United States Government.

Recognition of Services

The Government in Ottawa is studying how to provide rehabilitation benefits to Canadian merchant seamen who have made such heavy contributions to the nation's war effort and who should be encouraged to remain in such service after this war since Canada intends to operate, it is claimed, a worthwhile merchant marine service in the interests of her foreign trade developments. This has been disclosed in Ottawa by the Minister of Transport, Hon. J. H. Michaud. To-day, it may be added that Canada has the largest merchant fleet in the history of this country, possessing 200 ocean-going vessels and manned by about 12,500 trained personnel as compared with about 37 such registered ships before the war as well as 1400 skilled seamen.

THE CANADIAN WAY OF LIFE . . .

A Chance to Go Fishin' . . . !

YES, and the right to go fishin' . . . the right to enjoy the simple, pleasant things of life! Picnics by the river—week-end trips in the old family jalopy—these are some of the things that your boy is fighting for today! And he won't be able to enjoy those things, unless we at home fight for him against inflation—unless we make sure when he gets back his dollar will be worth a dollar.

To protect his dollar, we must realize NOW the dangers of careless, unnecessary buying! We must buy only what we need—never buy two where one will do! We must not evade rationing or price control, or deal with black markets. If we break the rules, our country—the country he's fighting for—will start on that spiral of prices known as inflation!

Remember! Every time ONE of us breaks ONE of these rules, we're lowering the value of our soldier's dollar. We're helping to shoot prices sky-high ; : and sky-high prices mean inflation! The value of every dollar in Canada goes down, and when the men overseas come back their dollar might buy only a quarter's worth of goods!

We can prevent inflation! We can give our fighting man his "right to go fishin'"; if we make sure his dollar will be worth a dollar, when he comes home. We can't give back to him his lost years, or his lost youth. But if we keep up the fight against inflation, he can look forward to pleasant, satisfying living — the Canadian way of life!

Make this Pledge Today!

I pledge myself to do my part in fighting inflation:

By observing rationing and avoiding black markets in any shape or form.

By respecting price controls and other anti-inflation measures, and refraining from careless and unnecessary buying. I will not buy two where one will do, nor will I buy a "new" where an "old" will do.

By buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps, supporting taxation, and abiding by all such measures which will lower the cost of living and help keep prices at a normal level.

husband, Corporal Demorest who has been stationed in Prince Albert Saskatchewan and has been a member of the Eskimo Troop, saying that he had returned to Prince Albert. On Monday and Tuesday of last week the activities of this group was featured on the radio. We have copied a few paragraphs from the Prince Albert newspaper as follows:—"Toughened by six weeks in the open in temperatures ranging to 50 below zero, the 1750 men and officers of Canada's Eskimo Force, and their hundreds of vehicles passed in review on Sunday, February 25th, before Brig. Y. A. H. Trudeau, officer commanding Military District No. 12. Representatives of the British and United States armies were on the reviewing stand, symbolic of the international aspect of the exercise."

The Eskimo Troop completed a six week's tactical exercise to Lac La Ronge and covered about 370 miles. For the six weeks the men had no shelters, other than the special winter tents prepared for the exercise and the R.C.A.F. assumed the role of supply.

Mechanical equipment put to the test included every vehicle which possessed a potential useful role in winter fighting. There were bulldozers, snowplows, and graders in addition to wheeled vehicles of virtually every type and tracked vehicles from a large lumbering tank to bren gun carriers, weasles and others specially designed for use on snow-covered terrain.

The Eskimo exercise climaxed four years of experimenting in winter fighting equipment by the Canadian Army, Air Force and Navy. At headquarters this past week the following benefits were listed.

A winter road to Lac La Ronge.

A new motor highway to Montreal Lake.

A ten-mile Summer road around Bittern Lake.

During the trip Pipestone Lake which has been infested with parasite pests, was bombed and officials of the Natural Resources Department are hopeful that these bombings will be successful. For the bombing at Wapawekha or Pipestone Lake the United States furnished B-29's.

The general benefits include the building and improvement of roads, the resultant changes that may be expected in design of vehicles, clothing and shelters and also in the fields of medicine, dentistry, nutrition and hygiene."

Where's My SHUR-GAIN?

Just hatched, and hasn't had his first food yet! He's looking around now for a meal, and if he's fortunate, he'll find a plentiful supply of fresh, palatable, attractive SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter awaiting him.

Maybe you can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool baby chicks, nor can you fool experienced farmers with low-grade Chick feeds. They know that only a well-balanced highly-fortified feed will suit the needs of baby chicks. Baby chicks must have a feed that tastes good, that looks good, and that contains a very low fibre content. That's why SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is so valuable a feed for chicks. It tastes good because of its absolute freshness and its variety of ingredients. It looks good to chicks because of its fine colour and attractive texture. It's most digestible because of the choice of ingredients incorporated, that can be properly digested and turned into sturdy growth by healthy chicks.

Don't delay—order your supply to-day. You should have a bag or two on hand for the early first arrivals. Remember—a good, growthy start now means earlier production from your pullets, in the Fall, when egg prices are highest, and profits come easier!

A bountiful lunch was served in the basement at mid-night.

Hon. Norman McLarty, Secretary of State has indicated in Ottawa that 60 days is likely to be the maximum period intervening between the time that the writ is issued for the next general election and polling day, with this comment having been offered because of the report that Jules Castonguay, Chief Electoral Officer, had urged a delay of 80 days. . . F. W. Nicolls, Director of the National Housing Administration, left this capital for the west with the intention to study closely "on the spot" the housing situation in Alberta and on the Pacific Coast at the request of authorities in the West.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

By ANNE ALLAN

Hello Homemakers! This week we have devoted the column to Children's Parties. We were thinking especially of St. Patrick's Day, but you will find the following recipes useful in entertaining the youngsters irrespective of the occasion.

CUSTARD

3 eggs, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-4 tsp. salt, 3 cups milk, 1 tsp. vanilla.
Beat eggs slightly, add the sugar and salt and mix well. Add the scalded milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and pour into custard cups. Place in pan of hot water and bake in electric oven at 300 degrees for 45 minutes or until set (6 servings.) Top each custard with a green maraschino cherry.

ST. PATRICK'S ICE CREAM

1 cup of milk, 1 cup coffee cream, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup light corn syrup, 1-4 cup lemon.

Beat eggs until lemon coloured.

Add sugar gradually until the mix becomes a thick custard-like consistency. Combine with syrup, milk, cream, colouring and lemon juice and rind. Pour into tray of electric refrigerator and freeze with temperature control at coldest position. When frozen, remove to bowl and whip with an electric or hand beater until mix becomes light and creamy. Return quickly to freezing tray and allow to finish freezing.

ANIMAL CAKES

1-2 cup shortening, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 1-2 cups flour, 2 1-4 tps. baking powder, 1-4 tsp. salt, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 tsp. almond extract.

Cream fat, blend in sugar and beat eggs in thoroughly. Sift flour, measure and resift with baking powder and salt. Fold dry ingredients into first mix alternately with milk and almond flavouring. Pour into a shallow greased pan 10x17. Bake in electric oven at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Turn out of pan and cut out animal cakes by tracing a cardboard animal with knife.

GINGERBREAD MEN

1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup molasses, 1 egg, 2 1-2 cups flour, 1-2 tsp. soda, 1-2 tsp. ginger, 1 1-2 tps. cinnamon, baking powder, 1-3 cup thick sour cream, raisins.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Stir in molasses. Add the egg and beat well. Mix and sift the flour, soda, salt, ginger, cinnamon and baking powder and add to the first mixture alternately with the cream. Chill the dough. Roll out on a floured board to 1/8-inch thickness. Cut in the shape of a gingerbread man, using a floured cookie cutter or a paper pattern and a sharp knife. Place on a buttered cookie sheet and stick in raisins for the eyes, nose and mouth and for buttons down the front. Bake in an electric oven (375 deg. F.) for about 10 minutes.

HONEY COCOA

4 tps. cocoa, 4 to 5 tps. of honey, few grains salt, 1-3 cup hot water, 1-3 cups milk.

Mix the cocoa, honey, salt and water in a pan. (Sugar may be substituted for the honey.) Cook, stirring constantly until the mixture boils. Continue to cook for about two minutes, stirring occasionally. Place over hot water and stir in the milk. Heat. Beat with a rotary beater until frothy. Pour into cups.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. J. B. Suggests: A cookie time-saver. Instead of chilling, rolling and cutting dough, form the dough into a roll one inch in diameter; cut in inch lengths and place pieces of dough on greased cookie sheet. Press the cookie flat with bottom of tumbler which is dipped in flour.

Mrs. M. J. says: Make use of part rolls of wallpaper by papering the storage rooms or clothes closets, using the reverse side and adding a pretty border.

Again THE RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD GIVE!

Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed, pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men are on the battlefield or in hospitals are tormented by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded. It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and your neighbors, and all the good folks up and down this fair Dominion of ours. You will send help—yes, life itself—to the stricken people of other lands. You will stand staunchly behind your Red Cross, and—GIVE!

Happy Go Lucky

By MRS. HARRY PUGH SMITH

Champ Fields, managing editor and part owner of the Westhaven Clarion, was in a temper and he wanted the world to take notice. It was part of Barbara West's job to bear with the chief's tantrums. The Clarion was pretty small-townish in many ways. Barbara covered several unimportant departments on the sheet and also acted as secretary to the managing editor when necessary.

"I have a limit," he announced with great bitterness, "and Tony Blake has reached it." He glared at Barbara. She was a daughter of a newspaper man and Champ Fields had given her her first job. He had in his gruff way taken her under his wing after her father's death. "I realize I've said that before about Tony," he acknowledged, "but this time I mean it."

She was afraid he did mean it. Her hand trembled slightly as she inserted a fresh sheet of paper in her machine. If only Tony weren't so irresponsible, she thought, or if he were less lovable. But Tony was both irresponsible and lovable, and Barbara could not bear to think of his being discharged just when he was beginning to make good. "I don't blame you for being exasperated," she said, trying to sound soothing. "Tony can be the most exasperating person on earth, but he—" her colour deepened—"he's a peach of a reporter when he works at it."

"When he works at it, the devil!" snapped Champ Fields, eyeing the office clock. "It's ten minutes to the deadline, and where is he?"

Barbara smiled feebly. "Knowing Tony, I'd hate to have to guess."

"I sent him out on a special assignment. He's to cover the board meeting of the local Founders' Society. I explain they are a bunch of tiresome busybodies but they control the advertising in this town. So what does he do? Go on and tell me. What does that wild Arab do?"

Barbara shook her head. She was slight, with short smooth black hair and very blue, very straight-forward eyes. She was 22 and had been supporting herself for three years. She liked to think that she was a hard-boiled businesswoman. She was, about everything except Tony Blake. It frightened her how from the first she had been unable to be the least hard-boiled about Tony. She could merely pretend to be.

"I'm afraid he's let you down on this," she admitted, her eyes also up on the clock. "It was a mistake to put Tony on the board meeting. He hates small-time assignments."

"I'm getting out a newspaper, not running a bureau for temperamental prima donnas," said Champ Fields in an ominous voice. "Every man and woman at that meeting expects to see his or her name in the afternoon edition. The city editor is holding the space; the city room is tearing its hair. My life won't be worth living for a week."

"I wouldn't like to see you get in bad with the local swell-heads," Barbara said and produced a sheet of paper from her desk.

"What's this?" demanded Champ Fields with a suspicious scowl.

"It's the board meeting story," Barbara explained, her cheeks hot. "I was afraid Tony would give it the run-around, so I went over during the lunch hour and dug up what I could."

He looked somewhat mollified when he walked out, and Barbara drew a sigh of relief.

Champ Fields' face was not reassuring when he returned. "That's that," he snapped, "but don't think you've saved Blake. The minute I catch sight of that young galoot, he's fired. Get it? Fired!"

"Yes, Mr. Fields," sighed Barbara, "though I hate to see you lose a good man."

"Tony's all right in lots of ways," conceded Champ Fields. "You can't help liking him. He'll probably go far if he ever stops being a playboy, but he's not for you, kid. You ought to see that."

Barbara flushed painfully. "There Tony sniggered. 'Be your age, old isn't anything between Tony and me. He kids me when he's in the office, just as he kids all the girls. It doesn't mean anything to him."

"He's a born ladies' man," growled Champ Fields, but that's not the point. You're too nice a kid to get hurt, and if you keep on fooling with Tony Blake, you're going to get hurt, and plenty."

Barbara sighed. As if she hadn't told herself all that a hundred times during the six months she had known Tony, as if everybody she knew had not told her the same thing over and over.

"So here you are," said Champ Fields grimly.

"Yep, here I am," Tony said, his gray eyes dancing.

Champ Fields choked. "One minute to press time and you show up grinning like a fox. You went out to get a story, but that's nothing in your young life. The city editor can worry about that."

At that moment Champ Fields became aware of what Barbara had noticed the moment before. It was past the time for the paper to go to press, but the building was not shaking as it should have been with the thunder of the presses and down the hall the city room seemed to be in the throes of some internal convulsion.

"You've held up the afternoon edition because you're late with the board meeting story!" thundered Champ Fields. "I'll boil you in oil for this."

"Didn't I tell you?" interrupted Tony, winking at Barbara. "I took myself off the board meeting yarn."

"You took yourself off!" roared Champ Fields in a bedeviled voice.

Tony laughed. "You're going to love this, Chief. But we've got to work fast. We ought to have the extra on the street in fifteen minutes. All about local reporter recognizing the Kelly kidnaper on the street this afternoon and rescuing the child and everything."

Champ Fields clutched his brow.

"Have you gone crazy?"

"Nope," said Tony. "I did recognize the Kelly child this afternoon. She was in a car with a bearded man. I took after them in my little of fiver, tracked them to a trailer camp outside the city limits, and called the cops. It's the berries, Chief. The guy's confessed. They've got him and the kid over at headquarters now and have sent for her folks. The city ed's put everybody on the story."

"My God!" mumbled Champ Fields, staggering to his feet. "It's the biggest story this town has seen since the last war."

For the next hour pandemonium reigned at the Clarion offices. Nobody took time for a deep breath until the extras were on the street and then, holding his head in his hands, the managing editor collapsed in his desk chair and stared morosely at Tony Blake who was lounging in the doorway, grinning over his cigarette.

"You think you've got me where the hair is short don't you?" growled Fields.

"More or less," admitted Tony.

"Looks as if I should rate a small boost in the old pay envelope."

"All right, all right," conceded Fields wearily. "I fired you, so now I'll hire you back at a five-dollar raise. Only mark my words, Blake, some day you're going to come a cropper."

Tony grinned. "Don't worry about me, Chief. I'll get by."

"It's not you I'm worrying about," snapped Champ Fields. "Your kind always gets by, worse luck!" Still scowling he stumped out of the office.

Tony went over to Barbara's desk. She pretended to be busy. "Nice weather we're having, Miss West," he remarked.

Barbara looked bored. "Yes, isn't it? she asked, going right on with her typing. "Don't let me detain you, Mr. Blake, if you have anything else to do."

dear. If I had anything else to do, I'd be doing it.

Barbara smiled sweetly. "You're telling me. What's the matter? Have all the other girls gone home?"

"Yep," said Tony. "It was pretty swell of you to cover me on the board meeting, sugar."

Barbara flushed. "The Chief would have been in the hole without it, and he's a grand person. I couldn't bear him to get the worst of it."

"I figured that's why you did it," Tony said. "To help the paper out, I mean. I know you can't be bothered about a fish like me. To you I'm just something that comes up on the job every day, like time sheets and invoices and nuisances like that. Right?"

"What do you think?" asked Barbara with a grin but her lips, too, were not quite steady.

"Just the same," said Tony in a casual voice, "I figure I owe you a feed. How about dinner in a little while? You know, me and you and a table for two."

"Suits me," she said coolly. "I have to eat."

Tony was waiting downstairs when Barbara came out of the building. He was humming under his breath. "When did you leave heaven?" He smiled at her and went on humming. It after he took her arm. His touch made Barbara's heart skip a beat. She turned instinctively toward the small, shabby cafe across the street where the newspaper crowd hung out, but Tony steered her to his battered car.

"We're dining in style, Miss West," he announced. "Hadn't you heard? The Kelly family feels so darned grateful, it insists on making me a little present. Sort of reward money, you know. Five hundred dollars, if you like your figures exact."

"I've had to be exact about figures," said Barbara, looking a little severe. "I've also had to learn the value of money. In case you haven't been informed, five hundred dollars will stretch only so far."

"So what, sugar?" inquired Tony, helping her into his dilapidated roadster.

"Why don't you pay your debts, Tony, and get even for a change?" asked Barbara.

Tony was the idolized only son of a widowed mother who lived in a small town halfway between Westhaven and New York. Tony's father had been married before. There was a spinster daughter by this marriage, named Lily, and Mrs. Blake had an eighteen-year old daughter of her own. However, so far as Barbara could find out, nobody counted with his mother except Tony. She had a small income, hardly adequate for her needs, but she had lent Tony the money to go through Columbia University at considerable sacrifice to herself.

"You could at least pay your mother part of what you owe her," said Barbara.

Tony grinned. "Mama doesn't care if I never pay her, sugar."

"Just the same," she insisted, "you should do it."

Tony laughed. "Come on, kid. This is a celebration. Snap out of it. You've got the healthiest conscience I ever met, but forget it tonight. We're out to have fun and I mean to see you have it."

Barbara surrendered. It was breathtaking just to be in his arms. "Did I remember to tell you I adore you?" sang Tony, his lips against Barbara's cheek. "That was swell," said Tony when the music ended. "Have I ever told you, Miss West, that you're not bad at tripping the light fantastic?"

"You'll get by yourself in a pinch," Mr. Blake," said Barbara, trying to match his breeziness.

Tony pulled out her chair for her. He stood leaning over it, staring down at her with a smile. Barbara was extremely conscious of his nearness. I never know how I stand with you, Yes, sir," he said, softly, "you've had me going around in circles, sugar, right from the start."

"Not really?" murmured Barbara, hating it because her voice trembled.

"Yes, really," said Tony and sat down across from her. "I guess I'm the world's worst bet matrimonially."

said Tony. "I mean, after all, I'm a spendthrift and—well, if I were to ask a girl like you to marry me she'd probably laugh in my face, don't you think?"

Barbara caught her breath. "Are you trying to make love to me, Tony?" she stammered.

"I have ever since the first time I saw you. You're such a swell girl."

Barbara's lashes were wet. "You're pretty nice yourself, Mr. Blake."

Tony flung a distracted glance around him at the crowded dining room. "Let's dance," he said. He held her tightly. "Let's get out of here," he said when the music ended. (To be Continued)

Seven-year-old Tommy is no mental giant, but stoutly refuses to harbor an inferiority complex. When someone asked how he was getting along at school he replied: "I think I'm doing all right. I'm the fastest one in the slow group."

St. Paul's W.M.S. Hold Meeting

Splendid Programme Arranged By Mrs. Bradburn's Group — Lunch Served

The regular monthly meeting of St. Paul's Woman's Missionary Society, was held at the home of Miss D. Caldwell, on Tuesday afternoon, March 13th.

At the close of the opening exercises, the roll was called and minutes of previous meeting read. The corresponding Sec. read extracts from the annual report of Battle River Hospital where our missionary nurse, and Miss Dorothy Powell, R.N., a niece of Miss Caldwell are stationed. The report stresses the inadequacy of accommodation to meet the needs of a growing community, so a special collection was taken to aid in the extension or equipment needs of the hospital. After the dedication of a very generous offering the president conducted the afternoon's business.

The Annual Presbyterial was announced for April 19th in Holloway St. Church, Belleville. The secretaries present, reported for their departments and correspondence was read by Miss D. Caldwell. Mrs. H. David, Mrs. A. Armstrong and Mrs. J. B. Thompson were appointed prayer leaders for April meeting. The treasurer's report was given and Mrs. E. G. Bailey read a letter from Mrs. Trumppour, Conference Branch Officer on finances.

Mrs. Bradburn and group then presented the program for the afternoon, the theme being—"The Kingdom of God in the World." The following ladies offered short prayers and Scripture passages between singing of hymns.—Mrs. R. Duffin, Mrs. G. Bradshaw, Mrs. Sommerville and Mrs. G. White. A reading, describing the difficulties of a country minister was given by Mrs. Bradburn.

The Study Book Chapter, "The Church in Indo China", was given by Mrs. A. Armstrong. After describing the physical and political geography of the country the speaker told of the different religions. These vary from worship of nature and fear of spirits to a mixture of Confucianism, Buddhism, and Taoism. The natives are not simple or vacant minded but are filled with fears of different kinds. The constant thought in the minds of the missionaries is what means they can find to interest these people in the love of God, knowing that such love casteth out fear.

Mrs. Harold West contributed a solo, "Jesus Still Remembers when the World Forgets", which gave added enjoyment to the splendid afternoon's programme. Miss Mae Currie was accompanist.

Mrs. Bradburn and group served a delicious lunch and the thanks of all present to these ladies and the hostess was expressed by Mrs. R. Christie.

Ladies on committee were:—Mrs. Bradburn, Mrs. R. Duffin, Mrs. G. White, Mrs. C. Linn, Mrs. J. O'Neill, Mrs. Sommerville, Mrs. A. Stinson, Mrs. G. Potter, Mrs. A. Scott, Mrs. A. Vandervoort, Mrs. H. West, Mrs. G. Bradshaw, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. A. Weaver and Mrs. Sherry.

Boards of Trade Reorganize

On Friday, March 9th, there was a meeting held at Belleville for the purpose of considering the reorganizing of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce. This is one of a series of district meetings. At the Belleville meeting the following places were represented, Belleville, Napanee, Brighton, Deseronto, Trenton, Tweed, Colborne, Frankford.

A motion was carried unanimously that those present report back to their Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce or Business Men's Association the endorsement of the proposed revitalizing of the Ontario Association. There was no one present from Stirling, but it is hoped the business men of this fine town may see their way clear to co-operate in connection with this movement. One of the principal subjects to be undertaken by this organization is the Decentralization of Industry. This is of great importance to our town and district. It would indeed be a great help locally if two or three new industries could be secured.

L.O.L. No. 110 Hosts To Oddfellows

The spirit of goodfellowship and fraternal brotherhood prevailed on Friday evening last when the officers and members of Stirling, L.O.L. No. 110 were hosts to Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F. A number of humorous recitations were given by Mr. Alex Park, while Mr. Howard Ashley, the oldest Oddfellow present, delivered a short address. A quiz contest, "Know Canada," was conducted by Mr. Earl Fox, while the address of the evening was given by Mr. H. E. Hulin, on the subject, "After the War." Dainty refreshments followed by a social hour brought a profitable and pleasant evening to a close. The appreciation of the visitors for a splendid evening was ably voiced by Mr. H. E. Hulin.

Auto Crashes Through Window

H. C. Pitcher & Sons' Store Damaged — H. Tate, of Eldorado, Held Responsible

Property damage running into several hundred dollars resulted when a car, driven by Harry Tate, hydro employee, of Eldorado, crashed through the plate glass window of H. C. Pitcher & Sons' store, corner Front and North Streets, about 2.30 Wednesday morning. Neither the driver nor his three companions were injured in the crash.

Following the accident, Tate drove westward on Front St., but Constable Eggleton, who had been notified by G. L. Johnstone, local bank manager, who was awakened by the sound of the crash, succeeded in halting the car at the Frankford corner. The driver was placed under arrest and later taken to Belleville.

At the time of the accident the car was being driven south on North St. and on reaching the highway intersection continued across the sidewalk and through the large plate glass window; upsetting and breaking a cream separator, which was on display and a large show case, before being halted. The force of the impact buckled the brick veneer front and the shelving along the east wall of the building was shifted out of position. The car was also damaged considerably.

Balanced budget for 1945-46 fiscal year with forecast surplus of $69,323. Payment of one-mill subsidy to all Ontario municipalities with special subsidies to northern mining municipalities.

Continuation of present subsidies on agricultural products.

Plea for Dominion-Provincial conference to revise faulty tax structure. Saving of $2,282,487 in cost of interest and foreign exchange on public debt.

Postal Advice

Use of obsolete addresses on mail to the armed forces overseas is causing much delay and extra work at the Base Post Office in Ottawa. It is estimated that 21,000 letters and 3,000 parcels each month go to the directory section, all improperly addressed. Omitting the military unit from a letter address is comparable to leaving out the street, rural route and town from a civilian letter, he said. A main cause of this, it is felt, is the large number of mailing lists of church organizations, clubs and patriotic associations, many of which are now outdated, and should be brought up to date at the earliest opportunity.

'At Home' Held By Oddfellows

Entertained Their Wives And Friends — 25-Year Veteran Jewels Presented

Officers and members of Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F., entertained their wives and friends at an "At Home" held in Stirling Community Hall last night.

H. E. Hulin acted as master of ceremonies and welcomed the guests. The program opened with selections by Jack McCaughen's Trent Valley Ramblers, and was followed by a solo by Mrs. Walter Warren, accompanied by Mrs. Ray Shortt. Miss Barbara Fargy delighted the audience with a recitation, "Missionary Mite Boxes" and Jack McCaughen rendered a solo, playing his own accompaniment.

The address of the evening was given by Mr. Lorne Johnston, of Springbrook, who chose as his subject, "What Is a Canadian." Dorothy McCaughen contributed a solo, accompanied by Jack McCaughen, followed by a recitation, "Back Seat Drivers", by Miss Barbara Fargy.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of 25-year Veteran Jewels to Messrs. Henry Farrell, Arthur Vandervoort, Jos. Grills, Claude Tucker, N. E. Eggleton and Geo. Weaver. Leslie Blakely, D.D.G.M., of Madoc District, made the presentation.

Following a selection by the orchestra, Miss Barbara Fargy again delighted the audience with the recitation entitled, "She Powdered Her Nose."

Lunch was served and the remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing.

Ready for Signal

There is now clear-out testimony backstage in Ottawa that not only the main offices of the political parties but the official machinery are ready for any sudden calling and taking of the people's vote in the coming general election, with a quiet modest and courteous 63-years-old official who has been 37 years in the public service being, perhaps, the only man in Canada outside of the Cabinet who may know in advance or on short notice the secret of the time of the calling of the general election. He is the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada in Ottawa, Jules Castonguay. During his long service in this electoral work for the Federal Government, he has witnessed on many occasions the operations of the official machinery for taking the popular vote, including even wartime votes such as the famous 1917 general election in World War I when the excitement over the conscription issue as well as the interpretation of the voting rules reached a feverish degree or the 1940 election of World War II when everything had to be prepared by him on a mere 10 days secret notice. To-day, of course, conditions are considerably improved, particularly ever since the regulations about elections were re-examined and amended by an all-party parliamentary committee following the 1940 election. Indeed, just as the main office in Ottawa of the various political parties are practically ready for the coming "Battle of the Ballots" with policies and plans of campaign so the official machinery in this capital seems to be set in motion for instantaneous action from the moment that the signal is given to go ahead on a set date, with the first move being to telegraph the writs as well as final orders to the 243 returning officers and 60 days being allowed between this issuance of the writs and the actual polling of the votes. There are 243 returning officers because two ridings, Halifax, N.S., and Queens, P. E.I., each elect two members. Of course, in wartime elections, special conditions will prevail, including provisions whereby votes by proxy are taken from the next-of-kin of Canada's 5000 prisoners of war, those next-of-kin having two votes under the circumstances.

More Fuel to the Fire

In the course of an explanation for the latest actions of the Federal Government including those in the brief session of Parliament to ask for essential appropriations or interim supply, Premier Mackenzie King has declared that he wanted all political parties to co-operate in the speedy discharge of this essential business of Parliament, leaving other issues to be settled by the electorate and the new Parliament. In addition, he has stressed another important point and this has caused much widespread discussion both inside and outside of this country. This has been a declaration of the Prime Minister which has been interpreted as possibly meaning that as soon as the war against Germany is ended Canadian troops might start returning home in large numbers. Since in other Allied countries, especially in the United States, the end of the war against Germany has implied only the end of one phase of the conflict and the beginning of the great struggle against Japan, any such suggestion or impression is bound to cause resentment or bitterness in these other capitals, particularly Washington, where lately again and again and again there have been strong official reminders that the American troops will move to the Far East, just as soon as the "job" is ended in Europe. Indeed, even any loose remark about the end of the war in Europe allowing an easing up in the war's intensification at home or abroad is disliked in these other capitals. In short the Prime Minister's declaration should not be misinterpreted since there was no intention on his part whatsoever to create any such excessively hopeful or optimistic impression about the troops returning immediately after the defeat of Germany since Canada intends to play her full and complete role alongside of the Allies in the war against Japan and until final victory over all enemies has been achieved.

Important Statement

The Deputy Minister of Veterans' Affairs in Ottawa, Walter S. Woods, has made an important statement which will interest a great many people across Canada. This high official who is closely associated with the welfare and happiness of the men and women of Canada's armed forces after they leave the services, declared in part: "Almost one hundred per cent of the veterans would rather work than live on the State. I am not a bit afraid of discharged servicemen reclining on any class of benefits provided. Have no fear—if they are physically fit to work and there is work available they will work."

Concrete Results

The authorities in this capital are beginning to take cognizance of the concrete results from the vocational and higher training efforts initiated for the sole benefit of the Canadian men and women veterans of this war. Several high officials have come forth in Ottawa with reports of such results and these have shed strong light on

FARMERS IN KHAKI

Canada's sons of the soil now bearing arms overseas are being kept in touch with agricultural matters at home by means of CBC's powerful short wave station at Saskatoon, N.B. Fergus Muir, former B.C. farmer and now assistant supervisor of the farm broadcast department is the man who reports to them each week.

the practical side of the re-establishment legislation of Canada, with the legislation itself having been termed "the best in the world." "Some of the finest libraries in the country are in the R.C.A.F. stations across Canada," said in the capital Group Capt. H. R. Low, Director of Education, R.C.A.F. "They are superior to many public libraries and any book asked for can be had." This high official stated that opportunities for the study of vocational training existed in the Canadian armed forces for every man or woman. Another top-ranking official, Dr. G. S. Davidson, Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, has also disclosed in Ottawa that even highest educational facilities have been offered and used by the men and women veterans of this war so that by spring more than a thousand veterans will be back in various Canadian universities throughout this country, though at Christmas of 1944 there had been only 560 veterans back at the universities in full-time courses. Indeed, arrangements have been made in many universities to receive and to help such veterans in the future, including McGill University in Montreal, University of Saskatchewan, University of Toronto, Queen's University in Kingston, etc. So far only about 20 women veterans have enrolled but their number will be in the hundreds when these women will begin to be mustered out of the CWAC, WREN and WD of Canada's armed services.

Stole the Show

It must be confessed that the so-called "winner of Grey North" by-election which attracted nation-wide attention, Garfield Cast, has been making quite a "hit" in this capital, judging by the effects of his remarks upon his arrival in Ottawa to be sworn as a member of the House of Commons in order that he may take his seat for the short Parliamentary session this month. The victor over General McNaughton made several caustic as well as humorous remarks, such as a reference to General McNaughton as "Angry" McNaughton instead of his popularly called name "Andy" McNaughton; he said the Liberals "must have moved the Mint to Owen Sound" by the manner in which they spent money in an effort to win the important by-election; he expressed great surprise at the actions of the C.C.F., claiming that he "was surprised at the way they were able to control so much capital," though this happened in face of their Socialistic programme.

Anxiety Over Vote

When the Legislature in Quebec voted in favour of a motion approving anti-conscription feelings, it brought far more worry to the leaders of that Province along Parliament Hill than it has been indicated in the usual reports from this capital. Before this latest display of anti-conscription feeling in Quebec, the representatives in the Cabinet from that Province were quite anxious about facing the people there in any general election which was bound to come sooner or later in 1945 but now their position is even worse on account of the fact that no less than 67 members of the Quebec Legislature approved the sentiments expressed in this motion and only five members voted against the anti-conscription motion. It is interpreted that the strength or hold of these leaders in Quebec is deteriorating rapidly.

Purely Personal

Though a report has insinuated that one or more provinces have been unable to get any equipment being disposed by the War Assets Corporation, including such an alleged claim heard in Saskatchewan, it must be pointed out that it appears in this capital that the provinces have first option on some of the surplus war materials when ever disposed of by this body.

What Others Say

SHOULD CHANGE PROCEDURE

There seems to be something grossly wrong if the Courts cannot give relief to legatees in the field of taxation, says the Petrolia Advertiser-Topic. Much has been made of the case presented to the Royal Commission studying the problem of taxation, of a girl who couldn't afford to accept a legacy of a life interest on $500,000 because she couldn't raise $182,000 succession duties.

These duties are considered the most equitable form of taxation. The testator has no further use for the money after he has passed on and the beneficiary, unless it be a man's wife, has seldom done anything to earn it. In the case under review it would seem a reasonable solution for the courts to be permitted to sell enough securities to pay the $182,000 tax.

In a changing world where it is becoming daily more difficult to foresee the trend of tomorrow, provision should be made to permit the Courts to decide what would be the most equitable procedure in carrying out the wishes of the testator.

No girl with $318,000 need starve to death. The idea of drawing up a will in this form was, of course, to keep the capital intact for the next legatee. This was once legal practice, we believe, but the custom seems to have outlived its day.

SENSITIVE PEOPLE SHOULD NOT ENTER PUBLIC LIFE

For their own sakes, sensitive people should not hold public positions. If they cannot stand criticism they are in a bad way because criticism is one of the attributes of democracy, and the man who goes around with his feelings on his coat sleeve is in for a miserable time.

A story going the rounds of the newspapers, and we believe it is true, tells the story of a hypersensitive man in Boston who found in his morning newspaper an article in which several uncomplimentary statements had been made of him. He rushed to his minister, Dr. Edward Everett, and asked his advice as to what he should do. Should he demand a public apology from the editor, or should he file a suit for damages. Dr. Everett advised him to do nothing, and told the man that half the people who bought the paper never saw it, did not read it, did not understand it, half the people who understood it did not believe it, and finally, that half the people who believed it were people of no consequence anyway.

No, sir, there is no place in public life for the hypersensitive man. He finds that he is in hot water all the time and thinks every bit of criticism he receives is a direct slander. The man who wants to be a success in public life must have the hide of a rhinoceros, the patience of Job, and the ability to take the adversities of public life, which are just as sure to arise as that the sun will rise tomorrow morning.

Furthermore, the man in public life who never does anything for which he can be, and is, criticised is of little use to those who elected him.

WHY TEN-CENT COFFEE?

"How long has the public to be imposed on with the present price of tea and coffee at ten cents per cup?" asked a correspondent in the Toronto Daily Star a few days ago. This writer points out that since the beginning of the war the government has posed as the enemy of profiteering, then they turn round and give the restaurant owners, permission to charge 10 cents per cup for tea and coffee. He says that five cents per cup will yield a profit of 150 per cent, and that at ten cents the profit must be 400 per cent.

While the question raised by this correspondent is out of the realm of international affairs and cannot be considered to be a weighty one, it is nevertheless important, for it interests a great many restaurant patrons, thousands of them war workers. In Trenton it is only fair to say that only in the restaurants and at the counter is ten cents being charged, the lunch counters being satisfied with the lower price. However, one cannot help but wonder why, when tea and coffee are no longer rationed, and costs of operating restaurants no greater, perhaps, than any other business, the man at the restaurant counter should be allowed such a large margin of profit on one single article. —Trenton-Courier-Advocate.

PROSPECTS GOOD

Gardeners tell us indications point to a very productive year for strawberries. This will be most welcome news to a great many. Already our mouth is watering for a dish of these luscious berries. Last summer they were as scarce as hen's teeth in Carleton Place and throughout the season it was not our good fortune to even get a nibble at a berry.—Carleton Place Canadian.

PICTURES OF EX-WARDENS HUNG IN SHIRE HALL

Some seventy-four ex-wardens of the County of Hastings will look down from modern photographs on meetings in the committee Room at Shire Hall, in Belleville, in the near future.

Forty pictures are already in place in racks on the north wall and the others are expected to be completed soon to mark a tribute to the men who have ruled the destinies of the county since 1851.

The work of obtaining the pictures, especially of those wardens who lived and presided over the county in the late eighties has entailed a lot of effort on the part of County Clerk Eric Denyes and Miss Ruth Dunning, his secretary. Old photographs had to be secured and enlarged to coincide with those of more recent date. They are of uniform size and handsomely framed. Names of the wardens are inscribed at the bottom of the photographs.

BELLEVILLE LOWERS PRICE FOR POWER

A motion was passed at a meeting of the Belleville Utilities Commission that entitles electrical users of that city to participate in a saving amounting to approximately $14,000.

This motion which goes into effect as of Feb. 1 means a reduction of power costs for Belleville from $25 to $22 per horse-power. At the same meeting it was disclosed that a reduction has been made in practically every department of the electric utility.

Manager O. H. Scott stated at the meeting that work will proceed in the near future on the new sub-station to be erected at the corner of Catherine and Sidney streets, and further, that options had been obtained at the above-mentioned corner, and as soon as the property has been cleared, work will be started.

Under a new order of Canada's construction controller a permit must now be obtained for construction, repair, addition or alteration of any building, other than a plant, that costs more than $500.

Artist Craftsman Repairs Silver

IN CONTRAST WITH THE HEAT, clangor and din surrounding the leather-aproned smith in the railway blacksmith shop, Ernest Rose, above, Canadian Pacific smithy for the past 12 years, goes about his work in a white smock and cap in the comparative quiet of his turret quarters in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

Mr. Rose is a silversmith, and as illustrated here, his work-a-day tasks consist of reconditioning the thousands of pieces of silverware and flatware used by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in its hotel dining rooms and restaurants.

Scratched and dented teapots, cream jugs, viand platters and battered spoons are "meat" for Mr. Rose and his staff who take pride in their ability to stack their combined skills against the most disreputable looking piece of silver and turn it out looking like new. Under his Aladdin's lamp he has repaired an average of 1,800 pieces of silverware and some 18,000 pieces of flatware a year.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

RECENT SURVEY SHOWS LESS HOGS ON FARMS

Number of hogs on farms in Canada at December 1, 1944, showed a decline from the record high figure a year ago, according to the December survey dealing with the numbers of hogs on farms, the 1944 fall pig crop, and numbers of sows to farrow in the spring of 1945. The total of 7,646,880 head of hogs on farms at December 1, 1944, represents a decline of 19.3 per cent, and a return to approximately the same level as at December 1, 1943. The decline was common to all provinces except Ontario and Nova Scotia where very little change is indicated. The provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where production, increased most rapidly in recent years, show the sharpest declines.

A continuation of the contraction in hog production, states the report, is indicated in an estimated reduction of 17.3 per cent in sows bred to farrow in the first six months of 1945. The hogs from these farrowings, together with those on hand at December 1, will constitute the marketings of 1945. Present indications are that marketings in 1945 will be from 15 to 20 per cent below those of 1944.

FARM CASH INCOME AT NEW HIGH LEVEL

Cash income from the sale of farm products reached a new high in 1944. The estimated returns totalled $1,752 million, representing an increase of $350 million, or 25 per cent over 1943, and $1,029 million, or 143 per cent over 1939. Additional Government payments raise the total farm cash income to $1,817 million for 1944 compared with $1,434 million in 1943. Higher income in 1944 is reported for all provinces except Prince Edward Island. Most notable increases occurred in the west in both grains and live stock. Saskatchewan recorded the largest increase. Substantial increases were recorded from Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario, and Quebec.

In view of the reduced stocks of grain on farms in the Prairie Provinces at the beginning of 1945, together with a prospective reduction in the marketing of hogs, it is probable, states the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, that cash income from the sale of farm products in 1945 will be somewhat lower. Except for hogs, some increase in the output of live stock and livestock products is indicated. There is not likely to be much change in prices in the coming year.

BREEDING STOCK FOR POULTRY FLOCK

One of the first essentials to efficiency of the poultry flock is to start with chicks of the best possible breeding. This efficiency can be brought about by improving the flocks with chicks from Government Approved Flocks hatched in Government Approved Hatcheries, and graded according to Government Standards. These chicks are available in three grades—Foundation Stock; R.O.P. chicks from blood-tested Government recorded flocks (Purple Label); Commercial Grades—(the highest grade available in commercial quantities) R.O.P. chicks from blood-tested Government Approved flocks (Red Label), and Canada Approved chicks, from approved flocks, government inspected and blood tested, (Blue Label).

In Canada two main methods are followed in the selection of breeding stock (a) physical selection, and (b) physical selection plus pedigree breeding. It is the latter class which should be counted upon for foundation stock for breeding flocks as well as for commercial flocks. In addition to the sires and the dams being carefully selected for generations, R.O.P. chicks come from parents of known egg production and meat qualifications. Progeny tested males and females are in their pedigrees. It is best to buy these chicks by grade.

PLANT GARDENS FOR PERSONAL NEEDS

How is a garden best arranged to meet the needs of the family? If there are young children, the space will probably be of greatest value if developed largely as a playground, with an open lawn, a sand box, slide, and teeter-totter, suggests R. W. Oliver, Division of Horticulture, General Experimental Farm, Ottawa. A clipped hedge of Chinese elm or cedar surrounding the area will look neat and the greenery will be more attractive than bare fences. A small border along the sunny side of the hedge will provide cut flowers for the house. The same sort of treatment, minus the sand box, would be suitable for children who are somewhat older and who want to play games on an open lawn, unbroken by flower beds or horticultural obstacles. This lawn needs plenty of clover and Canada blue grass in order to stand the wear and tear. Such an area can scarcely be called a garden, says Mr. Oliver, but it meets the need for fresh air, exercise and supervised play.

As the family grows older, the need changes. Most city lots are too small for a tennis court or a full-sized ball diamond, so the children of 'teen age get their recreation elsewhere and parents can now use the space to suit their own fancy. The garden meets the parents' need by adding to their interest and reducing their waist lines. There are other families whose tastes or modest pocketbook call for the production of home-grown vegetables. The back half of the garden lot or the space behind the garage, if it receives enough sunshine, can provide salad crops, as well as roots and canned tomatoes for next winter.

But some other people prefer to enjoy a garden from the ease of a lawn chair over a cup of tea. A garden of this kind can contribute most to comfort if it provides a partially shaded spot in which to sit. This shaded spot should preferably be paved with flagstones or brick in order to withstand the shifting of chair and table legs. To create pleasing and restful surroundings, there should be an attractive border of plants, made up largely of shrubs with a few well-chosen perennials which give the best show for the least labor. Water adds a great deal to the effect of such a garden whether it takes the form of a waterfall in a small rock garden or the quiet reflection of the garden in a still pool. By analysing the needs and planning the garden to meet them, a wealth of enjoyment and satisfaction will be obtained.

TREAT SEED GRAIN NOW

Seeding time is not far away. When the rush of spring work begins there are so many things which must be done that there is a tendency to neglect those things that seem less important. Among those often regarded as less important is treating seed grain, yet if properly done will pay for the labour and cost many times, says Bruce McLaren, Dominion Experimental Station, Charlottetown, P.E.I. It is a job that can be done now and the treated seed put away safely until the land is ready for seeding. The seed should be treated with organic mercury compounds used in the form of very fine dusts. The object of treating is to cover each seed with a fine film of dust which kills the spores of any diseases which may be present on the seed coat. Diseases such as smut, root rot, and seedling blight are readily controlled by this treatment. Machines for applying the dust may either be purchased or constructed on the farm. A good tight barrel fitted with a few baffles and a spindle on which it may be rotated does a good job.

After treatment the seed may be stored as long as two months without injury to germination. Formalin treatments, though effective, must be applied just before the seed is sown. Otherwise serious injury to germination may result.

It should be remembered that surface treatments will control only those diseases carried on the outside of the seed coat. Loose smut of wheat and loose smut of barley are carried within the seed itself and cannot be reached by a surface treatment. These diseases may be greatly reduced by means of a hot water treatment in which temperatures are closely controlled. Such methods are difficult to use under farm conditions and growers whose crops become badly infested with loose smut of wheat or barley would be well advised to purchase new seed from a source known to be free of these diseases.

Further information on seed treatment may be obtained by writing to the nearest Dominion Experimental Farm or Laboratory of Plant Pathology.

A group of soldiers were discussing the many things they would do when they were discharged from the army. "First thing I'm going to do when I get out of this army," said one disgruntled individual, "is bust that sergeant right on the nose!" "Oh, yeah?" retorted a nearby comrade, "That's what you think! You're going to wait right in line and take your turn, just like the rest of us."

J. WILLIAM HORSEY

NEW GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP FOR FOOD RESEARCH

Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, President, and Professor Ross Willis, Acting Head of the Department of Business Administration, University of Western Ontario, in a joint statement, have announced the establishment of the J. William Horsey Graduate Fellowship for Research in Food Distribution. This new biennial graduate fellowship is open to graduates of the Business Administration Course of Western University and those of any similar commerce course in Canada. It carries an annual award of $1,500 yearly supplemented by travelling expenses to carry out research.

The fellowship is competitive and applications will be received at the University of Western Ontario, London, up until June 1st. The award will be made July 1st.

Under the terms of the fellowship, the winner will undertake university graduate work, field visits or research as specified; and the second year will be devoted to research in the actual field of food distribution.

Mr. J. William Horsey, for whom the fellowship is named, is President of Dominion Stores Limited, an organization keenly interested in the highly important field of food distribution throughout Canada. Comparatively little research has been carried on in the field of distribution embracing all phases from producer to consumer, and this, directly or indirectly, affects every consumer of food, as well as thousands of primary producers and retailers, wholesalers and facilitating agencies.

COUNCIL CUTS TOWN RATE BY FIVE MILLS

Campbellford tax rate for the year 1945 was set at 38 mills at a special meeting of the council Tuesday evening.

This reduction from 43 mills for 1944 was occasioned largely by the rebate of school funds by the Provincial Government and also by the retirement of debentures which will be $10,000 less than in 1944. On the other hand receipts will be also down and the extra cost of snow removal which is considerable will have to be considered.

SINGLE BEER SALES NOT PERMITTED

The Liquor Control Board of Ontario announced today that effective March 1 the practice of selling single bottles of domestic beer at Ontario Liquor stores without surrender of beer ration coupons would be discontinued.

Ontario residents had been able to purchase a quart of domestic beer a day at liquor stores without beer coupons but the Board's announcement said "the privilege of buying even such small quantities without coupons has been abused."

The Continuing Job of the CANADIAN RED CROSS

THE EUROPEAN WAR is nearing its end. That is obvious. Many people, including members of the Canadian Red Cross, have asked us what our job will be if the war should suddenly end.

We reply that we can only see ahead greater responsibilities than ever. Both in Europe and at home the work of the Red Cross must go on. The war will not bring an end to suffering and want, to the care of our Prisoners of War, to our Wounded, and to the millions whose homes and way of life have been dislocated by strife.

We therefore feel that every Canadian has a right to some knowledge of what our responsibilities will be in the event of peace, and just how we propose to discharge those responsibilities. We treat each of our main activities under its respective heading.

PRISONERS OF WAR—With the end of hostilities our Prisoners of War will automatically cease to be Prisoners. Chaos and breakdown in Germany will probably ensue. The German state will cease to care for them. They will become wards of the Allied General in command of the Occupation Forces. Transportation will be difficult, and it will probably take a minimum of six months to repatriate the 2,400,000 Canadian, British and Allied Prisoners in German Camps. The need of Prisoners' Parcels and Medical Supplies will be doubled. They will be distributed by the Allied Command, and will play a vital part in feeding our men pending repatriation. After the magnificent job we have done during the last five years we cannot let our boys in German prison camps down. Our Prisoners in the Far East will also be a continuing responsibility. We must carry on until every man is back home.

EUROPE'S STARVING MILLIONS—The job of feeding Europe's hungry millions is staggering in its immensity. Over 17,000,000 humans have been torn from their homes. Many have nowhere to rest their weary heads. They are starving. Malnutrition is the rule rather than the exception. There will be an urgent need for food, clothing and medical supplies. The Red Cross in these stricken countries are utterly dependent on their sister societies for supplies to meet these dire needs. Can we let them down? The Canadian Red Cross must go on!

RED CROSS WORK WITH OUR ARMED FORCES—Until the last Canadian soldier has left Europe and has been discharged from hospital, there will be important work for the Red Cross to do. How long this will be we do not know, but one thing we are certain of and that is that every Canadian at home will want to make sure that our boys will be as well looked after with the coming of peace as they were in war. The care of the wounded both in Europe and Canada is a permanent responsibility which we cannot evade. No Canadian wants to evade it. Here again the Red Cross must go on!

BLOOD SERUM SERVICE—Red Cross Blood Serum has saved countless lives in battle. The end of the war will see the end of painful war wounds. The demand for serum on the fighting fronts, except the Far East, will cease. But the Red Cross Blood Serum Service should be continued for civilian use. If the Red Cross makes it freely available it can save thousands of the lives of our own civilian citizens when war has ended.

OUTPOST HOSPITALS, CHILDREN'S CLINICS AND DISTRICT NURSING SERVICE—This is part of the Red Cross service to civilians in Canada. It is carried out in the sparsely settled parts of the Dominion, and it must go on.

FIRST AID AND HOME NURSING SERVICE—One of the finest peacetime activities of the Canadian Red Cross. It is truly a worth-while work and must go on.

TEACHING CANADIANS HOW TO BE BETTER NOURISHED—There is important work yet to be done in the matter of Nutrition. Thousands of Canadians are not eating the proper food. Their health could be improved immeasurably. The Canadian Red Cross has undertaken to educate where education is necessary. This work must go on.

PREPARATION TO MEET EPIDEMIC OR DISASTER—In case of these twin evils the Red Cross is always first on the job. For this reason alone the Red Cross must go on.

JUNIOR RED CROSS—A great crusade of 900,000 Canadian school children for health and good citizenship. A work that must go on.

Shur-Gain Pigs Are Growthy Pigs

These little pigs won't be ready for market for a few weeks yet—but with all the fine growthy development they're showing now,—it won't be long till they're on their way to Britain as Select Grade Wiltshires—to boost the reputation for Canadian Bacon that Canadian Farmers have been building on the overseas market for the past five years!

Well-informed hog growers know that careful feeding of the young pigs, from the first nibble they take, makes the difference between economical gains that ensure profits, and unprofitable, long-term feeding.

Baby pigs will start to look around for solid food at three weeks of age. If you don't give them their own, they'll try their mother's ration. Then is the time to get them feeding right—which means creep feeding of SHUR-GAIN Pig Starter—the baby pig feed that has the well-balanced content of proteins, minerals and vitamins that are needed by every young pig.

SHUR-GAIN 18% Pig Starter costs you less—because we make it FRESH at our own mill—which means tremendous savings in trucking and handling that are passed along to you in better quality feed at lower cost!

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

By ANNE ALLAN

Hello Homemakers! Almost every woman is a collector at heart, be it teaspoons, china, glass or antiques; but there is one collector's item which is altogether too popular—left over food.

Left-overs must be stored properly if they are to be used effectively at a later date. "Covered and cold" is the rule for keeping foods attractive and nourishing. If tidbits are congenial, store them together—potatoes, peas and carrots can all go in the same covered dish. Keep a jar in your electric refrigerator in which to store the liquid that vegetables have been cooked in so that you may use this liquid to add flavour and vitamins to soups or cream sauces.

USING LEFT-OVERS

1. Try combining a few spoonfuls of left-over vegetables with a white sauce or a tomato sauce or a tin of condensed soup to make a delicious scalloped.
2. A vegetable turnover is something we forgot. Put diced vegetables in a square of pastry and fold over, then bake. Serve with gravy or onion sauce.
3. Tag ends of celery, onion shoots, outer cabbage leaves may be simmered for soup stock.
4. If you throw away the hard ends of cheese you are throwing away a butter substitute. Even though very hard, let pieces float in gravy, soup or sauces removing inedible parts after the fat and flavour are rendered out.
5. Left-over egg yolks poached and mixed with salad dressing make a good sandwich filling or garnish for salads and sauces.
6. You can do any number of things with left-over cereal. Reheat it next morning with diced fruit, or churn it, and fry and serve with honey or cream. Combine it with scrambled eggs or use it to bind meat loaf together.

BACON MUFFINS

2 cups flour, 1-2 tsp. salt, 3 tps. baking powder, 2 tbsps. sugar, 1-2 cup cooked bacon broken into bits 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1-4 cup melted fat.

Sift the flour, baking powder and sugar. Add bits of bacon. Mix the unbeaten egg and milk: Stir in quickly and lightly. Add the melted fat. Fill well-greased muffin tins two-thirds full of the batter and bake in electric oven at 400 deg. for twenty to thirty minutes.

2-3 cup mayonnaise, 1-4 tsp. salt, 1-4 tsp. pepper, 1-2 tps. minced parsley, 1 tbsps. grated onion, 1 tbsps. lemon juice, 1-2 cups cooked rice, 2 cups flaked sardines, fine dry bread crumbs. Combine mayonnaise and seasonings in a bowl. Add the rice and sardines. Mix with a fork; let stand five minutes. Shape into croquettes and roll in bread crumbs. Place one-half inch apart on ungreased baking sheet, lined with heavy brown paper. Bake in hot electric oven 450 deg. fifteen to twenty minutes, or until browned. Approximate yield: ten to twelve croquettes.

LEMON RICE PUDDING

3 cups cooked rice, 2 eggs, 2 tbsps. lemon juice, 1 tbsps. lemon rind, 1-2 cup honey, 1-2 cups milk, 1-2 tsp. nutmeg. Combine rice, slightly beaten eggs, lemon juice, lemon rind, honey, milk and nutmeg and mix well. Pour into a buttered baking dish and place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate electric oven at 350 deg. for about 1 hour or until set. If desired, serve with whipped or plain cream. Six servings.

THE LETTER BOX

Mrs. K. Mc. says: If you have some very old and treasured lace and you are afraid to launder it try this method—sprinkle some powdered magnesia or borax over it thoroughly. Wrap the piece in a towel and allow it to stand for several days, then shake out the powder and iron over a thin towel.

Mrs. C. J. says: An old sofa cushion covered with oilcloth makes a good kneeling pad. Dirt can be wiped off the floor as well as the cushion more easily.

CHAPTER II

Champ Fields, managing editor of the Westhaven Clarion, fires Tony Blake, but Barbara West, his secretary, intercedes. Tony saves himself by scoring a news beat and gets a raise in pay instead. Tony takes Barbara out to dinner, and later to a dance, when he tells her how much he loves her.

She was trembling as she followed him to the door, but they were not to escape so easily. Tony was called to the telephone. When he came back, his gray eyes were blazing with excitement. "The Chief is sending me down to New York," he explained. "The town's full of reporters from the big papers, but the Associated Press wants me to bring the Kelly story in myself. I'll have to send you home in a taxi, sugar," he explained. "I've got to catch the eight-ten to New York. You don't mind?"

"It's all right," she said. Tony was hailing a cab. He put her inside and paid the driver. The window was down on her side. Tony stood looking in at her. "They've got to give me three days off next week-end to make up for this," he said, and grinned at her crookedly. "Three days ought to be enough for a couple like us to get married."

"Married!" gasped Barbara. Tony's eyes were a little desperate. "You'll probably live to regret it," he said, "but I hope you're game. I mean, if you'll take a chance on me, I'll be tickled pink."

"Oh, Tony!" "We should be able to take a swell honeymoon on five hundred dollars," he said in a muffled voice.

Barbara's heart was pounding in her throat. "Are you proposing to me, Tony?" she stammered.

"Yep," muttered Tony, "and making a terrible flop of it. I always thought I wasn't a marrying man. Only now I want to get married. How I want to! That is, I want to marry you. Will you?"

"Yes, Tony," she whispered.

"Gee," breathed Tony, "am I happy!" He thrust his head in at the taxi window and kissed Barbara swiftly. "Heck, it's three minutes to train time! So long, sugar, I—I'll be seeing you."

"G-good-by, Tony, d-darling," faltered Barbara.

But Tony was already tearing down the street in his battered flyer, leaning out to wave frantically at her as he took the corner on two wheels.

Tony telephoned her from the station. The train was ten minutes late. He said he had so much to tell her. He said he didn't know why he was so fussed around her. "My tongue ties itself in knots," he confessed ruefully. "What makes it so funny, I could always say sweet nothings to girls I didn't give a darn about. Explain that if you can, Miss West."

He said he would write her from New York. "Take good care of yourself, kid," he said. "You kind of make all the difference to me."

"You don't exactly stand for nothing in my life," retorted Barbara.

Tony laughed. "You can't make me mad that way, sugar," he said.

"Good-by."

Barbara was a little disconcerted when she reached the office the next morning to find that the news of her engagement had preceded her. Tony had told the gang at the station. They said he had been walking on air. They said he acted as if he had come into a fortune and could not keep it to himself.

It was apparent right from the start that neither her friends nor Tony's believed their marriage would work out. People told Barbara that she was too practical and matter-of-fact to be happy married to a harum-scarum like Tony Blake. They said she ought to marry someone like Martin Fagz.

Martin agreed with them. He had been intending to ask Barbara to marry him for some time. "I was just waiting till I paid my business out and got a little money ahead," he told Barbara reproachfully. "I thought you knew that."

Martin was twenty-seven and he was already on his way to becoming one of the pillars of the community. He had worked his way through school and clerked in a dry goods store until he had saved enough to go into business for himself. He had a small ready-to-wear shop which was doing very well. "I don't think a man has the right to marry a woman until he knows he can take care of her," he told Barbara.

"I'm sorry, Martin," she faltered. "You've always been so nice to me and I'm fond of you, very fond. I always will be, but I love Tony."

Martin's face crinkled up. "I can't understand it," he blurted out. "Blake is a spoiled child, Barbara. He'll never be anything else. I thought you admired common sense and solid qualities in a man."

Martin was quite good looking. He had a nice physique and was immaculate in his dress and person. His brown hair was always combed just so. He had steady, faithful brown eyes.

"Just another good guy gone wrong," sighed Hank Woods.

Hank and Tony grew up in the same town, but Hank came from the wrong side of the railroad tracks. That had not prevented Tony from taking Hank wherever Tony went. With Tony it was a case of like me, like my friends. While Tony was at the university, Hank secured a position on the Clarion, driving a truck for the circulation department. When Tony received his degree, Hank persuaded Champ Fields to take Tony on the paper. Tony's position was much better than Hank's, who wore overalls. His hands were usually grimy.

"Sure, Hank's a roughneck," Tony told Barbara once, "but he'd fight a circular saw for me, and you don't make friends like that every day."

Barbara had received a telegram from Tony as soon as he reached New York: FOROT TO SAY I'M CRAZY ABOUT YOU ISN'T THAT PRICELESS LOVE TONY

It was exactly like Tony to tack on an extra word and make the telegram cost twice as much as it might have, thought Barbara. Tony never worried about expenses, but she did. Her father had been ill for three years before he died. His illness consumed all his savings. They had had to go into debt so deeply that Barbara lay awake nights wondering what would become of them. She could not remember her mother. The responsibility had left her with a terrible fear of being caught in such straits again. Her father's life insurance had cleared the debts away, but nothing was ever to free Barbara from her dread of being penniless.

She had a letter from Tony the next morning. It was a funny letter, but it brought the tears to Barbara's eyes. "You wouldn't believe it," wrote Tony, "but I can't make love on paper to you. After all the love letters I've written with my tongue in my cheek, when I want to tell you I love you, my pen gets the blind staggers. Must be because you're the most tremendous thing that ever happened to me. Please read between the lines, if you can, sugar. Anyway, I'll be seeing you tomorrow. Yours exclusively, Tony."

Barbara counted the hours until Tony's return and then, as the time came, she suffered an attack of nerves. After all, she and Tony were barely acquainted. "Maybe everybody's right," she told herself in a panic. "Maybe I'm crazy to think our marriage can work."

When she heard Tony's voice in the outer office that forenoon her fingers turned to ice. Then suddenly he opened the door and waved at her. "Hi!" he said.

Nothing mattered except that Tony loved her and she loved him and they were going to belong to each other forever. "Hello, Tony," she whispered.

He came over to her eagerly, but the gang streamed in after him. They made a ring about Tony and Barbara. They did a war dance, chanting that old nursery rhyme: "Needles and pins, needles and pins, When a man marries, his troubles begin."

Tony held Barbara's hand tightly. "Let 'em rave," he said. "We know what we're doing."

"I wonder," faltered Barbara. Tony's friends had entered into a friendly conspiracy to entertain him and his fiancée. They gave a party at a roadhouse the night he returned from New York. Barbara thought they were, to say the least, crude. Tony apologized on the way home. "They're a swell bunch of folks when you get to know them, kid. You'll like 'em" he said.

Several were newspaper people, others advertising men. There was a young lawyer in the group, a budding architect, and three medical students. They held informal meetings almost nightly at various taverns and discussed the books or plays or houses or briefs which they were going to do some day. She noticed that as a rule Tony paid the checks.

"That's because I'm flush right now," he explained. "The reward money, you know. Next week probably Paul will sell an article or Dave snare a client and the party'll be on them. Meanwhile I'm elected."

Barbara liked the women in the crowd no better than the men. One was a woman artist with black bangs and a throaty voice who called Tony "beloved Peter Pan" with every other breath. Her name was Wanda Lytle although Tony told Barbara privately that Wanda had been born plain Maggie Pitts.

"Tony's spirit has wings," Wanda informed Barbara in a lofty voice. "It would be the sin unpardonable to drag his soul down to earth."

"After all," Barbara pointed out dryly, "even a winged spirit has to eat and have somewhere to sleep."

They've even been known to require shoes."

Tony told Barbara later not to think Wanda as goofy as she sounded. "She's really a grand pal," he confided.

"Of course you know about Tony's play," said Wanda.

"His play?" Barbara echoed blankly.

"Did you ever see a newspaperman who wasn't writing a play?" he asked. "Did you ever know one to finish it?" inquired Hank Woods.

Hank went along with the crowd because Tony insisted, but Hank had no more use for them than they for him. "They can't imagine what Tony sees in me," he said to Barbara. "They've labelled me the Ubiquitous Moron. I had to ask Tony how to spell it before I could look it up in the dictionary. It means I'm a low-grade mentally who is always under Tony's feet."

"I'm afraid that's the way they feel about me," sighed Barbara.

On one point Barbara was adamant. She would not agree to give up her job until they were out of debt. "It's a complex with me," she told him. "I can't stand being in debt."

"But, darling, Mother doesn't care if I never pay her," protested Tony. "I care," said Barbara, her face white. "You'll just have to bear with me about this, Tony. It's my weakness, I suppose, but it scares me to death to have no money ahead. I'll work until we have a stake."

"O.K., sugar," said Tony. "You're the captain. I'm just the crew."

Barbara had been living in a boardinghouse run by a motherly and eminently respectable widow. But Barbara emphatically did not want to go on boarding after she married Tony. So they decided to move into the flat Tony was occupying. It was within walking distance of the office and the rent was reasonable.

"It's not the flooziest place in town," said Tony, "but I guess we'd be happy if we lived in a goods box, so long as it was together—eh, Miss West?"

They were driving over to the flat at the moment in Tony's rickety car. They were to be married the next afternoon. Barbara was taking over some of her things. "I do so want to make you happy, Tony," she said tremulously. "I want it more than anything in the world."

"Sure," whispered Tony, rubbing his cheek against hers. "That goes for me to, sugar."

Tony's flat was small and dingy. It looked out on an alley and on the rear of a shabby tenement house on the next street. There was a square sitting room, crowded with furniture, none of it in good taste or in repair. The bedroom was tiny and had only one window. The dining room was merely an alcove. The kitchen was small and dark, the tin sink rusty, the linoleum worn through in spots. The stove looked as if it had never been cleaned.

Regular Monthly Meeting
St. Andrew's Society Held
At Mrs. C. Tummon's Home

The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. C. Tummon, on Tuesday afternoon, March 13th, with a good attendance of members and visitors.

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. Anderson, leading in a Memorial Service for the late Mrs. V. Matthews. Hymn, "There is no night in Heaven" was sung and Mrs. E. Hoard read the Scripture from the 6th Chapter of Romans. Two minutes silence were observed, after which Mrs. Walker led in prayer.

Roll Call was responded to by the word, "Resurrection." Correspondence was read and the business discussed. Mrs. Walker reported twenty-four calls made by the visiting committee. The offering was received and plans were made for observing the 60th Anniversary of the W.M.S. sometime in 1945. Miss Gena Spry and Mrs. C. Tummon had charge of the programme. The hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," was sung, followed by Glad Tidings prayer by Miss Gena Spry. Mrs. M. Tompkins read the Scripture Lesson, followed by a piano solo by Mrs. R. H. Williams.

Mrs. W. Shaw of Ivanhoe, President of Kingston Presbyterian gave the address of the afternoon. In her opening remarks, she outlined the limits of Kingston Presbyterian. It is one of the twenty-four Presbyteries in Ontario with a total membership of 17,420 of which 11,524 were auxiliary members and 5896 were Home Helpers. We have an increased membership over the previous year and we also exceeded our allocation. Our motto should be to have every lady member of the church a member of the W.M.S. Our overseas Mission work is not as extensive as before the war. Owing to present war conditions a great many of our missionaries have had to return to Canada. Work, however is being carried on in British Guiana. Miss M. Ramsay arrived in British Guiana last October.

Our National Mission work is being intensified. Deacons work is being strengthened. The Indian schools at Bertie, Man, and Kenora, Ont., are receiving much more support from the fund of the W.M.S. Work among the Chinese in Canada is taking on new strength also.

The work mission is age-old and was instituted first when Christ commanded his disciples to go into all the world. With the command to go there was also the promise that power will be given. "Acts 18—But ye shall receive power."

When Jesus had a message to teach he often did so by parables. So the miracle of the feeding of the five thousand is full of deep spiritual and practical teaching for Christian life and service. The central thought was undoubtedly that of spreading the Gospel to every creature and God's plan for the work. The great principle for Missionary work to day is summed up in full surrender, absolute faith and unselfish sacrifice.

The Lord's first thought as he looked into the faces of those men was "Bread that they may eat." Jesus our mighty miracle-working Saviour still stands able and willing to feed saying, "They need not depart; give ye them to eat." Today the fields are ready for the harvest but alas, the labourers are too few. Shall we not say that we stand ready to enlist ourselves wholeheartedly to the great cause of Missions?

At the close of this inspiring address, Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker rendered a vocal duet, "He Lives For Ever More," accompanied by Mrs. C. Tummon. The hymn, "The Day of Resurrection," followed by prayer by Miss Gena Spry brought the meeting to a close. Miss Spry also expressed thanks to the guest speaker and all those assisting with the programme. A delectable lunch was served by the hostess and the thanks of the society were ably voiced by Mrs. H. Rollins.

Of Canada's Indian population of 120,000, approximately 2,550 are in the fighting services. War industries have absorbed many others who have proved adept workers.

Fire Destroys Shed And Machinery

Early Tuesday morning fire destroyed a large drivehouse belonging to Volney Richardson, 3rd concession of Rawdon Township. The blaze of an undetermined origin, completely gutted the building and destroyed two buggies, two cutters, two automobiles, farm implements, tools and several other pieces of valuable equipment.

Very little insurance was carried on the drivehouse and there was no electric wiring in the building. Mr. Richardson was at a loss to explain the cause of the fire. The Richardson family first discovered the flames shortly after 4 a.m. and an alarm, given by telephone was quickly responded to by neighbouring farmers, but lack of fire fighting equipment prevented them extinguishing the blaze. However, it was only through their herculean efforts aided by the rain which was falling at the time that the house was kept from taking fire. Fire chief S. McIntosh and a number of residents from the east end of the village aided in the fight.

Regulations Governing Release Of Pupils For Work On Farm

May 23rd Earliest Date Pupils
May Leave School Unless Special Circumstances

The farmers of Ontario again need the help of school boys and girls to plant, cultivate and harvest the crops. As the war goes on the need for food both at home and abroad becomes greater. This year the provisions under which candidates may be released from school and obtain certificates on recommendation are limited to enlistment and to employment for a period of not less than thirteen weeks.

Principals are asked to make sure that pupils who intend to proceed further with their education in either a secondary school or a university have reached a standard in the subjects required for admission to advanced courses such that they will suffer no serious handicap because of their being released from school under these regulations.

It should be noted that the period of thirteen weeks need not be continuous as arrangements may be made between the employer and the pupil for a short period for holidays at a suitable time during July and August.

The Principal of the school shall mark in the register as if present a pupil released from school under these regulations on receipt of satisfactory evidence that he has been engaged in farm work or in a cheese factory as required by these regulations.

A pupil who enlists for active service in His Majesty's Forces or leaves school for employment on a farm or in a cheese factory shall be granted a certificate or diploma, as the case may be, provided that (a) his attendance at school has been regular up to the 24th of May, 1945; (b) he has completed to the satisfaction of the principal the course of study in every subject in which he has applied for standing on recommendation or written examination; (c) he has obtained at least fifty per cent of the marks in each paper of the subjects in which he has applied for standing on recommendation or written examination; and (d) he has furnished the principal with satisfactory evidence as to his enlistment or as to his employment on a farm, in a cheese factory or in buttermaking in a creamery for a period of not less than thirteen weeks after the 23rd day of May, 1945.

At the request of the Director of the Ontario Farm Service Force, the principal may, where the services of a pupil are urgently needed on a farm, release such candidate from school,

The meeting closed with a prayer, and the singing of "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder."

High School Lit. Society Met

Enjoyable Social Evening, Featuring A Splendid Programme And Dance, Held

Another social evening was spent in the High School last Thursday, when the Literary sponsored a programme and dance.

About 8 o'clock the programme started with Bob Fanning, the president in the chair.

It started with a baby-show put on by third form. The babies, Bob Hulin, Ruth Rose, Garnet Thain, Barbara Sine, Lois Weaver, Jean MacIntosh, Grant Stapley and Joe Thompson were displayed by their mothers, Marion Graver, Grant Helliwell, John Reid, Eloise Sine and Joan Hoard in wheelbarrows, toboggans, wagon and babies' go-carts.

The mothers told what their children could do and the number of teeth each had. They were all weighed by the doctor, Frank Weaver and his judges, Jimmy Wright and Jack Bush. The winner, Grant Stapley, a negro baby was presented with a silver cup.

The next item on the programme which was enjoyed by all was a vocal solo, entitled, "Alice Blue Gown," by Margaret Gray.

The number following this was "A Kitchen Band", put on by the pupils of second form. Glenn Bush was the announcer and the band favoured the audience with Pistol Packin' Mama and the Crooked Stovepipe. During this part of the programme, Dora Rogers tapdanced and Norma Mason sang. These two numbers were greatly enjoyed.

First form put on the next pantomime. The name of it was, "A Great Calamity." It provided a great many laughs and was well acted.

George Clapper displayed some of his romance in the next number, a monologue—it was entitled, "A dream in the Dark." We might say, "George keep up the good work."

Bob Elliott favoured the audience next, with a piano solo.

Fourth form gave us something different. It was a skit called, "A Football Game." The game was played by Helen Johnstone and Eleanor Bush against Mary Chambers and Phyllis Heasman. Doug Bastedo and Glenn Lavender watched the game with great interest.

Fifth form presented as their number a play entitled "Disorder Please!" This humorous parody on sport critics concluded the programme part and then everyone enjoyed the two hour dance to the nickelodeon.

Everybody says: "Have another."

PROTECT THE LAWN

● This is the time of year when pedestrians and motorists should do all in their power to prevent damage to the lawns in the village. Owing to the soft condition of the soil it is very easy to make ruts and holes in the turf and it is a difficult task to repair these, requiring a lot of time and attention. Several complaints have already been heard from irate property owners of driveways and lawns being damaged by thoughtless persons and it is with a view to limiting these instances that we pen this warning.

The majority of Stirling home owners take particular pride in their lawns and home surroundings and it is but fair that the general public should give them their fullest co-operation. Their thoughtfulness in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

— V —

HAVE YOU MADE YOUR CONTRIBUTION?

● Once a Canadian soldier becomes a casualty or a prisoner of war he becomes a ward of the Canadian Red Cross. Thanks to the people of the Dominion, who make the work of the Society possible, our troops know that they are not forgotten by the people back home.

When a casualty enters a field hospital he has already received the blood of a fellow Canadian, because Red Cross blood serum is a basic treatment for shock, which in the last war lessened the chances for survival for many of the wounded. At the hospital he is met by cheerful girls of the Canadian Red Cross Corps, of which over 500 are now on active service. They give him cigarettes, candy and chewing gum. But best of all he has a Canadian girl to talk to.

After he has received treatment for his wounds, the girls write letters home for him, provide him with reading matter and the little "extras" that mean so much. Thousands of letters have reached the Red Cross expressing the gratitude of patients for this service from home.

Should he be moved to military hospital in Britain, the Red Cross girls are again at his side. Red Cross service even includes home-town newspapers, and the girls do shopping for the men in the neighbourhood.

On the hospital ship crossing the North Atlantic Red Cross supplies and comforts are available, and when he reaches Canada once more Red Cross Conducting Officers accompany the hospital trains across the country, sending telegrams to next-of-kin and providing fresh fruit, newspapers and ice cream.

The Canadian Red Cross is proud of the service it gives for the Canadian forces, but it is only possible to render this aid in accordance with the generosity of our people.

Stirling and district is being asked for $1200 to keep up this good work. Have you made your contribution yet?

What Others Say

SOMEONE HAS TO PAY!

When labor organizations, as they sometimes do, urge a post-war 36-hour week without loss of wages, they can only mean that they wish to pay more for consumer goods produced under such conditions. Manufacturers can absorb only so many additional costs without having to increase their prices.—Brockville Recorder & Times.

FAMILY ALLOWANCES

Those who argue about the family allowance question, in which none of the provinces seems to be in agreement with the Federal authority, must make up their minds whether the move is not another one in the direction of paternalism. It often has been said that the more pampering a man gets the more he will expect and the more he will need. The man who can stand on his own feet usually is the most successful. However, there are exceptions to this rule and these must be considered in laying down a great social service program like family allowances—the biggest one, without a doubt, that this country ever has proposed to undertake.

RACKETEERS PREYING UPON SOLDIERS

Among several papers recently calling attention to the civilian racketeers preying upon returning soldiers and relatives of those still overseas is the Kingston Windsor Standard, which carries a timely editorial, "Soldier Beware!" It sets out various forms of gyping through which these patriotic people of Canada are being victimized by unscrupulous crooks safely at home, neither fighting nor working at honest toil. Operating from a temporary address, using the telephone approach, with a quick sign-up and a money grab, they shift from point to point to point as public opinion gets wise to their game, with thousands of dollars as their ill-gotten gain.

Among the forms of graft mentioned in the editorial are the "insignia racket," the "jewelry club," the "dwarf-grass swindle," and the "enlarged picture" skin game. All are worked through a plausible, smooth salesman approach and the swindle becomes apparent long after the slicker has departed. The dwarf-grass scheme gives opportunity for a long head-start in the get-away. Grass seed for lawns is guaranteed to grow only so high and remain perpetually green. It requires no lawn cutting. But when the cheap and spurious seed is planted it is found to be shoddy stunted weeds.

This gives the swindler plenty of time for a get-away. It is known that thousands of dollars have been gathered in this one racket alone. It should be remembered that in the jewelry and insignia schemes the safest plan is to deal at home with reputable business firms. In larger centres the Better Business Bureau are safe-guards against these deceptions. In smaller communities, having no Board of Trade or Business Men's Association a wise plan would be to defer closing a deal until the local banker or the Chief of Police can be consulted. It is believed the Government has issued no warning in this regard, so the press is giving real service in telling of these frauds.—Bowmanville Statesman.

SMART BOY SOLVES PROBLEM

Applying the simple logic of youth, a small boy solved a problem that had baffled some of the country's brightest minds. The problem was what to do with some 19,000 steel helmets of World War I design that had been declared surplus to War Assets Corporation.

Outmoded as Military millinery, these "tin" hats appeared destined to be sold at a fraction of a cent each as scrap. Canadian newspapers tried to be helpful. Their search for ideas produced a flood of suggestions which ran the gamut from flower pots, bird baths, feeding bowls for calves along to hens nests. But none proved feasible.

Then in the window of a Vancouver store whose owner had offered to display them, this unknown, juvenile genius saw the helmets. The price fitted his purse. In two hours all the helmets in one store were gone and the rush was on across Canada. Altogether 15,966 tin hats went on to the pates of volunteer junior commandos and War Assets can fill orders for 50,000 more if it can find the helmets.

As a companion piece, according to J. P. Gledhill, Director of Sales of War Assets Corporation, 47,000 dummy wooden rifles, originally designed for the training of cadet corps became surplus and these, selling for the price

WE LIVE LONGER

● It may be better medical care, it may be more attention to nutrition, but at any rate Canadians are living longer. Even over the ten-year period 1931-41 the expected life span of the average one-year-old Canadian child increased by 2.31 years. According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the expected life span in 1945 is now 68.73 years for a girl, and 66.14 years for a boy.

SECURITY BY DOLE

● Dr. Charlotte Whitton continues to examine the family allowances scheme with the kind of realism that is often called feminine intuition. In a recent article in Saturday Night she deals with the financial side of the plan and suggests that the cost of "baby bonuses" may well be $400,000,000 a year before the next parliament is dissolved.

She writes:

It is doubtful if a twelvemonth of full operation can be carried at less than $300 millions, while it is certain that once it is in force no political party will be able to withstand the logic of Quebec's contention that since this is in part a population measure, babies after the fourth should grade up or, at least, remain static, and not go down in bonus value. Either directly or by provincial premium in that province, a flat or even a rising scale will mean a $400 million outlay on this item before the next parliament is out.

Past experience with underestimated costs of social security schemes suggest that Dr. Whitton is being conservative. There doesn't seem much reason to doubt that within a few years family allowances will be costing Canadian taxpayers $400,000,000 a year.

The first year that annual federal revenue in Canada reached the $400 million mark was in 1921, when it went to $436 millions. That was the Dominion government's total intake of money. Now we face the prospect of paying out approximately that sum on baby bonuses alone. And there are minimum prices of fish and farm produce and other obligations to take account of, too. The money is to come mainly from the taxpayer's pocket. It does not take much imagination to see that the lot of the taxpayer in the years to come is going to be a hard one. Intrinsically the proposition is absurd, and it will remain so until new sources of financial credit are tapped.—Ottawa Citizen.

— V —

● Commenting on the "baby bonus" to be introduced in July next, Editor McKenzie of the Havelock Standard opines that "it may be a gift that may be appreciated by many at least until income tax time. Then watch the fire fly."

— V —

● The Maple syrup season is here but the unusually mild weather for this time of year and lack of frosts at night are not favourable conditions for the industry.

— V —

● The neighbouring town of Campbellford is introducing the curfew law to chase the boys and girls off the streets at night. There are both advantages and disadvantages to this law, but there are times when we think it should be adopted in this village.

— V —

● Out of a total of $440,212 collected from the farmers of Canada in income tax, the province of Saskatchewan contributed $205,835 or nearly half. It must be that they have better collectors in the western province than elsewhere.

of a sundae, were grabbed off by the kids of Canada.

Now the headache of War Assets isn't to find a market for these surpluses but to find the surplus for the market.

PLANNING TO MOVE?

Just about half of Canada's families have lived in their present homes less than five years, and one-quarter of Canada's families plan to move after the war, according to a survey made by the Maclean Publishing Company. Of those who plan to buy or build their own homes, half of them plan to live in town, and one in five want a home in the country.

Where are they going to find the money? They have that all settled, too: 40 per cent intend to pay cash, 17 per cent to use their war bonds, 23 per cent propose to take out government housing loans, and 15 per cent plan to arrange mortgages.

Postwar prospects look good for the construction industry!

GERMS CARRIED BY RAW COW'S MILK

Careful experiments have conclusively proved that there is no raw milk free from germs, even when obtained under sterile conditions. There are known to be bacteria in milk when it leaves the udders of healthy cows.

If milk is not kept very cold these bacteria first change its taste and colour; then cause the milk to sour or curdle. This process continues in the stomach, causing indigestion, in babies particularly.

In addition to the organism in the milk of healthy cows which causes the fermentation and putrefaction of the nutrients in milk, many diseased cows carry germs in the milk which produce very dangerous diseases in people of all races and ages.

Disease-producing germs in milk have their origin in diseased cows, milkers, milk handlers, carriers or people who have recovered from infectious diseases but still carry the germs in their bodies, and at times from contaminated water used in the dairy for washing utensils.

Milk-borne diseases are bovine tuberculosis, undulant fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, septic sore throat, typhoid fever, paratyphoid and dysentery. There are also a number of food poisoners found in raw milk.

Dr. J. R. Fraser, dean of the McGill University medical faculty, states that "possibly infantile paralysis is a milk-borne disease."

The communicable diseases mentioned also may be conveyed in the various fresh-milk products such as cream, ice cream, cheese, butter, and buttermilk.

Proper pasteurization of raw milk destroys disease germs.

THIEF RETURNS BAG OF SUGAR

The Canadian National Railways station at Delhi, Ontario, was entered some time during the night of March 12 and the agent F. Hutchison reported to Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer at Hancroft that a hundred-weight of sugar had been stolen from the freight shed. The C.N.R. police of Lindsay were also notified, and as a result of Constables Ray Morden of Lindsay and S. W. Palmateer's investigation the thief evidently became alarmed as the following morning the bag of sugar was outside the door of the station untouched.

His Red Cross Mother

FIGHTING through the mud and icy slush of flooded battlefields, our boys in the front line have learned to bless the tens of thousands of devoted women who labor as volunteer workers for the Red Cross.

Through five years of war, these Canadian "Blue Smock" workers have knitted hundreds of thousands of pairs of socks... made millions of other comforting articles of clothing... packed millions of Red Cross food parcels. Other specially-trained volunteer women serve as drivers, as nursing aides, as office workers and dietitians.

Freely giving their time and labor, these hard-working volunteers make your Red Cross dollars stretch farther. Thanks to their efforts, each dollar you give is multiplied three times in the value of food, clothing and medical supplies it buys.

GIVE—and give generously, to support their selfless work. Let your contribution to the Canadian Red Cross be the token of your thanks to these devoted women who serve in very truth, as "another mother" to your boy, or your friend or neighbor in the fighting line.

Mission medical work is concentrated in three small towns and several well trained Thai Christian doctors carry on work in other mission centres.

At present there are no missionaries in Thailand, but at some centres the Christian staff have been left in control. This gives us courage to believe that no matter what may come the spirit of the cross which has been a living reality in Thailand will be equal to any emergency.

Mr. Thomas Andrews received word last week that his nephew Pilot Officer Harold Clarke, of Calgary was killed in February in England as the result of a plane accident. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke and he leaves to mourn his wife and baby in Calgary.

Mrs. John Reid spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clancy and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubble. She also visited relatives in Campbellford.

Miss Dianne McAdam spent a couple of days last week with her aunt Miss Lois McAdam.

Corporal and Mrs. Sid Demorest were entertained Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sine and daughters.

Pte. Richard Walls, Camp Borden spent the week-end with his brother, Mr. Charles Walls at Mt. Pleasant.

A Red Cross quilting was held at Mount Pleasant hall on Monday and three quilts were completed, eighteen ladies were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrews attended a special social evening at Springbrook L.O.L. hall last Thursday night in honour of Sgt. Reynard Redcliffe.

During the past week the snow disappeared like magic. Each day more green grass was visible and frogs are croaking and the balmy days were a great saving on fuel. Caterpillars, snakes, cabbage, moths and a large variety of birds were observed. Here and there were little rivulets all wending their way to the river. The Third Concession were delighted to have the mail courier pay them a visit on Tuesday, March 13th, this being the first trip around by McKeown's and Wrightman's since December 12, and three months has been a long, long time.

The 4th concession folk have also emerged from the northern wilderness. The snow banks disappeared and motor travel was again resumed with trucks and cars travelling past Irvin Reids over the portion of road which was closed to motor traffic for several weeks. The mail courier also delivered the mail five days last week from White's to Andrews'. It is hoped to have daily mail now for a few months. While we folks have a great deal to be thankful for living in Canada, still many of us people living on the back concessions are particularly thankful when the dreaded winter is finished. It is certainly no treat to shovel snow by the hour everytime you find it necessary to travel to town. Folks who are privileged to reside on the main travelled roads with rural mail every day have no idea what hardships the back concessions undergo during a winter such as the one just finished. Possibly when the war is over the powers that be will endeavour to treat each taxpayer in Rawdon, the same, when all can have a fair deal.

MAKES MORE EGGS

Britain needs 30 million dozen shell eggs in 1945—as well as 75 million dozen powdered eggs! That's a lot of eggs—and that means maximum production is required! Big 50 Laying Concentrate with your own grains will help your hens produce those extra eggs—economically and without waste. Satisfactorily high egg prices now mean greater profits if you do this: See that your hens get a properly balanced ration of grains and Big 50 Laying Concentrate—a ration that provides all the proteins, minerals, vitamins and other essential food elements that go to make eggs. Successful poultrymen know that the SHUR-GAIN Way makes more eggs.

PROTECTS YOUR FLOCK

The health of your flock is important if you are to get maximum production. That's why a balanced ration made with SHUR-GAIN Big 50 Laying Concentrate is so valuable. It keeps your hens in good condition—healthy and rugged right through the winter.

COSTS YOU LESS

A healthy flock is a profitable flock and the way to eliminate waste and save feeding costs is to feed right—the SHUR-GAIN Way. If you feed SHUR-GAIN Big 50 Laying Concentrate with home grains you will find as thousands of other poultrymen have found—that it costs less to produce a dozen eggs the SHUR-GAIN Way than by any other method of feeding.

Background of Session

Behind considerable dissatisfaction heard at this exciting time backstage on Parliament Hill by this impartial, veteran observer is the low sibilant whisper of complaint that there has been too much delay in calling into session Parliament in order that the people of Canada may be kept abreast of the momentous developments of the times. Since there is only a limited number of working days left in this past session of the war Parliament whose legal life is ended on April 17 and a prelude to the coming general election, it is held to be in the interest of this nation at this time that a proper inquiry be made into numerous vital matters for which the Government can be held to strict accountability.

In Great Britain, the Government has reported again and again to Parliament this year and in the United States somewhat similar reports have been given from time to time this year both to the Congress and the Senate. With Canada's Government committed deeply to heavy responsibilities for fighting this war to a finish both against Japan and Germany and for responsibilities in world collaboration after this war, there can be little doubt that there will be limited time only in this session for all reports, questions, debates and criticisms by opposition or private members in a Parliament which is not noted for its speedily and streamlined procedure. This is stressed now because there is widespread curiosity across Canada not merely for comprehensive information on financial appropriations as well as statistical statements but rather on such significant matters as military policy, reinforcement needs, political actions at the world security conference at San Francisco in April, and so forth. Therefore it is hinted in well-informed quarters in Ottawa that this last war session may be jammed full of news, perhaps, more sensational news than it is generally expected by the man-in-the-street.

Electoral Machinery in Motion
As a result of an amendment to the Dominion Election Act, which was changed by a special committee at the last session of Parliament, a new set of regulations for taking the war service vote has come into existence so that Canada's men and women in uniform at home and abroad will be able to vote directly in the coming general election. Indeed, it is reported in Ottawa now that this electoral machinery is all ready for this test of public opinion and seven special regional returning officers have already been appointed to take the overseas vote of the armed forces.

Squadron Leader John M. McPherson, Meaford, has been named to supervise the vote taking in the Far East, including India and Australia, and John R. Hill, Regina, in the Middle East, comprising Africa, Egypt and Libya, with these men being at their electoral posts abroad and remaining there until after the general election. Three others have completed their preliminary work, returned to Canada, and will move out again when the election call will be issued in an official manner. These men are Major F. R. Palmer, St. Thomas, for the United Kingdom, Carl J. Dewart, Peterboro, for Italy and Sicily, Sardinia, and Corsica, and Capt. J. R. Groux, Strathmore, Que., for France, Belgium and Holland. Two others will go to their positions only after the election writs will be issued and these are Captain Charles A. McLennan, Truro, for the British West Indies and D. Lorne Cameron, Manitou, Manitoba, for Newfoundland.

Advertisements and Taxes
Advertisements have appeared in the press of Canada wherein some trust companies as well as banks have alleged or insinuated that there were unfairly high taxes against these privately owned large financial institutions when succession duties were involved and some of their clients.

It can be reported that an opinion has been expressed in this nation's capital that such succession duty taxes are not out of line nor unfair at the present time. However, there has been one sharp criticism of these taxes. It has been claimed that, if the Federal and Provincial Governments should arrange that the Federal Government only should levy such succession duty taxes and afterwards compensate the Provincial Governments in the same manner as the war-time arrangement for income and corporation taxes, it would be better for everyone. At the present time, there is a system whereby the Federal and Provincial Governments collect these taxes so that, it is said, a change enabling the Federal Government to levy these taxes would

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

By ANNE ALLAN

Hello Homemakers! In these busy times many of us have added the "lunch box" to our daily tasks; others find themselves preparing two or three every day instead of one.

The lunch box is an important responsibility—it depends to a large extent the energy and efficiency of the school child or war worker.

Therefore it must be made both nourishing and attractive. Here are a few suggestions to accompany a thermos of soup, cocoa, tea or coffee, on these chilly days.

SANDWICHES

You might try these recipes to introduce variety. Whatever the fillings used, be sure to wrap each kind individually in wax paper.

BEEF LOAF

1 1-2 lbs. round steak, 2 eggs,
1 1-2 cups bread-crumbs, 2 tbsps.
chopped parsley, 1-2 tsp. pepper,
dressing onion.

Grind the beef. Mix it thoroughly with the unbeaten eggs, bread-crumbs, chopped parsley, pepper and salt. Place in a loaf pan and press firmly until it is molded to the shape of the pan. Bake in a moderate electric oven (350 deg. to 375 deg.) for about two hours. Cut in thin slices.

CHEESE AND EGG SPREAD

1 tbsps. fat, 1 tsp. grated onion,
1 1-2 tbsps. flour, 2 tbsps. sugar,
1-4 tsp. mustard, 2 hard-boiled eggs, chopped, 1-2 tsp. salt, 3-4 cup milk, 1 tbsps. vinegar, 2 cups grated cheese.

Melt fat and cook onion in it for 1 minute. Add flour, sugar, mustard and salt and stir till well blended. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add vinegar and cheese. Continue cooking until cheese melts and mixture is smooth. Add eggs and cool. Store in a covered jar in a cold place. Makes 2 1-4 cups filling.

TO STRETCH BUTTER

Cream 1-2 pound butter till light and fluffy. Gradually beat in 1-2 cup milk, using a Dover egg beater. Store in a covered jar in electric refrigerator.

DESSERTS

Cookies, carefully wrapped in wax paper, make a good accompaniment to fruit in season, which is always welcome and easily carried. Puddings and custards, made to serve at home, may also be included in the lunch box if packaged in custard cups. These standbys may be alternated with a serving of cake or pie, placed on cardboard, then enclosed in wax paper.

OATMEAL CRINKLES

1-3 cup fat, 1-4 cup brown sugar,
1 cup pastry flour, 1-4 tsp. salt,
1 cup rolled oats, 1-2 tsp. baking soda, 1-4 cup warm water; 1-4 tsp.
alpslice.

Cream fat and sugar thoroughly. Add alpslice. Mix flour, salt and rolled oats. Add alternately with the warm water in which soda has been dissolved. This makes a stiff dough. Drop by teaspoonfuls into a greased cookie sheet and flatten with a fork. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 deg., 10 to 12 mins. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

TAKE A TRIP

1. Here's a snack you should try mid-morning at home. Make up any leftover coffee to 1 cupful by adding some hot water to it. Put this in a saucepan and add 1 square of baking chocolate, 2 tbsps. sugar, a pinch of salt and boil 3 minutes—add a cup of milk and its ready. (You may put it all in the double boiler right after breakfast, in fact, and let it simmer for 15 minutes then cover and let stand on the element turned off.)

2. To keep food hot throughout a staggered meal hour use casseroles for meats, vegetables and desserts and an enamelled pitcher for gravy. These all go back into a large shallow pan with a little hot water in it on the oven shelf to keep the food hot but not dried out. Then when the next one comes in its easy to lift them out, wipe off and place back on the table. Oh, and another thing, use a tray to carry them all on, making one trip do.

Anne Allan invites you to write to her c/o Stirling News-Argus. Send in your suggestions on homemaking problems and watch this column for replies.

bring about a definite betterment of the whole system of collecting succession duty taxes in Canada.

Do You Want a Job?

There is a job for every veteran! Notwithstanding the circulation of all stories or rumors to the contrary, yet it can be disclosed that almost every veteran, who is qualified and applies for a suitable position in Canada's Civil Service, is given a job. This is the information given in Ottawa. There are now ten regional offices of the Civil Service across Canada and these co-operate closely with National Selective Service, with these regional offices having been established about three years ago as a wartime measure and being located at present in Vancouver, Edmonton, Quebec, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax. Instead, of clearing such things through Ottawa, these regional offices give special consideration to the returning veterans and positions are filled much quicker by communicating with local organizations of veterans, informing them of positions to be filled, finding out what positions are wanted as well as what persons are available so that the jobs and these persons are brought together as quickly as possible.

Resignations are Ominous

Opinions seem to be coming freely now-a-days from Ottawa that wartime controls may continue for a long time after this war will end. However, the continuous parade out of this capital by such officials seems to be ominous of the truth behind the scenes amongst these officials themselves. This can be adjudged from such resignations as that of Douglas Dewar, as Deputy Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board since 1943; the departure of R. T. Hohan, who was Administrator of tea and coffee for this Board since early in 1943; the return to private business of Henry S. Rosenberg, who was Deputy Administrator of Used Goods for this Board since March of 1942; the retirement of R. L. Weldon who was Deputy Co-ordinator of the Pulp and Paper Administrations; the return to his former private business undertaking of E. A. Horton who was Assistant and Retail Trade Administrator and others. This fact of the continuous departure of these officials from Ottawa speak louder than mere opinions.

Purely Personal

In face of the allegation that General McNaughton receives a pension from the Army in addition to his other returns as Minister of National Defence, yet it is indicated in Ottawa that he has not accepted any such pension during his tenure of this office, though he is entitled to an annual pension amounting to $8,120. . . Well-informed quarters in this capital appear to be deeply impressed with the fact that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had named Hon. J. L. Halsey as acting Prime Minister on a continuous parade out of this capital special occasion lately.

MRS. G. H. BARTON

The funeral of the late Margaret Sexsmith, beloved wife of G. H. Barton, was held at her late residence on Spring street, Norwood, on Saturday at 3 p.m. The service was conducted by Rev. E. Pugsley.

Mrs. Barton, a daughter of the late Thomas and Margaret Sexsmith, of Belmont was born in 1868. In 1899 she was married to G. H. Barton, and for a few years they lived in Rawdon township. Later they moved to Asphodel township near Norwood, where Mr. Barton built the "Daisy D" cheese factory and made cheese for a number of years. Eighteen years ago they retired from cheese making and moved to their present residence in Norwood. For a few years they were engaged in the grocery business.

Mrs. Barton was a regular attendant of the Norwood United Church, a member of the Women's Association and an active member of the Women's Institute during the years when her health permitted. For the past eleven months she had been confined to her bed as a result of a stroke.

Mrs. Barton is survived by her husband, one son, Pte. Thomas A. of Kingston, and her daughter-in-law and two grandchildren, Pauline and Yvonne, of Lakefield. One sister, Hattie, who now resides with her brother, Mr.

Thomas Sexsmith, of Peterborough. Out-of-town relatives and friends at the funeral included Mr. Floyd Curtis, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Barton, Bowmanville; Joseph and Peter Sexsmith and Miss Ella Sexsmith of Newtonville; Miss Olive Barton, Bowmanville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart and daughters of Springbrook; Mr. William Gibson, Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Barton, Springbrook; Mrs. A. Brown, Peterborough; Mr. Bert Sexsmith, Peterborough; Mr. Thomas Sexsmith, Mr. Albert Switzer, Smithfield, Ont.

Honour Newly-weds

Mrs. Gerald Thompson (nee Dorothy Hinds), a recent bride, was honoured Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dunham and daughters, when the members of the Wellman's Wide-a-Wake Sunday School Class held a pantry shower in her honour.

The rooms were nicely decorated in the class colours of brown and yellow with white streamers and bells. There were twenty-nine in attendance and all enjoyed a jolly evening.

The program opened with "O Floral Wedding" contest. Miss Mina Dracup and Mrs. Fred Beckett sang "Beautiful Ohio." Mrs. T. F. Townsend recited two selections. The teacher, Mrs. Burton Morton presided over a series of relay games all in keeping with married bliss. The boys tried their hands at sewing on buttons this being the first test of a good husband.

Mrs. Morton wrote an appropriate verse for each gift and these were numbered and placed in a decorated basket. An interesting contest was enjoyed when the verses were read and the guests guessed the answers. Miss Bernice Dunham read an appropriate address and the Misses Mabel Sharp and June Dunham presented the basket of gifts.

The bride of a few weeks opened the parcels and a nice array of granfware, tea towels, and a mouse-trap were on display.

Both Gerald and Dorothy spoke briefly saying, "Thank You" for the lovely gifts. They invited the class to pay them a visit at their new home in Stanwood.

Partners were chosen in "Cinderella style" for supper and sandwiches, cake, ice-cream and coffee were served.

The white bride's cake was made in a ring mould filled with fortunes and iced in yellow and this was a special feature of the supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Thompson Dear Dorothy,—

We felt we could not let you go without our best regards and so, we've gathered here, your classmates, dear, to wish you well and bring you cheer. You've always been a willing worker, no one can say you've been a shirker. You've always helped when ever asked; done what you could, what'er the task. We'll miss you, Dorothy, never fear. We had hoped to have you for many a year. But you will make a successful wife, and we wish you joy for all your life.

May God's richest blessings rest upon you both as you journey along the road of life together.

Signed on behalf of the Sunday School Class.

Pte. H. C. Lummiss Reported Hurt

Private Harold Cleland Lummiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lummiss, 285 Park Street north, of Peterboro, formerly of Stirling, was reported injured March 12 with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders in official intelligence to his parents on the following Saturday.

"We have received some details in a letter this morning from one of his companion friends in the Glengarrys," Mrs. Lummiss informed The Examiner today. "Our son was cleaning a Sten gun, when it accidentally discharged, and the bullet struck him in the thigh. The official notice said he was seriously wounded, but this letter from a chum was a relief because it was written the following day and told us that he was doing well."

Private Lummiss was born at Stirling and enlisted from that village in June five years ago. He was then in his sixteenth year, but actually his sixteenth birthday was not until the following August. He has been overseas since 1941. His father, Bert Lummiss, is a veteran of the last war, in which he served with the 21st Battalion.

Another son, Malcolm Lummiss, is a leading supply assistant in the Canadian Navy. The last word from him, his mother said, was to the effect that he was about to leave an eastern port for Atlantic waters.

Private Lummiss suffered two prior injuries overseas. He was shot through the leg last September and was absent from his unit for months. He was with the Glengarrys in their Normandy landing, acting as a despatch rider. His first injury was caused by a hand grenade fragment about Christmas, 1943. It was also a leg wound.

During his stay in England he was married in November, 1943. His wife lives at Stoke-on-Trent. — Peterboro Examiner.

Trout Season To Open Earlier

Their minds turned to rod and reel by the unusual warmth of the spring, Ontario's fishermen got official confirmation of their optimism today when G. H. Dunbar, Minister of Game and Fisheries, announced the speckled trout season will open April 23 and the pickerel season May 12, both Saturdays and both dates in advance of previous years.

It is apparent, said Mr. Dunbar, there will be normal speckled trout angling much earlier this year and indications, too, that pickerel will be off the spawning beds well in advance of May 15. With these forecasts in mind, the Department advanced open dates in each case.

Open now is the perch season and it was predicted that if the weather holds lake trout will be taken April 15, a month ahead of the normal date.

Anglers, getting ready for their sixth wartime season, were confronted with war-shortages of rods and reels and other tackle — the firms that made them have been doing war work for a long time now.

Matters of Routine Occupy

Principal C. A. Wells made a request for a number of shop supplies and reported on the night classes held for Rawdon Junior Farmers. The Junior Farmers had proven to be good students and some good work was accomplished. The need of a school garden was also mentioned by principal Wells, who again offered the use of his lot at the same rental as last year. On motion his several requests were granted.

Principal Good of the High School stated the school work was going along nicely with all the courses of study practically completed. Some time would be available for review following the Easter vacation and the examinations would commence approximately on May 14th.

He reported three projects under way in connection with the New Department of Agriculture, introduced into the school last fall, namely Leghorn and Barred Rock poultry clubs and a Potato Club, which will be under the supervision of Mr. R. G. Gaul, teacher of Agriculture. A requisition for a subscription to the Canadian Poultry Review was also made and granted.

Wrong Interpretation

There seems to be a wrong interpretation across Canada that the coming world security conference at San Francisco in April is a sort of "peace conference" but it must be reported that this is not true according to the best informed sources on Parliament Hill. Indeed, it is stressed in Ottawa that this gathering is not concerned with peace treaties, nor conditions to be imposed. In fact, Premier Mackenzie King himself said in part: "Peace can only be made lasting through co-operative action on the part of peace-loving nations. The purpose of the forthcoming conference at San Francisco is the creation of a general international organization to maintain peace and security in the post-war world." In other words, Premier King told Parliament that it was a gathering to create a sort of framework or foundation only.

What a Bill

Some interesting facts have been hinted between the lines of the main civil estimates introduced in Parliament by Finance Minister Hsley who asked for a new year's total of $1,023,621,597, marking an increase of almost $300,000,000 over last year. Within these figures is quite a story of expenditures incidental to the war as well as to the fact that the work will be a bird with an unusually large bill since the "baby bonus" payments will start on July 1st. These figures disclose that the Government will spend in the new fiscal year more on the National Gallery of Canada and it will be $52,405 or an increase of $1775, involving costs for art exhibitions, lectures and educational work. More money will also be spent on other things. These are superannuation and retirement benefits for the Civil Service, $3,147,874, an increase of $296,629; National Film Board is being allowed an additional $108,000 in the supplementary estimates for the current fiscal year ending March 31 and now it is voted $810,965 for the ensuing year, an increase of $132,159, including $237,000 to be spent for film programmes in rural circuits; the National Research Council, $1,200,448, an increase of $274,919; Veterans' Affairs Department, $73,745,825, an increase of $12,618,635, consisting mainly of increases of $4,040,813 on rehabilitation services, $4,527,422 on treatment facilities, and $2,350,000 for war veterans' allowances; National Health and Welfare Department, $194,369,814, including the startling new amount of no less than $190,000,000 for the "baby bonus" or family allowances alone, with its administration already estimated to cost about $2,392,070; $3,024,948 for the new Reconstruction Department and $1,500,000 for Departmental administration, including $555,000 for temporary staff salaries. Decreases on costs will be made by the Government in the Civil Service Commission, $495,770 or a decrease of $2,063; the Central Experimental Farm, $728,936 or a decrease of $85,152; on the maintenance of buildings in Ottawa, $2,900,117 or a decrease of $18,363. Between the lines of these figures is the story of the intentions of the Administration in Ottawa for the new fiscal year—a story of greater burdens for the taxpayers of Canada!

Lights and Shadows

As gleams of light suggestive of things to come at end of this war seem to radiate now on the horizon on Parliament Hill, it must be revealed that sharp criticism of the ways and means supposedly used in the disposal of surplus war goods appear to darken the picture somewhat. In strong refutation, it is indicated in Ottawa that there is no wilful destruction of such war goods, that reports of destruction are very much exaggerated, that the Crown Assets Allocation Committee is composed of many experts, that their recommendations are made in the best interest of Canadian industries, and that there is no secrecy about the disposal. It should be stressed also that this Allocation Committee merely recommends the disposal of these goods and the actual disposal is made by the War Assets Corporation whose head is J. B. Carswell, of Montreal. It may be added that this Allocation Committee has representations of a part or cross-section of this country, such as Labor in the person of Percy Bengough, president of the Allied Trades and Labor Congress; Agriculture in the person of the Deputy Minister of Agriculture in Quebec; householders in Mrs. C. H. Thorburn, of Ottawa. This is the information available in the capital in answer to sharp criticism heard across Canada regarding the disposal of surplus war goods, including a resolution by a well-known church body.

Sensational Charges

A United States Supreme Court decision has brought a repercussion in Canada. As a result of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States finding the Aluminum Company of America and Aluminum Limited, a Canadian company, to be participants in a monopolistic conspiracy, the leader of the C.C.F. party, M. J. Caldwell, has come forth with a claim in Ottawa that this decision has substantiated his allegations which were made in Canada's Parliament in 1943. At that time Mr. Caldwell had alleged that the Aluminum Company of Canada was a monopoly and a member of an international cartel. However, after a committee on war expenditures had looked into these charges, it reported in January, 1944, that these charges were not true.

Governor General's Successor

With the circulation of stories about the likely return overseas of Canada's Governor General, His Excellency the Earl of Athlone, upon the conclusion of his term of office this coming summer, it must be pointed out that there seems to be an erroneous notion about this position. The Governor General's term of office in Canada is not for a definitely fixed term, it is claimed in Ottawa, though there has been a sort of convention that he usually remains in this office for a term of five years. Indeed, there is a precedent whereby the Governor General has remained in office beyond this time limit. In any case, the successor to the Governor General of Canada is a matter to be arranged between the Prime Minister of this country and His Majesty the King. On June 21st, 1945, it will be five years that the Earl of Athlone has served in this office and it is said that he might want to return home by that time, though lately there have been reports that he might possibly remain until the general elections in Great Britain and Canada had been held. The Earl of Athlone is now 71 years of age and he has had a distinguished career, including the post of Governor General of the Union of South Africa from 1923 to 1931.

Strong Resentment

This nation's capital was declared an emergency shelter area on January 17, on account of the extremely overcrowded conditions which can hardly be duplicated in any other city of its size in the country so that it was no surprise when the emergency shelter administration and other officials hinted to members of Parliament not to bring their families to Ottawa for the brief session. However, these officials added that permits for family accommodations would not be granted to these members since their families were not considered to be essential residents of the capital. Therefore, though this was not an order and only a hint, yet there has developed a strong resentment behind the scenes along Parliament Hill against this action by officials since some members interpret it as nothing short of "dictation" to members of Parliament by officials.

Weekly-Wind-Up

A topic of considerable whisper in Ottawa is the report that the regional rentals officer for the capital, L. A. McKinley, following a special inves-

WIT OF CELEBRATED MEN

For several weeks past the London Sunday Times has been publishing letters containing apt retorts made by celebrated men at one time or another during their lives, and these make interesting and instructive reading. We shall reproduce a few of them, as illustration of what we mean. One day in the House of Commons a member rose to announce that another member had died, and the late Tim Healy was heard to remark 'Aye, I suppose he's gone where Cromwell has gone.' There was a storm of protest at this remark, and when it died down Healy remarked, slyly, 'H'm, ye were all very quick to decide where Cromwell has gone!'

Another anecdote concerns Winston Churchill in his younger days, when he wore a somewhat unbecoming moustache. At a dinner party a young lady said to him "I dislike both your politics and your moustache." "Don't distress yourself, madam," replied Churchill, "you are unlikely to come into contact with either."

Another story tells of the famous Irish clown, Johnny Patterson, who became seriously ill during the height of his popularity. His physician made him as comfortable as he could, and prepared to leave saying, "Well, good night, now, Johnny; I'll see you in the morning." Aye, doctor, but shall I see you?" asked the apprehensive Johnny.

TRENTON YOUTH HAS NARROW ESCAPE

With his foot caught between two ties of a Canadian Pacific Railway bridge and a train bearing down on him, 11-year old Ernest Rigg, Trenton, literally won a race with death by wrenching his foot free from his boot, dashing across the bridge and plunging to the bank below as the train sped by.

DOGS TO THE FORE

The chief of police in Amherstburg has recommended to the police committee of Council that all dogs in town be muzzled, whether on leash or not. The suggestion was left over for further consideration. It seems like harsh treatment, but if such a bylaw had been in force the accident of a couple of months ago would not have occurred when a child was bitten on the face by somebody's dog and the resultant scars will have to be borne through life by the victim.

HAVELOCK WANTS CURFEW

At the March meeting of the Havelock Board of Education, on motion of Trustees Mathison and Nobes, the secretary was requested to communicate with the town council and ask for curfew law in Havelock, to have effect from 9.30 p.m. for children under 16 years of age during the school term.

Quality Service at Low Cost

Compared with the cost of other commodities, electricity is cheaper than ever in Canada today. While average commodity prices have now risen more than 18% over the 1935-1939 average, the cost of electricity has actually dropped.

Report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, December 4, 1944, says: "Reductions in electricity rates during the last year have provided a stabilizing influence upon the general cost of living index". On this date:

Cost of living was up 18.9%
Cost of food was up 30.8%
Cost of fuel was up 8.1%

Cost of electricity stood at 91.4% — a drop of 8.1%

Through the support that Ontario people have given their Hydro System, this Province now enjoys electricity at rates that compare favorably with the lowest in the world. Greater use brings lower cost.

With the coming of peace, much power now being used for war production will be available to bring increased benefits to homes and farms. Plan now for greater use of Hydro service.

BUILDING PLANS FOR RANGE SHELTERS

Range shelters are regarded as a necessity by progressive poultrymen. They provide ideal roosting quarters for growing cockerels and pullets. Range shelters may also be used to pen-fatten market stock and to house yearling layers which have just completed their pullet year production and are being conditioned for the next season's breeding.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has published plans on how to build range shelters, plans illustrated by photographs and drawings. These plans give complete particulars of the materials required to build a range shelter: how many baseboards, how much roof covering and so forth together with their dimensions.

The plans give a poultryman the choice of two kinds of shelters; a large one, designed to meet the requirements of most poultrymen and a smaller shelter of a kind in considerable use in some parts of the Dominion.

Plans for building range shelters may be obtained free from the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

BEEKEEPERS' SUBSIDY

A subsidy of 50 cents per pound on all importations of live package bees, delivered to the importer in Canada during the period March 1, 1945, to June 15, 1945, will be paid this year on the same basis as in 1944, according to a recent decision of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The subsidy will be paid to beekeepers, dealers, or any other persons who are importing bees for their own use or for sale.

All applications for subsidy must be made to Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation Ltd., 69 Rideau St., Ottawa.

TIGHTEN MACHINERY RATIONING RULES

Farmers are urged to continue to repair and keep in operation farm machines which they already own and are strongly advised to consult their nearest farm equipment rationing officer before disposing of the machinery they now own, with the thought of replacing it either immediately or at some later date.

Abuses in the distribution of farm machinery have necessitated an amendment to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 347. The present provisions make it plain that, if a person disposes of machinery which he owns and is of a class or type which is rationed with the thought of replacing it later, without first having consulted the farm machinery rationing officer for his district, his application for new equipment will not be considered. A number of cases have been reported where the farmer finished some particular operation early in the season, sold his equipment to a neighbour, and later made application for new machinery, stating on his application that he had no machinery of that type.

Farm equipment supplies for Canadian farmers are equal to those being made available to American farmers in relation to the output in both countries during the years 1940 and 1941. In both the United States and Canada, however, the supply which can be built under existing circumstances falls short of meeting the demand.

TO CONTINUE TO PAY MILK SUBSIDIES

The Dominion Government will continue to pay the same subsidies on milk and milk products during the 12 months beginning May 1 as in the period May 1, 1944—April 30, 1945, the Dominion Department of Agriculture announced.

The subsidy of 10 cents per pound of butterfat used in the manufacture of creamery butter and of 20 cents per 100 pounds on milk for cheese manufacture will be paid throughout the year. In authorized areas a subsidy of 35 cents per 100 pounds on fluid milk will be paid to producers from May 1, 1945 to September 30, 1945 and 55 cents per 100 pounds from October 1, 1945 to April 30, 1946, except in certain areas where it will continue at 25 cents. For milk used in the manufacture of concentrated milk products and of milk sugar, subsidy will be paid at the rate of 15 cents per 100 pounds from May 1, 1945 to September 30, 1945. This will be raised to the winter level of 30 cents per 100 pounds at October 1, 1945.

Subsidies paid at present and up to April 30 are 10 cents per pound of butterfat used in the manufacture of creamery butter, 20 cents per 100 pounds on milk for cheese manufactured, 55 cents per 100 pounds for fluid milk—except in certain areas where it is 25 cents—and 30 cents per 100 pounds for milk used in the manufacture of concentrated milk products and milk sugar.

BUTTER CUT RESTORED

Commencing April 1 the butter ration will return to the previous seven ounces per week, according to a recent Prices Board announcement. The validity date of coupon 104 will be advanced to April 26 so that a butter coupon will become valid each Thursday in April.

FARM "POISON LICKS"

Farmers are certainly "promising" themselves trouble when cattle are allowed to lick freshly painted fences, billboards, stanchions, and other structures. That is because paint is the most common source of lead around the barnyard, and more farm animals are poisoned by lead than by any other metallic poison.

FLY SPOILS LEATHER

Warble fly control means more meat, more leather, and more milk, with no more feed required. Control of this fly stops the fly from causing stampeding cattle in the fields; prevents the loss of much condemned meat, and saves leather. Hundreds of thousands of pairs of shoe soles never get to market because of grubby hides.

AN ABANDONED FARM

Mar, has wearied of his task
And withdrawn:
Weeds grow rank and wild things bask
On the lawn;
By the orchard, gnarled and gray;
House and barn sink to decay;
No blithe sounds of work or play
Greet the dawn.

Nature takes what man has spurned
To her heart;
Like a conqueror returned,
Rout's man's art;
Through his fields deploys her lines,
Regiments of shrubs and vines;
Takes by storm or undermines
Every part.

How she flaunts her victory
This bright day!
Sets where every eye may see Banners gay!

Purple jockeys, asters blue,
Meadow-sweet of creamy hue,
Golden-rod and primrose, too,
Line my way.

So my soul by Care and Toll
Long oppressed,
Like this farm's exhausted soil,
Cries for rest.
Nature, take again thy child!
Lying fallow, free and wild;
Let me feel thy rigor mild,
Soothed and blessed.

QUESTION 3. If only one person has signed under question 2, state the reason why the other signature cannot be given. Give details—don't say Father or Mother is "away"—state where and for how long.

QUESTIONS 4, 5, 6 and 7 on the other side of the form must also be answered either "Yes" or "No" if the answer is "No" to questions 4, 5 or 6, state details giving name of child, or children concerned. In the case of No. 5, if you have any children under 16 not living with you, list their names, give the reason and the complete address as to where they can be visited. If the answer to No. 7 is "Yes", give the details required.

INCOME TAX: So that nobody will benefit from both Family Allowances and a full income tax deduction for their children, the income tax deduction for children will be reduced by the amount received from Family Allowances. Parents, therefore, have the choice of claiming—or not claiming—Family Allowances. Those uncertain as to whether or not they will benefit are advised to apply for the Family Allowance.

"WHAT'S HOLDING THINGS UP?"

WE regret that thousands of applicants have had to "line up" for telephone service. Telephone equipment has been critically short because this is a "communications" war. And of course the armed forces, the government and war industries still move automatically to the head of the line; their needs come first. Only as material becomes available for less urgent needs can we take care of our waiting list, and on a first-come-first-served basis. We realize it's no fun having to "stand in line" this way. Applicants have been surprisingly cheerful about it—a fact we deeply appreciate. We just want them to know that we will be every bit as glad as they when we can once again meet every request for telephone service—fully and promptly.

Select Your Chick-Starter With Care

The care you use in selecting the breed and strain of chicks you purchase for the coming season can be wasted effort, if you do not exercise the same degree of care in selecting the Chick Starter fed to them. For chicks, like any other babies, respond readily to the care and attention you give them, and if they receive the correct amounts of all the food materials, including minerals, vitamins, and proteins, in a highly digestible and palatable feed, they will make the most satisfactory and thrifty growth possible.

Careless feeding or selection of feed can be the causes of disastrous mortality and consequent loss to you. That is why we urge you to investigate the merits of any Chick Starter before you entrust it with the responsibility of the feeding of your 1945 chick crop.

We have no doubt that having investigated, you will unhesitatingly order your 1945 Chick Starter needs from our SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill—for SHUR-GAIN 18% Chick Starter has an enviable reputation for highest quality results at a price that saves you money!

HASTINGS COUNTY GETS $110,700 IN FAMILY ALLOWANCES

Family allowances under Federal legislation coming into effect on July 1st, will bring into Hastings County families an estimated $111,780, divided as follows:

Rural, per month $58,374
Urban, per month 53,406

Total $111,780

For Northumberland the figures are Rural, per month $30,176
Urban, per month 19,341

Total 49,607

It was at first estimated that the total distribution of family allowances would amount to $200,000,000 annually. Late figures show more than this with Ontario receiving, in round figures, 75 millions, based on 1944 population figures. Working from the last census figures, the figures have been broken down by counties. The age groups used in the census are not exactly the same as those used for family allowances distribution and no figures were available as to the size of families.

Calculations actually brought Ontario's total to over 80 millions but an arbitrary reduction of 10 per cent. was made for each county to cover both the variations in population figures and the children of families of more than five. As this net total is below the official 75 millions, the figures given above are a conservative estimate of minimum expenditures, divided into monthly payments.

BRITISH WAR BRIDES MUST REMAIN FOR DURATION

British war brides who have come to Ontario and are now seeking to return to Britain, "haven't a chance while the war lasts," a Canadian Red Cross official declares.

Several British war brides in Toronto and a number from outside have contacted the Red Cross in an effort to get back to England. This causes all departments a great deal of unnecessary work. Apart from the fact that it is unfeasible because of present shipping conditions, each of the brides who made application to come to Canada also signed at that time an undertaking promising that she would make no application to return to Britain until after the war.

TO HOLD HARNESS HORSE RACES

A racing association has been formed in Brighton for harness racers. Meets will be held on Wednesday afternoons during the summer at Brighton Fair Grounds which will be improved with new fencing and a coat of paint. From fifteen to seventeen horses are owned in Brighton, and along with racing horses from other towns some good competition should result.

"How are you getting on with your new boy friend?" asked the brunette. "Oh, he's all washed up," replied the blonde. "I think he's been deceiving me and that he's really a married man."

"Do you, dear? Whatever makes you think that?"

"Well, last night," explained the blonde, "I was sitting on his knee and he gave me his watch to play with."

Mrs. Brown was sitting in church listening to the sermon, when she remembered to her horror that she had put her Sunday joint in the oven without turning down the gas. She considered getting up and leaving the church, but then changed her mind and scribbled a note and handed it to her husband, who was one of the sidesmen. He, thinking the note for the minister, walked up and placed it on the edge of the pulpit.

The minister paused a moment in her sermon, picked up the note, and to his astonishment read: "For Heaven's sake, get off home and turn off the gas."

The Canadian government has signed an agreement with the government of Czechoslovakia under which the former will lend $15,000,000 for the purchase in Canada of supplies for that country on liberation.

ROLLED STUFFED SHOULDER OF LAMB WITH MINT DRESSING

Shoulder of Lamb (3 or 4 pounds). Select a shoulder of lamb and have the butcher remove bones and roll it. Reserve the bones for soup.

Cook in open roasting pan at 325 degrees in electric oven, allowing 40 minutes per pound.

Salt and pepper may be sprinkled over roast before it is cooked or a short time before removing it from the oven.

MINT DRESSING

4 tbsps. melted butter, 2 tbsps. chopped onion, if desired, 4 tbsps. chopped parsley or celery, 1-2 cup chopped mint leaves (or about 1-4 cup dried mint.) salt and pepper, 4 cups fine soft bread crumbs.

Melt butter in pan. Add onion and parsley or celery. Add mint and seasonings. Stir in bread crumbs. Pile lightly into cavity of shoulder of lamb.

JELLIED RHUBARB

Mix 6 cups of diced rhubarb with 3/4 cup of sugar, 2-3 cup of honey and 1-2 cup of water. Cook in the double boiler over hot water about 15 minutes. Cover so it steams until tender but do not stir if you wish the pieces to remain whole. Strain the juice and add enough hot water to make 3 cups. Soften 2 envelopes (tbsps.) of gelatin in 1-4 cup of cold water. Heat the rhubarb juice and stir the gelatin in to it, until dissolved. Chill the syrup until stiff but not set. Mix with the rhubarb. Put part of the mixture in the mold and let it set. Add more and let that set, and so on until your mold is full. If it were all put in at once the rhubarb would come to the top. Chill in electric refrigerator until set and firm. Serve with or without a cream or custard sauce.

HOT CROSS BUNS

1 cup scalded milk, 3-4 tsp. salt, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup shortening, 1 yeast cake, softened in 1-4 cup warm water, 4 1-2 cups flour (about), 3 egg yolks.
Add scalded milk to salt, sugar and shortening. When lukewarm add yeast and 1 1-2 cups flour. Beat well and let rise until very light. Add the egg yolks and remaining flour. Knead lightly and let rise until double in bulk. Roll out dough one inch thick and cut into rounds. Set these close together on a greased pan and let rise. Glaze the surface of each with a little egg white diluted in water. With a sharp knife cut a cross on top of each bun. Bake about 20 minutes in a hot electric oven at 400 degrees. Just before removing from the oven brush with sugar and water. Fill the cross with a plain frosting. A cup of raisins may be added to the dough if desired.

Italian War Communique: On the front a large force of Italians attacked an enemy cyclist, causing him to dismount. After heavy and prolonged fighting they were able to puncture his tires. The front wheel was destroyed, while the loss of the rear wheel must also be considered probable.

The handlebars are in our hands, but possession of the frames is still being bitterly contested.

War Veterans Insurance NOW AVAILABLE

Offers protection, without medical examination in most cases, to those discharged.

When Canada entered the present war, it was realized that men and women who went into uniform faced the possibility of returning to civilian life with their health impaired, or of some physical disability. It was realized also that, as a result of this impairment in health or disability, many service men and women would be unable to provide protection for their families through the normal channels of commercial life insurance. To meet this situation, Parliament, at its 1944 session, passed an Act known as The Veterans Insurance Act. This act has now been proclaimed and applications may be made for policies under it.

WHAT ARE THE SPECIAL FEATURES OF WAR VETERANS INSURANCE?

One of the principal features of War Veterans Insurance is that, with very few exceptions, it is available at low cost, that, with very few exceptions, it is available at low cost, that, with very few exceptions, it is available at low cost, that, with very few exceptions, it is available at low cost.

WHO MAY APPLY FOR WAR VETERANS INSURANCE?

Any ex-service man or woman is eligible. In addition, widows or widowers of veterans may apply for the insurance on themselves if the veterans were not insured under the Act. Merchant Navy personnel in receipt of a war disability pension from the present war are eligible also.

WHAT TYPES OF INSURANCE ARE AVAILABLE?

The plans of insurance available are 10 Payment Life, 15 Payment Life, 20 Payment Life, Life Paid-up at 65 and Life Paid-up at 85; that is, premiums may be paid for 10, 15 or 20 years or until age 65 or 85 respectively. The longer the term of payment the smaller the premium required. Term and Endowment policies are not issued. The insurance is of the non-participating type, that is, no dividends are paid.

WHAT AMOUNTS OF INSURANCE ARE PROVIDED FOR?

Policies may be applied for in amounts ranging from $500 to $10,000. The amount of the policy is payable only in the event of the death of the insured.

HOW ARE PREMIUMS PAID?

At the option of the veteran, premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, half-yearly, or annually. There is no additional cost to the veteran for paying premiums on a monthly basis.

IS THERE ANY CASH SURRENDER VALUE?

After premiums have been paid for two full years, the policy may be surrendered for its Cash Surrender Value, or it may be transferred to Paid-up Insurance or Extended Term Insurance. There is no provision for loans against the policy.

AT DEATH HOW WILL THE INSURANCE BE PAID?

The maximum amount which may be paid at death is $1,000, with the remainder being paid, at the option of the insured, in one of the following three ways:

- (1) The money, plus 3 1/2 per cent. interest, may be paid to the beneficiary in equal instalments over a period of five, ten, fifteen or twenty years, as selected. If the beneficiary dies, the payments are continued to his or her estate.
- (2) The money may be paid in equal instalments as long as the beneficiary lives.
- (3) As in (2), but instalments are guaranteed for five, ten, fifteen or twenty years, whether the beneficiary lives or dies.

WHAT IS THE EFFECT OF A WAR DISABILITY PENSION?

If, on the death of the insured, the beneficiary receives a pension, the insurance money will be paid as follows:

- (1) If the policy is paid up, the full face amount of it will be paid to the beneficiary in the manner elected by the insured, plus the pension.
- (2) If the policy is not paid up, then the capitalized value of the pension will be deducted from the face value of the policy and instead, the beneficiary will receive the paid-up value of the portion deducted, plus the excess, if any, of the face amount of the policy. If the policy has been capitalized value of the pension. If the policy has been in force at least six months and the beneficiary is the wife or husband or child, or both, of the insured, at least $500 will be paid as well as the paid-up value of the remainder.

WHO MAY BE NAMED AS A BENEFICIARY?

Where the insured is married, the beneficiary must be the wife or husband, or child, or both. If the veteran is single, the beneficiary must be the future wife or husband, with a parent, brother or sister, named as a contingent beneficiary to receive the insurance money should the veteran die unmarried.

CAN RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT OR PENSION BE USED FOR VETERANS INSURANCE?

Yes, this is one of the purposes for which the re-establishment credit may be used. Premiums may be deducted from pensions also, if requested.

IF THE VETERAN BECOMES TOTALLY DISABLED, WHAT HAPPENS?

If this occurs before the veteran reaches the age of sixty years, and he is not in receipt of full pension for the disability, no further premiums need be paid.

ARE THERE ANY RESTRICTIONS AS TO TRAVEL, RESIDENCE, OR OCCUPATION?

In addition to being free of occupational restrictions, the insurance also is free of restriction as to travel and residence.

Happy Go Lucky

CHAPTER IV

Clamp Fields, managing editor of the Westhaven Clarion, fires Tony Blake, but Barbara West, his secretary, intercedes. Tony saves himself by scoring a news beat and gets a raise in pay. Taking Barbara to dinner and a dance. Tony proposes and is accepted. They were married in the church, with Tony's mother and sister, as well as their many friends present. After the ceremony, Nora Fields gave a reception at her home. From there they left by car to spend their honeymoon at Ashbury Park. They left by back road to escape their friends.

"It's as if—as if you'd gone around half finished all your life," stammered Barbara, "and then suddenly you were complete. Oh, Tony, we mustn't ever let anything spoil it! I mean that what we feel for each other is so beautiful, I couldn't bear to have any of the bloom rubbed off."

"No," said Tony, his face graver than she had ever seen it.

"So many married couples seem to have let all the glory slip away from them," faltered Barbara.

"We won't!" cried Tony.

He kissed her. "We won't let anything go wrong for us, sugar."

They told each other things, they had never told anyone else. "Yep," said Tony, staring hard at a little mound of sand which he had scooped up while they were sunning on the beach. "I'm writing a play. I don't suppose it's any good. Anybody can write a play. It's getting somebody to produce it that tells the tale. At that, I think I've got a good idea if I can only get it across."

Tony kept glancing sheepishly at her from time to time to see if she was interested. After a while he forgot and, carried away by enthusiasm, let the words tumble out, his eyes shining, his face flushed. "And so everything works out at the last curtain," he said at the end, and took a long breath.

Barbara's heart was racing. "It's a gorgeous idea!" she cried.

"You wouldn't kid your old man, would you, Mrs. Blake?" he stammered, squeezing her hand.

"Oh, Tony," whispered Barbara, "some day you'll be a rich and famous playwright."

Tony's eyes were blazing. "If I can put it over, we'll have the world at our feet. We'll travel and see everything and meet everybody."

Barbara winced. She did not want to meet any more people, but she wanted their marriage to be perfect. She lay there beside him on the beach, his head pillowed on her arm, and dreamed the dreams women in love have always dreamed. "Darling! Darling!" she whispered, because it was not difficult to say sentimental words when Tony was asleep. "I love you so, I love you so!"

Yet when she told Tony about her father's last illness and what a dreadful time she had, meeting all the responsibility alone, it was she whom Tony treated as a little girl, holding her close in his arms, smoothing back her tumbled hair, kissing her quivering lips. "No wonder you have a serious streak," he said. "Think of your going through all that by yourself. You've got backing from here on, sugar. I may not be so good at it, but I'll fight your battles after this."

It was queer how it pleased Tony when she betrayed any characteristic of the clinging vine. He was like that when they went into the ocean the second morning. Barbara had learned to swim at the Y.W.C.A. pool at home. She swam well, just as she did everything she attempted efficiently, but she was not used to the surf and it was very rough that day. She lost her footing, floundered, went under, and came up choking and terrified. "Tony laughed until he hurt. Nevertheless, he kept a firm clutch on her after that and he was careful not to let her have another mishap.

"Hang on to me, Skeezicks," he advised.

vised. "I'll see that you don't drown, s'help me." He teased her about the encounter, yet he liked it when she kept a grip on his arm.

From Barbara's viewpoint there was only one cloud on the horizon of her honeymoon and that was Tony's carelessness with money.

"But, Tony," she protested when he bought her an exquisite pair of blue bedroom slippers with tall silver heels, "I don't need them. I have a new pair, bought for the occasion."

Tony's eager face fell. Don't you like them?

"They're perfectly beautiful," she stammered. "I'm crazy about them. Only I'm afraid they were terribly expensive."

Tony grinned and chuckled her under the chin. "So that's what's worrying you," he said indulgently. "Forget it, sugar, expenses don't bother me."

Tony had taken a suite at the hotel and it was one of the most expensive hotels at the resort. Barbara hated to think of what it was costing and she was afraid to ask. It was true that the rooms were beautiful, and it was nice having most of their meals upstairs. She loved the little table set for two in the living room with Tony reaching across every so often to kiss her.

"But can we afford to keep eating up here?" she asked Tony. "I mean, isn't there an extra charge for room service?"

"Sure," said Tony, rumpling her hair, "but what the heck? This is our one and only honeymoon, sugar. So far as I'm concerned, the sky's the limit."

It was a gorgeous day. The sun was warm, but there was a brisk breeze off the water. No one came near them on the beach. Tony was dozing, his head in her lap. "If only we can hold our happiness, Tony," whispered Barbara. "If only it doesn't fly away!"

He took her hand, kissed the palm, and closed her fingers tightly upon the kiss. "And they lived happily ever afterward," he said.

"I'm afraid I'm a little possessive," faltered Barbara. "You know, sort of jealous of—of other people. But I'll try to get over it, honestly, Tony."

"Sure," said Tony, "and I'll try to develop some sense of responsibility because you like a guy to be practical don't you, kid?"

Tony laughed. "Better than Martin Fagg?"

"World's better!"

"That's my girl," murmured Tony, pouring a stream of sand through her fingers. "But just the same you wish I was more like Martin in some ways."

"I don't wish you were like anyone except yourself!" she cried loyally. "And so far as Martin Fagg is concerned, I hope I never set eyes on him again."

"Attagirl!" murmured Tony. "That fellow could get in my hair without half trying."

Barbara rested her cheek against him. "Don't worry," she whispered. "On our golden wedding anniversary I suspect I'll be as madly in love with you as I am today."

"Me, too," said Tony.

It was a little past the dinner hour when they returned to the hotel. Twilight had fallen and, clinging to Tony's arm, Barbara thought the world was a beautiful place, more beautiful than she had dreamed. Then they stepped into the lobby and a group of people who were having cocktails in the lounge spied them and descended upon them like a swarm of locusts. "Tony! Where on earth have you been?" they shouted. "We've been waiting hours for you and the bride to put in an appearance."

Hank Woods looked at Barbara and shook his head. "I guess you'd as soon see us as a case of smallpox," he said, "but the gang would come and I thought I might as well sign up with the rest."

"Well, what do you know about this?" Tony exclaimed, herding them all into the elevator. "Come up to the suite, bless your hearts!"

He ushered them in with a beaming smile. He went to the telephone and ordered cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. He clapped Hank on the back and when Wanda insisted on kissing him Tony did not appear to mind. Corine was there too, and another woman whom Barbara had not met before, but Tony acted terribly pleased to see her. "Where in the world did you come from, Gloria?" he demanded. "And how did you get in with this bunch of cutthroats?"

Gloria Havener smiled. She had a superb figure, as Barbara noted instantly, gorgeous red hair and creamy skin. She was exquisitely dressed. She definitely looked as if she had arrived at her goal. "Hadrn't you heard, Tony?" she asked in a luscious voice. "I'm recuperating in the old home town from a divorce."

"Another?" asked Tony with a chuckle. "How you do go on." He turned to Barbara. "You haven't met Miss Havener, have you, Bab? My wife, Gloria."

Barbara caught her breath. Gloria Havener was the local girl who had made good in a big way. Born of a very good family in Westhaven, Gloria had defied convention and had gone to New York when very young, determined to make an actress of herself. She did not get any place in the theater until she married Perry Carewe, the matinee idol.

He was twenty years older than she and already beginning to go downhill professionally, but his name was still magic at the box office and when he made Gloria his leading woman she took Broadway by storm. In three seasons she was an outstanding star. She divorced Carewe shortly afterward. His fortunes descended as rapidly as hers climbed. Everyone was astonished when she married Elwood Peale, a society man, and quit the theater. He too was considerable older than she, and although he was a millionaire nobody had expected Gloria Havener to abandon her career.

Tony appeared to know her quite well which surprised Barbara until he explained that Gloria and his sister Lily had gone to school together. "Oh!" exclaimed Barbara, drawing a breath of relief. "Then she must be nearly forty."

"I suppose so," admitted Tony, "though you'd never guess it." Tony finally noticed that his bride was not enjoying herself. "Sit down here, Skeezicks," he said, indicating a place on the divan between him and Miss Havener. "You'll love hearing Gloria talk."

Barbara's cheeks felt very hot, her hands like ice. She had been so happy that afternoon; now she felt quite desperate. Her eyes must have said so, for Hank suddenly got to his feet. "Time to shove off, folks," he announced. Tony went downstairs to see them off. Barbara did not go along.

Tony was whistling when he returned but he stopped at sight of Barbara's face. "What's the matter, sugar?" he exclaimed.

Barbara began to cry. He took her into his arms. He kissed her and murmured little soothing words. Barbara sobbed it all out upon his shoulder. "We were so happy, she wailed, "and then—and then—oh, Tony, however are you going to pay the hotel bill?"

Tony chuckled. "Is that what's got you down, sugar?"

"It took the last bill in your pocket to pay for the cocktails, I saw it."

Tony took his billfold out of his pocket and opened it. Do you see what I see?" he inquired. The billfold was stuffed with greenbacks.

"Where on earth!" cried Barbara weakly.

Between laughs Tony explained. He had sold Martin Fagg's wedding present for enough to get them safely home.

"But, Tony, how could you?"

"You said you never wanted to see it or him again."

"I know, but—" Barbara hesitated. "It seems a dirty trick to play on Martin."

Tony's gray eyes danced. "If you ask me, he got off light. I might have punched his nose for sending my wife anything that expensive. Not sure, are you, Skeezicks?"

Barbara looked up into his face. "No," she said breathlessly. "Though

Down to Earth...

GARDENING for the fun of it—week-end trips in the old family jalopy—lazy days fishing by the river—these things still stand for a pleasant way of life—a way of life our men overseas are fighting for today! They won't be able to come back to these simple things, unless we get "down to earth" in our thinking, and make sure when they do come back, their dollar will be worth a dollar!

To protect that dollar, we must realize now, the dangers of careless, unnecessary buying! We must buy only what we need—never buy two where one will do! We must not evade rationing or price control, or deal in black markets. If we break these rules, our country—the country our soldiers are fighting for—will start on that spiral of prices known as inflation.

And inflation affects everyone...

wage-earner, pensioner, small-business owner, returned soldier! That's why it's important to take a stand against it now. If inflation starts in this country, this is what will happen. Prices will rise. Wages will try to follow along—and will never quite catch up! Soon your dollar—your soldier's dollar—may buy only 25% of the things it used to! That is what has happened in many of the countries of the world today, and that is why normal living for anyone is impossible in those countries!

So let's make sure our soldier's dollar, when he gets back, will be worth a full dollar. We cannot give back to him his lost years or lost youth. But if we keep up the fight against inflation, the man who is overseas can look forward to pleasant, satisfying living... to the Canadian way of life!

Published by THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO) to reveal the dangers of inflation.

Make this Pledge Today!

I pledge myself to do my part in fighting inflation:

By observing rationing and avoiding black markets in any shape or form.

By respecting price controls and other anti-inflation measures, and refraining from careless and unnecessary buying. I will not buy two where one will do, nor will I buy a "new" where an "old" will do.

By buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps, supporting taxation, and abiding by all such measures which will lower the cost of living and help keep prices at a normal level.

MRS. PETER PALMER

The many friends and relatives of Mrs. Rosebush and the late Hiram Rosebush were shocked to learn of the sudden death of their eldest daughter, Mrs. Peter Palmer (Alice), of Simpson, Sask., on March 14th, 1945. The deceased was born in Sidney Township fifty-six years ago last October, and lived all the early part of her life in River Valley, near Stirling, Ont. A little over twenty-years ago, she, her husband and family left for Gervin, Sask., later moving to Simpson. The deceased was stricken with septic anaemia and only lived twenty hours after reaching the hospital in Regina, where she died.

Being of a kindly and friendly disposition, she was a great favourite of all who knew her. She was not only a wonderful homemaker, a good mother and a great lover of flowers, but also an active church and community worker. She leaves to mourn for her, her husband, three sons and one daughter and two grandchildren. Gordon, married and living at Simpson; Bob and Donald, at home; Marguerite, a nurse from Regina Hospital, now taking a degree course at McGill University, Montreal; her mother, Mrs. H. Rosebush, five sisters, and two bro-

A large funeral was held at Simpson United Church on March 19th, from where the deceased was buried.

HANCE COSBEY

The death of Hance Cosbey occurred suddenly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woodbeck, John St., where he was boarding, at noon on Friday last.

The late Mr. Cosbey was born in Sidney Township the son of the late James Cosbey and his wife, Margaret Reid, and was in his 68th year. He was a carpenter by trade and had spent his entire lifetime in the community, where he was well and favourably known. In religion he was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

He leaves to mourn, one son, Bert, of Jackson, Mich., and four sisters, Mrs. Sealey, of Ivanhoe; Mrs. Wm. Linn, of Marmora; Mrs. Chas. Bailey, of Foxboro, and Mrs. Geo. McCutcheon, of this village. His wife predeceased him some years ago.

The funeral took place from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Geo. McCutcheon, on Monday afternoon, with service being conducted by Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. David Gray, of St. Paul's United Church.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Harper Rollins, Arthur Gordanier, Hector Eggleton, Percy Craighead, Thos. J. McGee and Arthur Juby.

SEELEY—DUNHAM

A very pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized Saturday afternoon, March 24, at two p.m., at Rawdon United manse with Rev. T. F. Townsend, B.A., B.D., officiating, when Margaret Bernice Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham, of Wellmans, became the bride of Byron Amos Seeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seeley, of Shannonville.

The bride was a charming picture in a gown of dawn pink sheer. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ira Alt-house, of Peterborough, wearing a frock of dusty rose sheer. Both girls wore corsages of sweet-peas in varied colors.

The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Murray Seeley, of Shannonville.

Following the ceremony, the bride donned a suit of blue with black accessories. The happy couple left by motor for Port Hope, Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside at Bonarlaw where the groom is engaged as cheesemaker.

BONARLAW

Miss Lulu Brown, who has been visiting her brother, Dr. Chapman Brown, in Toronto, for some time returned here on Monday of this week. She plans to return to the city however in the near future to reside there permanently.

The Palm Sunday service was held in St. Mark's Church at 3 p.m., conducted by Rev. J. M. Brownlie, assisted by W. J. Cottrell, of Marmora. Mr. Brownlie preached an appropriate and inspiring sermon. J. F. Baker sang "The Palms."

PURE BRED STOCK KILLED

WHEN TWO BARNS BURN

A $35,000 fire destroyed two large barns on the farm of William Wilson at Roseneath, and with them claimed a number of purebred cattle and horses, a quantity of hay and grain and farm implements. A short circuit was blamed for the blaze.

Mr. Wilson was overcome by smoke while trying to free the livestock and had to be dragged from one of the barns. He had only taken over the farm in the past week.

I'm sure I ought to be." Tony stooped and kissed her and her arms crept up about his neck.

It was queer going back to the office as soon as they reached home the next morning. Tony went off whistling on a story to which he had been assigned, stopping on the way out to kiss Barbara while the whole place applauded.

Barbara could scarcely wait for twelve o'clock. She and Tony had agreed that they would not attempt to get lunch at home, since Barbara had only an hour. They thought it would be simpler to buy sandwiches across the street from the office as usual. Tony would lunch with her every day if possible. Of course he had no such regular hours as hers. He reported to the office every morning, but he was likely to be out on a story from then on.

BETHEL W. A.

The members of the Bethel Woman's Association met Thursday morning, March 22nd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Heath, with a splendid attendance.

The activity of the day was quilting—a very pleasant noon hour was spent when all had dinner together.

A worship service was led by the President, Mrs. Don Heath. Mrs. Harold Elliott was at the piano and all sang the Theme Song and joined in the Lord's Prayer.

The Bible lesson of the Trial of Jesus before Pilate and the Crucifixion was read from Mark 15, by Mrs. F. Leacock.

Mrs. D. Heath brought a challenge to Christian women to make the messages of Good Friday and Easter real—the woe of Calvary and the Joy of Eastertide.

Mrs. E. McKeown gave a solo—"What Will You Do With Jesus?" All sang, "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

The Secretary read the Minutes of former meeting and a letter of appreciation from a member who had been ill.

A splendid financial report was presented by the Treasurer, Mrs. H. Elliott.

Fruit was being sent to Mrs. Jas. Warren and Mrs. Ray Shortt in hospital.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas McMullen. All joined in words of Benediction.

POOR TRAPPING SEASON

Muskrat trappers have not reported any great success. The warm nights are not conducive to good trapping and as a result the haul this year is likely to be comparatively small.
